Zinc-Copper Lode Found In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gov. Patrick J. Lucey directed state agencies Thursday to gear up for the development of what could be a major zinc-copper deposit in northern Wisconsin's Forest County.

Lucey asked agencies involved in economic development and environmental protection to cooperate in "bringing new mining jobs to the North while protecting the interests of the area's communities and environment." Discovery of the deposit about six miles south of Crandon was announced Thursday by Exxon USA, a division of the Exxon Corp.

In a statement issued in Houston, Tex., the company said that while considerably more exploratory drilling was needed, "early indications are that it could be a major discovery, ranking among the top 10 known massive copper sulfide deposits in North America."

Lucey's directives went to cabinet Secretaries William Kidd, business development; Anthony Earl, natural resources; David Adamany, revenue; and William Bechtel, local affairs and development. The governor expressed concern that the potential economic benefits from the deposit "be shared in a fair and equitable manner and that locally qualified residents be the first considered for new jobs."

Lucey said state government would provide Exxon with necessary information and assistance while fulfilling its responsibility to Forest County citizens. "Efforts will be made to ensure that local governments and the state receive a fair share of the revenue and job development benefits from a discovery of this magnitude," Lucey said.

Lucey ordered the Revenue Department to begin an immediate review of the state mineral taxation laws and to make recommendations for legislative revisions.

He said mineral taxation changes proposed in the 1975-77 session failed because of a legislative deadlock. "The need for a major overhaul of our mineral taxation laws is even more pressing than before," he said. "State officials have a serious responsibility to assure that our citizens are fairly compensated for the value of these resources."

At the same time, the state "must prepare for a time when extractable mineral supplies have been exhausted, leaving social and economic problems behind," Lucey said.

New Uranium Hunt To Begin In U.P.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Tests for uranium deposits are set to begin this spring on some 200,000 acres of Upper Peninsula land purchased jointly by the Tennessee Valley Authority and a subsidiary of International Nickel Co.

The mineral rights were quietly purchased last spring from the Ford Motor Co., officials confirmed Thursday. Officials believe the land may contain valuable uranium deposits and test boring is set for this spring on some of the tracts. Trenching, or digging through glacial deposits to the bedrock, has already begun in areas of Baraga and Marquette counties where most of the 200,000 acres lie, officials said. Other tracts extend into Iron County.

Altogether, the scattered acreage totals more than 300 square miles.

Uranium never has been mined in the U.P. though small low-grade deposits have been found. Until recently, it was not considered profitable to mine those deposits. But dwindling supplies from mines in New Mexico and Wyoming, growing need for uranium to fuel nuclear power plants, and an eight-fold leap in the ore's value since 1973 have apparently made the U.P. more attractive.

"This is the most grassroots wildcat venture we've gone into," said Allan T. Mullins, chief of the TVA's nuclear raw materials branch, in a telephone interview. "We're taking a great risk up there. We're in an area that's never produced uranium."

"There are companies that have been in and out of the U.P. at least twice that I know of. We could cancel our program in a year, yet two years later we might be back up there 40 miles away. It's such a tremendously large area that has received such a limited amount of exploration for uranium that you don't condemn an area that size without a lot of detailed work," said Mullins.

TVA is a federally owned electric power company which serves some 2.5 million households in parts of seven states. TVA officials say they are looking for uranium to fuel 17 nuclear generating units it plans to have operating by 1985. International Nickel, through its Milwaukee subsidiary American Copper and Nickel Co., says it is looking mainly for nickel and copper, but thinks uranium may be minable from the rocky U.P. land as well.

GRAND JURY INDICTS 3 FOR MURDER!

Suspects Demand Hearings In 1973 Shotgunning Of BH Grocer

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Three men indicted by the Berrien citizens' grand jury were arrested yesterday on open murder charges stemming from the 1973 shooting of Benton Harbor grocer Sam Baum.

The three had been arrested by police on murder charges the day after the shooting but the charges were dismissed when key prosecution witnesses failed to testify in court.

Arrested were Arnos Ray Jr., 26, of 370 Walnut avenue, Benton township; Nathaniel Johnson, 22, and Nathaniel Johnson, 20, both of 555 Pearl street, Benton Harbor. The Johnsons are brothers.

All demanded examination when arraigned before Berrien Fifth District Judge Leo K. Cook and were jailed without bond.

Baum, 55, was shot with a shotgun at close range April 23, 1973, while operating his grocery store at 431 Rifford street. Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smietanka said Baum was killed during an apparent armed robbery attempt.

Anthony Johnson was arrested yesterday at the county jail, where he had previously been lodged to await trial in circuit court on a delivery of heroin charge. A grand jury investigator said Ray and Nathaniel Johnson were arrested Thursday afternoon in Benton Harbor and offered no resistance.

"We're extremely happy the case is back in court where it belongs," Smietanka stated, adding the same witnesses who previously declined to testify in court testified before the grand jury.

Assistant Prosecutor Michael Morris, who heads the grand jury probe, echoed Smietanka's feelings and added: "This was a classic case for the grand jury because of the secrecy and cooperation of witnesses. This case is probably more gratifying than most, although I'm happy with the work of the grand jury so far."

Morris added there is still an outstanding "John Doe" murder warrant from 1973 for a fourth man allegedly involved in the shooting. A John Doe warrant is issued when the name of a suspect is not known but sufficient evidence of his involvement justifies a warrant, Smietanka explained.

Police originally said there did not appear to be any money missing from Baum's grocery since a cash register containing $50 was undisturbed and money was found in two other places in the store. They said there was no evidence of a struggle, but Baum may have offered resistance.

A pathologist's report said Baum was killed when struck in the side by a shotgun blast fired from only inches away. Smietanka yesterday said no murder weapon has yet been found.

Police previously said that in addition to the money in the register, a box containing 11 pounds of change was found near the register, and almost $12 was found in Baum's pants pocket.

In dismissing the charges against the three in 1973, former Prosecutor Ronald J. Taylor said key witnesses "apparently have decided they don't wish to become involved."

Yesterday, Smietanka noted: "Three years ago we began the prosecution but stopped because witnesses failed to testify. Now those witnesses have come forward and testified before the grand jury, and we hope to prosecute the case in a successful conclusion."

"We hope witnesses to crimes will always have the courage to step forward and testify," the prosecutor added.

The Baum family had operated the grocery on Rifford for about 35 years in the area formerly known as Little Brooklyn. The store was closed shortly after Baum's murder.

Baum joined his mother in the operation of the store just before 1940. He was in the Army in World War II and returned to

Van Buren Prosecutor Named Probate Judge

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Van Buren Prosecutor Frank D. Willis announced this morning that he has been appointed probate court judge for Van Buren county effective June 7.

Willis said he received a call from Gov. William Milliken about 9:30 a.m. today advising him of the appointment.

Willis said he told the governor, "I hope I can live up to the trust you are placing in me."

Willis will replace Judge Meyer Warshawsky who has filed in as acting probate judge since his appointment to the Van Buren Circuit court bench in January. Warshawsky, who has been probate judge since 1970, moved up to the circuit bench when Judge David Anderson Jr. retired in January.

Willis' appointment is for a term to last until the end of this year. If he wants to remain in office, he will have to run for election to a six-year term in November.

Willis said he hoped he could perform as well as Warshawsky had in the post. At 30, Willis becomes one of the youngest probate judges in the state. The post pays $28,499 a year.

Willis said the governor decided to delay the effective date of his appointment for three weeks because Prosecutor Willis currently is trying one case in circuit court and will begin another May 25.

Others who had been considered for the post included South Haven attorneys William Hoyer and Ray Barrett.

Both of Willis' assistants, George Dunn and Ward (Steve) Hamlin Jr., have indicated to him they are interested in the prosecuting attorney's post, Willis said.

The appointment to fill the prosecutor job will be made by Judge Warshawsky, the prosecutor added.

A graduate of the University of Florida law school, Willis was appointed prosecutor in December, 1974. He replaced William Buhl, who had been named Seventh District court judge in Paw Paw. Willis had joined the prosecutor's staff in September, 1973.

He is a native of Marshall and is a former school teacher. He earned his bachelor's degree at Western Michigan university, Kalamazoo.

Willis and his wife, Bobbi, have two children and live in Paw Paw.

Hauch Won't Run Again For Lincoln Supervisor

Ernest Hauch, Lincoln township supervisor announced this morning he will not seek re-election to the post he has held for the past six years in this year's township election.

Hauch, 62, was first elected supervisor on the Republican ticket in 1970, replacing Rep. Harry Gast Jr., who was first elected to the State House that same year.

In making his announcement, Hauch told this newspaper, "It's just come time to take some time off." He said the duties as supervisor in one of the county's fastest developing townships, have become too time consuming for him. "I'd like to take it easy for awhile, and spend some more time with my family."

Hauch will remain on as supervisor until after the general election in November. Hauch owned and operated Ernie's Market in Stevensville for 23 years, before selling it in 1968. During this time he was active in the Stevensville Merchants association.

Born in Bridgman in 1914, he graduated from Bridgman high school and Berrien County Normal (a former teacher training school). He taught school for two years at the old Oak Forrest school in Bertrand township. He has been a resident of Lincoln township for the past 26 years. Hauch has been active in township affairs for many years and also is an active member of St. Paul's Lutheran church, Stevensville. He and his wife, Doris, reside at 4639 Cleveland avenue. They have three grown children, a son, and two daughters.

Deadline for filing petitions for any township office is 4 p.m. June 1. Petitions may be obtained at the township hall, Stevensville.

New Look At JFK Killing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Why did Lee Harvey Oswald kill President John F. Kennedy more than a dozen years ago will be one of the first questions to face a proposed new Senate committee that would watch over the workings of U.S. intelligence agencies. The Senate intelligence committee voted Thursday to recommend that the proposed new panel conduct an investigation into the never officially answered question of why Oswald shot Kennedy as the President rode in a motorcade through Dallas, Tex., on Nov. 22, 1963. Sen. Richard Schweiker, a member of a two-man subcommittee looking into the role of spy agencies in the Kennedy assassination, said the investigation had turned up "some very interesting questions and some new material" about intelligence agency actions during the time of the Kennedy slaying. But about the assassination itself, he said, "we didn't attempt to determine who did it."

William C. Heyn Seeks 3rd Term

Berrien County Treasurer William C. Heyn today announced he will seek re-election on the Republican ticket in the Aug. 3 primary.

Heyn, 63, will be seeking his third full term as treasurer. A resident of Bridgman, Heyn has previously served as county drain commissioner and as a Lake township official.

Heyn pledged to keep surplus county funds invested and earning the highest possible interest rates, and noted during his first seven years in office total earnings were slightly more than $6.5 million.

DART, Parks Ride On SJ Township Vote

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

St. Joseph township residents Tuesday will vote on three separate property tax issues amounting to 2.25 mills.

One-half mill is on the ballot to finance park improvements for four years. Another one-half mill is a separate proposition to provide the township's subsidy for Dial-A-Ride bus service for two years. As reported in yesterday's article, 1.25 mills are on the ballot for police protection.

The township last year levied 4.5 mills. If all three proposals pass, the township levy would increase to 6.75 mills.

The township board has indicated that if the Dial-A-Ride millage is rejected, the township will pull out of the Twin Cities

Area Transportation Authority which operates Dial-A-Ride. Supervisor Orval Benson has said he supports the police and

Second Of Three Articles

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three articles on ballot issues in St. Joseph township for Tuesday's election. Today's account covers extra voted tax levies for improvement of parks and Dial-A-Ride bus service. The first article was on tax millage for police protection and the final article will be on a straw vote on the 1-94 penetrator.

parks millage but is taking no stand on Dial-A-Ride.

Pending the outcome of the Dial-A-Ride vote, St. Joseph township has agreed to pay its support for the bus service, up to $19,200 a year. Statistics released last month by Dial-A-Ride indicate 9,974 St. Joseph township residents have used the buses since Sept. 1, 1975. This compares to 50,518 in Benton Harbor; 32,244 in Benton township; and 15,955 in St. Joseph city.

The development of township-owned parks has been spearheaded by a parks committee, headed by Frank Yurcus. The township operating budget earmarks $40,830 for park improvements. The millage would add about $26,500 a year.

The largest parks are Eaton park, off Lincoln avenue on the west side of the St. Joseph river, and Carronde park in Fairplain, on the St. Joseph river off Lu-Al drive. Yurcus said most of the tax would be used to develop the 19-acre Carronde park. Proposed are three tennis courts, a softball field, ice skating rink, all purpose building and restrooms. Carronde has a boat ramp on the river.

The 22-acre Eaton park is a thriving recreation spot that now includes four ball diamonds and three tennis courts, as well as playground and picnic areas. An expanded equipment building is the main project sought here, Yurcus said.

Another park to be developed is at a site of the proposed new township hall and fire station off Washington avenue, near Nelson road. At a future time, Yurcus said efforts would be made to acquire additional park lands, including the Hickory creek area, where hiking paths might be installed.

Winston Minott is guilty of misfeasance in public office by virtue of his individual and collective attempts to encroach upon the powers and responsibilities delegated/assigned to the office of the City Manager by the charter for the City of Benton Harbor.

He has persistently, willfully, and intentionally sought to interfere with the administrative functioning of the city's government and city personnel in the performance of their duties by seeking to both directly and indirectly influence the operating facets of city government.

It is the responsibility of the Commission to ensure that all employees who are appointed perform their jobs in a professional and ethical manner. The charter states that the City Manager shall be hired and terminated by the Commission at its pleasure.

Charles Morrison submitted his written resignation to the Commission on June 10, 1975, and never requested that it not be accepted or indicated a desire to continue. My vote was to recall the City Manager's contract was further supported by numerous citizen complaints regarding his failure to respond to services requested.

My oath of office was to serve the public and not any special interest groups.

STATEMENT OF PETITIONERS OF REASONS FOR DEMANDING THE RECALL OF ALFRED WILLIAMS FROM THE OFFICE OF 4TH WARD COMMISSIONER OF THE CITY OF BENTON HARBOR

STATEMENT OF COMMISSIONER ALFRED WILLIAMS JUSTIFICATION OF HIS CONDUCT IN OFFICE

Being an elected official, the charges against me for misfeasance is a false and misleading statement. Stating that I have persistently and willfully and intentionally sought to interfere with the administrative functions of the City government is also false.

The statement about me harassing and intimidating the employees of the city is a lie.

Being guilty of nepotism is a willful and malicious lie because I have no relation by blood or marriage working for the city.

I did not wage a campaign against the former City Manager Mr. Morrison showed by his actions that he had very little respect or any at all for the city of Benton Harbor, it is incidents at the City Commission when he, Mr. Morrison, walked out of a Commission meeting. This is what caused my decision and he did not come back to the Commission and gave any indication that he wanted to stay with the City of Benton Harbor.

Therefore, all of the charges contained in the recall petition filed against me are false and are an apparent conspiracy to discredit me by releasing false information to the public.

termine the fate of Mayor Charles F. Joseph and four city commissioners when they go to the polls Tuesday for the first recall election in the city's history.

MRS. BARBARA HUCKABY

The election climaxes several months of political turmoil following the termination of Charles Morrison's contract as city manager last December.

Polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

At stake in the election will be the seats held by Joseph and Commissioners Barbara Huckaby, Charles Shepherd, Winston Minott and Alfred Williams.

Mrs. Huckaby, Shepherd and Williams were members of Joseph's "Clean Slate" team during the municipal election last year. Minott, the mayor pro-tem, was not involved in the election, but has supported the "Clean Slate" bloc in commission voting.

All voters will cast ballots on the recall of Joseph and Mrs. Huckaby, a commissioner-at-large. In addition, separate recall propositions will be on the ballot for Shepherd in the Second Ward, for Minott in the Third Ward and for Williams in the Fourth Ward.

The recall election was forced by a petition campaign spearheaded by Maurice Bishop, former Commissioner Carl Brown and Morgan Hager Jr.

The recall leaders obtained 967 signatures on petitions calling for the recall of Joseph and 869 on petitions for Mrs. Huckaby. Only 651 signatures were needed for the two-city wide posts.

More than the minimum number of signatures also were obtained on petitions calling for recall of the three ward commissioners.

Election machines in Tuesday's election will contain statements by petitioners of reasons for demanding the recall of the mayor and commissioners and responses by each justifying their conduct in office.

Identical statements charge Joseph and the four commissioners with encroaching upon the powers and responsibility of the city manager, interfering with the administration of city government and city personnel, encouraging situations which create conflict of interest, nepotism and political patronage, and waging a campaign of libel and insinuation against Morrison that resulted in his termination.

Each of the five recall targets denies the charges in statements of justification and all but Williams contend that Morrison submitted his resignation last June and never requested that it not be accepted.

Joseph, 40, of 1151 Broadway, is serving his fifth year as mayor after winning a second four-year term last November. He is on leave from Whirlpool corporation, where he was manager of urban affairs.

Mrs. Huckaby, 37, of 151 Seales, is in her first year on the commission. She is a manager for H & H Construction company.

Shepherd, 42, of 860 Bishop, also is in his first year as a commissioner. He is an insurance salesman for Prudential Insurance of America.

Minott, 52, of 980 Bishop, is serving his third year on the commission. He is employed at National Motors in South Haven.

Williams, 68, of 760 Wauconda, is in his second year on the commission. He is retired.

Although no rival candidates will appear on the recall ballot, three individuals have announced their intention of seeking office if the recall is successful.

Cornelius Bass, a Whirlpool executive, has announced that he intends to seek the mayor's office if Joseph is recalled.

Other announced candidates are Norval Weiss for the commissioner-at-large seat held by Mrs. Huckaby and Nate Robinson for the Third Ward seat held by Minott.

Polling places for Tuesday's election:

First Ward — first precinct, Calvin Britain school; second precinct, senior high school.

CHARLES SHEPHERD

WINSTON MINOTT

ALFRED WILLIAMS

Recall Vacancies Filled This Way

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Five members of the Benton Harbor city commission are on recall ballots in next Tuesday's election. Here is the procedure for filling vacant seats if any or all of the five commissioners are recalled. Berrien County Clerk Forrest Kesterke listed these steps:

1) If less than five of the commission members are recalled, the Benton Harbor charter provides that the remaining commission members may make temporary appointments to fill the vacancy or vacancies. (Five is a quorum on the nine-member commission.)

2) If all five officials on the recall ballots are recalled, state law provides that Gov. William Milliken may make temporary appointments to at least give the commission a quorum so regular business may be transacted.

3) The temporary appointees

would serve until a special election can be called on the seats vacated by recall. Within five days of receiving certification of the recall, the city clerk shall call an election to fill any vacancy created by recall. The election would be on the state primary election date, Aug. 3.

4) Candidates elected to fill the seats of recalled officials would serve the balance of the terms of the recalled officials.

The Benton Harbor city commission has nine members. Five constitute a quorum capable of exercising all powers, except vacating streets, buying or selling land. These powers include appointments to fill vacancies on the commission.

Special Day

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — May 23 will be Foster Grandparents Day in Michigan, Gov. William Milliken has announced.

Milliken said the day will honor 400 Michigan senior citizens who participate in the Federal Foster Grandparent Program, working with children and young adults who are in institutions throughout the state.

Recall Leader Hits BH Police Layoffs

Benton Harbor recall leader Maurice Bishop today blamed slow police response in answering a burglar alarm at his business on the city's recent layoff of 14 policemen.

Bishop said he accidentally tripped the alarm at his All Time Pest Control, 757 East Main street, and it took "six or seven minutes" for police to arrive "rather than the usual two minutes."

"A man could have been in and out of there in that time," Bishop said. "They (the police) used to be right on the money."

WHFB Studies Crime Problem

A series of interviews with top law enforcement officials on the crime problem in Berrien county will be aired next week, beginning Monday, over Station WHFB.

Newscaster Jack Kelly, who will conduct the taped interviews, said the series is in response to a survey conducted by WHFB that indicated crime is the No. 1 concern of the area's residents.

Conducted in documentary style to draw out the personal reflections and suggestions of the interviewees, the program will feature one official each day as a part of the 12 Noon news broadcast and again during the 5:30 p.m. news.

The officials appearing on the series, and the day each will be presented, are as follows:

Monday, John Smetanka, Berrien county prosecutor; Tuesday, Forrest (Nick) Jewell, Berrien sheriff; Wednesday, Andrew Rodez, Benton Harbor police chief; Thursday, Joe Sieber, Benton township police chief; Friday, Tom Gillespie, St. Joseph police chief; Saturday, Lt. Carl Hulander, commander of Benton Harbor state police post; Sunday, Tom Sinn and William Geb

Let's Turn It On Tuesday For Jerry

Though probably not one Democrat in a hundred would agree with the statement, Ronald Reagan is a solid citizen.

Where Richard Nixon failed to stage a comeback in his home state following the 1960 Presidential loss to John F. Kennedy, Reagan subsequently upset a powerful Democratic machine and a highly popular Governor, Edmund Brown, Sr., to pull California back from the brink of economic disaster and political bankruptcy.

Even so, Reagan's initial success in the Sacramento statehouse flattened out and his guidance of the Republican state organization left enough to be desired so that once he stepped aside, the Golden Bear state once more became a scalp dangling from the Democratic tepee.

His role as a national spokesman for conservatives of all partisan persuasion has been much less illuminating and considerably more sporadic than that of Barry Goldwater.

This erratic record to the contrary, Reagan has outdistanced President Ford in the Republican primary scramble for delegate voting power at July's national convention. Reagan's first dueling with Ford started out disastrously on a pitch that nearly a quarter of the annual federal budget should be funneled back to the states and local governments.

The first test of the idea in the New Hampshire primary indicated most people realized it could only lead to a higher income tax and worse boondoggling of federal aid money than now plagues the countryside.

When following primaries gave Ford a comfortable lead over Reagan the ex-governor realized he would have to take a different tack.

He has done it, skillfully in recent weeks, by drumming away on two sensitive areas in foreign policy.

One is keeping peace as best it can be done with the ever aggressive Russian government.

The other is the thorny Panama Canal problem.

In effect, Reagan is saying that détente or any imitation of it should be thrown out the door and if it appears expedient to land the Marines in the Canal Zone, don't hesitate.

Stopping short of personally accusing Ford of selling out Uncle Sam, he puts up Dr. Henry Kissinger, the one-man gang in the State Department, as a straw opponent.

The West Virginia Republicans did not buy this dangerous bag of fireworks, but the Hoosiers, Texans and Nebraskans went for it in a big way.

Or, as the post mortem tallies on those primaries seem to point, too many people who think it wise to look before one leaps failed to show at the polls.

If memory serves us correctly, Lyndon Johnson drubbed Barry Goldwater and gave the Republican party its worst defeat ever in 1964 because, among other things, the public tabbed the Arizona Senator as a hip shooter.

Slandorous as was the accusation, the fact remains that Goldwater had couched numerous criticisms on trying to melt a cold war by negotiation.

For campaign purposes between now and the July convention, Reagan has gone Goldwater one better.

The other day Governor Milliken quite properly commented on the folly of rattling a sabre as introductory to threading one's way through complex foreign situations.

It may be all well and good for one African nation to potshot at a neighbor.

A well aimed rifle can only down one opponent a shot at a time.

When world powers like Russia and the U.S. have nuclear weapons in the ready position, it is the better part of valor to try to talk things out before pushing the panic button.

Admittedly, Reagan's simplistic message of recent weeks finds a receptive audience.

This includes Jerry Ford.

The difference between him and Reagan is that Ford knows the consequences of leaping before looking.

And to Ford's credit, he is not resorting to the dangerous rhetoric being tossed out by his opponent.

If the Republicans want to lose in November, they should adopt Reagan as their standardbearer because whether Jimmy Carter or somebody else heads up the Democrats, they will crucify the Californian as a hip shooter just as they did Goldwater 12 years ago.

We hope Michigan's Republicans will size up this suicidal course better than some others have done lately.

They Suggested 'His Superfluous Excellency'

For a long time vice presidents were the butts of frequent jokes in the broadcasting field. Perhaps this was to be expected in a field which is itself chock full of vice presidents.

Social or civic organizations frequently confer the title of vice president in an honorary sense. It is a tradition carried over from government.

When the founding fathers were discussing the post of vice president they didn't think the office was too important. In fact, it was suggested the title of "his superfluous excellency" be bestowed upon the occupant of the office.

George Mason, who helped write the Constitution, objected heatedly to establishment of the office. George Clinton, who opposed the Constitution, declared there was no valid reason for a vice president.

The first vice president, John Adams, characterized his post as "the most insignificant office that ever invention of man contrived."

In the nation's history, eight vice presidents succeeded to the presidency by reason of deaths of the presidents, and one because of presidential resignation. Four of these — Theodore Roosevelt, Coolidge, Truman and Johnson — were elected to the presidency to succeed themselves.

When Teddy Roosevelt was nominated for vice president, he wrote to Leonard Wood, "By the time you have received this, you will have learned from the daily press that I have been forced to take the veil."

Vice President Marshall said, "The vice president is like a man in a cataplectic state."

In recent years Americans have been paying more serious attention to the office. But Vice President Rockefeller is living proof that its duties are still ill-defined and its responsibilities virtually nonexistent.

BH Band Parents Concerned About Unruly Parade Crowds

Mr. Don Young, President Blossomtime, Incorporated 311 Colfax Benton Harbor

Dear Mr. Young:

Each year the bands of the Benton Harbor school district look forward to participating in the Blossomtime activities. Highlighting the festivities are the two parades — the Kiddies Parade and the Blossomtime Parade. Being able to share with other bands and participants in this joyful celebration is, indeed, a fulfilling and educational experience for all.

The Benton Harbor Band Parents organization shares its concerns with the community over the events at the Kiddies Parade this year. An unruly crowd of children and young people converging on the Benton Harbor and Fairplain 7th and 8th grade center bands and breaking their ranks, detracted from the appearance of both bands and was frustrating to band members, band personnel, parents and other spectators.

As Benton Harbor band parents we would like to support a more positive action in insuring a safe route for all participants and an enjoyable activity for all through better crowd control by proper authorities.

We support and appreciate the Blossomtime activities and prefer that the tradition which has been established over many years within the Twin Cities will continue for future generations.

'MICHIGAN VOTERS HAVE MORE SAVVY'

Editor, After years of working within the political process I find it very difficult to understand the electorate.

After complaining bitterly about the lack of knowledge of a candidate, they now have one whose life and habits were subjected to a most intensive investigation such as has never before been conducted on a public figure.

So they vote for a candidate who gives a pretty speech. Thank goodness, Michigan voters have more savvy. They'll vote for the candidate whose integrity has been proven.

Bee Lackey Paw Paw

SEN. PERCY TRIPS PRESIDENT'S HAND

Editor, The untold story of his campaign has thus far eluded the press and voters, alike, although it was unwittingly exposed on March 24. It started last fall when VP Rockefeller announced he was removing himself from consideration as the 1976 VP candidate. Ford made no effort to dissuade him and then helped the scenario along by discussing lists of "possible" VP candidates, which, of course, failed to mention Rockefeller.

The plan worked beautifully in the early primaries where many staunch conservatives who would have gagged on the mere suggestion of a renewal of the Ford-Rockefeller ticket naively swallowed the VP's statement and were found firmly in the President's corner on primary day.

But, alas, the beans were spilled by the President's staunch supporter, Sen. Charles aboard Air Force One, who can doubt his word?

There you have it, Conservatives of Michigan: thanks to the candor of Sen. Percy, Rocky's low profile has been clearly explained. We did not have this information before the Illinois primary, but the conservatives of Michigan will have no such excuse. A vote for President Ford is a vote for Rockefeller as VP and, perhaps, eventually as President.

I urge support of Gov. Reagan — a man who effectively proved in California that he has two abilities not possessed by our present leaders and so necessary to our survival. Reagan knows 1) how to balance a budget, and 2) how to get positive action by going directly to the people when a legislative body thwarts his efforts to bring common sense to government. Both of these things must be done if we are to turn this nation from its present heading, plunge toward self-destruction.

James G. Schneider Attorney-at-Law Kankakee, Ill.

Jerry Brown: New Redeemer

BALTIMORE — One sees it clearly in the faces of his audiences. Awe. It is the look of the bourgeoisie in the presence of, quote, HIM, and quote. Once it was Ted Kennedy, then George McGovern, and, more recently, Jimmy Carter. Now it is Jerry Brown, 38-year-old governor of California, and candidate for president; those who flock to him this late primary season are engaged in the familiar ritual of anointing yet another god of politics.

Oh, yes, say those with the ois, surely this is him for whom we have long waited. He is young and handsome and he cares for us very much. Those in attendance nod their heads vigorously when he gives an opinion, laugh heartily when he makes a small joke. Women reach out to touch him, men are given new hope. The redeemer is here — so sayeth the television, so sayeth the newspapers, and, for sure, so sayeth the 38-year-old California governor.

Quiet, he is about to speak. "We must lower our expectations."

What did he say? He said: less is more. Hallelujah!

It is, of course, not yet apparent how long the instant congregation will genuflect at the feet of redeemer Brown. The United States has entered into one of its rare moods of shifting outlook, and redeemers seem to be coming in and going out with the regularity of crabs in the Chesapeake. Indeed, the redeemer business is temporary at best.

But never mind the hazards of godheads. Brown is for the moment the way of the light. When he campaigns in Maryland, the faithful say, the planes at the airport refuse to fly. Hold, he is ready to address us again. He is radiant in a dark suit, gray sideburns, and a bit of hair falling boyishly against his eyebrow. "The vibes," he says, are good. "Planetary realism," he says, is the answer. There is a gentle stirring in the crowd, and agreement he is absolutely right.

"There is a lot of verbal cellophane around," he says. Right on.

"It's time for creative non-action."

Amen. And suddenly a man in the back is reminded of a poem. "The hills will be made of marble," he says, "the machines will ever get tired, nobody will ever grow old." By damn, the good feeling is as thick as smog in the San Fernando Valley. It is a lie for a New Generation of Leadership.

It is true that Jerry Brown can occasionally confuse some of those hearing his word. His word on a national health insurance program, for instance, is that "this is a back door approach to the problem of sickness in America." Brown feels it would be ever so much wiser if people would just take better care of themselves — not work in industries where there are unhealthy fumes, chemicals, conditions, etc.

Sssshhh, his voice again. "I don't have a quick fix for everything."

What did he say? He said he's only human. Glory, be to the highest. I know it.

Yes, one sees it clearly in the faces of his audiences. Awe. And also gullibility and carelessness. Redeemer Brown may or may not be presidential timber, but he is nothing more, not the redeemer, not the messiah, not The Answer. There are no such people, and we should stop wasting time looking for them; that's planetary realism.

Woman Could Help Carter

WASHINGTON — Jimmy Carter is so far ahead in the Democratic presidential sweepstakes that there is already political gossip about his possible running mate.

Carter himself has offered few clues to his thinking on this subject. But after participating in several speculative sessions with well-informed Democrats, I have come to the conclusion that the strongest selection he could make for vice president would be Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut.

Think about the idea a few minutes before you reject it as a crazy notion.

No woman has ever before been chosen for a major party's presidential ticket. But sexual prejudice against women in politics has been rapidly fading the past decade. A nationwide Gallup Poll last fall showed that 73 per cent of those queried said they would vote for a woman for president if she were qualified for the job. In addition, seven of 10 respondents said the nation would be governed as well or better if more women held political office.

Grasso, as governor of a major Northern urban state, is better qualified to be Carter's running mate than some vice presidents of not-so-distant memory. A lifelong politician, she is a former Connecticut House of Representatives floor leader, former three-term state secretary of state and a former congresswoman.

Grasso has several qualities which would reinforce and amplify Carter's own strengths.

As a governor, she is not identified as a part of the Washington establishment. Thus she would fit comfortably into Carter's theme that an "outsider" is needed to clean up the mess in the Capitol.

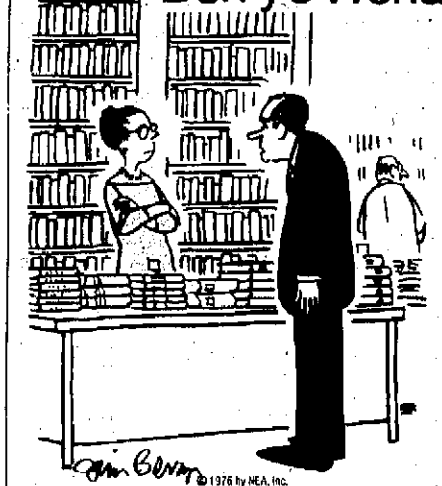

She is a Catholic, which has traditionally been an asset in heavily Catholic areas and, since John Kennedy's election in 1960, has not been a handicap in Protestant areas.

She is an Italian-American and should be able to appeal to the white ethnic vote in the big urban centers.

She plays Jimmy Carter-style politics. Neither orthodox liberals nor orthodox conservatives have been able to pin a label on her. Although she came up in politics through the regular party ladder, she had demonstrated a willingness to try new ideas and to ignore traditional patronage rules in her search for fresh talent in the state government.

She understands Northern urban politics. Carter's greatest area of weakness, Connecticut is a relatively small state and traditionally votes Democratic without any representation on the ticket. But Grasso is also known in neighboring New York and Massachusetts, where her religious and ethnic background are strong assets, and she should be extremely helpful in carrying those states. Carter will need to balance his Southern background with a name that can pull votes in either the big Northern states or in vote-rich California.

Annual Luncheon

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Mercy hospital auxiliary observed National Hospital week with its annual luncheon May 12 at Point O' Woods country club.

Highlights included presentation of three checks to C.T. Loftus, executive vice president for the Benton Harbor hospital; installation of officers for 1976-77; presentation of a candle lighted cake to Robert B. Willemink, president of the board of trustees of Mercy hospital, and presentation of service awards to auxiliaries.

Luncheon speaker was David H. Jenkins, PH.D., of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Checks presented to Loftus included $18,000 to complete payment for the neo-natal intensive care unit purchased by the auxiliary, $1,150 from the baby photo auxiliary service, and $2,000 from the remembrance fund for audio-visual equipment.

In accepting the checks, Loftus emphasized the quality hospital and medical care given to people of the area. He said, "The importance of the Mercy hospital auxiliary contribution to this team effort is well recognized by patients and their relatives, Mercy hospital employees, and the Mercy hospital medical staff and board of trustees."

Each of the 29 candles presented to Willemink by Mrs. W.L. Banyon, membership chairman, represented more than 1,000 hours of service given to the hospital by auxiliaries during the past year. The cake represented the National Hospital week theme, "Healthy Birthday, America."

Willemink noted that over $100,000 would have to be added to the hospital budget to replace the 29,472 hours the 298 auxiliaries gave to the hospital during the past year.

The auxiliary executive board for 1976-77 will include Mrs. Royce Clements, president; Mrs. Robert Vandenberg, first vice president; Mrs. Joanne Phillips, second vice president; Mrs. Vere Bowman, recording secretary; Mrs. James Merrifield, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Wade, corresponding secretary.

Also on the board are Mrs. Chet Taube and Mrs. Sheldon Radom directors, and Mrs. Robert Miskill, counselor.

Ex-officio members of the board include Mrs. Leah McCrone, director of volunteers; Mrs. Vere Bowman, liaison to the board of trustees; A.W. Chipman, assistant administrator at Mercy, and C.T. Loftus.

Mrs. Bowman is also legislative chairman and Mrs. Radom is vice president for programs for the Michigan Association of Hospital auxiliaries.

Top awards for service were given to Mrs. Paul Smith, 3,000 hours; Mrs. Henry Kesterke, Mrs. James Merrifield, and Mrs. Chester Taube, 2,000; and Mrs. Jack Bender, Mrs. A.W. Chipman, Mrs. Seymour Flamm, Mrs. Richard Helmrich, Mrs. F. Alan Kennedy, Mrs. John Kwader, and Mrs. Oliver Scobel, 1,000 hours.

Mrs. Robert Miskill, retiring president, reported that a new in-service activity of the auxiliary added this year is in the oncology department which is staffed by five auxiliaries. The service is provided in the outpatient clinic held Tuesday mornings and Wednesday afternoons. The volunteer checks

DART, Parks Ride On SJ Township Vote

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

St. Joseph township residents Tuesday will vote on three separate property tax issues amounting to 2.25 mills.

One-half mill is on the ballot to finance park improvements for four years. Another one-half mill is a separate proposition to provide the township's subsidy for Dial-A-Ride bus service for two years. As reported in yesterday's article, 1.25 mills are on the ballot for police protection.

The township last year levied 4.5 mills. If all three proposals pass, the township levy would increase to 6.75 mills.

The township board has indicated that if the Dial-A-Ride millage is rejected, the township will pull out of the Twin Cities

Area Transportation Authority which operates Dial-A-Ride. Supervisor Orval Benson has said he supports the police and

Second Of Three Articles

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three articles on ballot issues in St. Joseph township for Tuesday's election. Today's account covers extra voted tax levies for improvement of parks and Dial-A-Ride bus service. The first article was on tax millage for police protection and the final article will be on a straw vote on the I-84 penetrator.

parks millage but is taking no stand on Dial-A-Ride.

Pending the outcome of the Dial-A-Ride vote, St. Joseph township has agreed to pay its support for the bus service, up to $19,200 a year. Statistics released last month by Dial-A-Ride indicate $9,74 St. Joseph township residents have used the buses since Sept. 1, 1975. This compares to 90,618 in Benton Harbor; 32,244 in Benton township; and 15,955 in St. Joseph city.

The development of township-owned parks has been spearheaded by a parks committee, headed by Frank Yurcus. The township operating budget earmarks $40,830 for park improvements. The millage would add about $26,530 a year.

The largest parks are Eaton park, off Lincoln avenue on the west side of the St. Joseph river, and Carronde park in Fairplain, on the St. Joseph river off La-Al drive. Yurcus said most of the tax would be used to develop the 19-acre Carronde park. Proposed are three tennis courts, a softball field, ice skating rink, all purpose building and restrooms. Carronde has a boat ramp on the river.

The 22-acre Eaton park is a thriving recreation spot that now includes four ball diamonds and three tennis courts, as well as playground and picnic areas. An expanded equipment building is the main project sought here, Yurcus said.

Another park to be developed is at a site of the proposed new township hall and fire station off Washington avenue, near Nelson road. At a future time, Yurcus said efforts would be made to acquire additional park lands, including the Hickory creek area, where hiking paths might be installed.

Recall Vote Tuesday First In BH History

Political Fate Of Mayor And Four Commissioners At Stake

By JIM DeLAND
Benton Harbor voters will determine the fate of Mayor Charles F. Joseph and four city commissioners when they go to the polls Tuesday for the first recall election in the city's history.

The election climaxes several months of political turmoil following the termination of Charles Morrison's contract as city manager last December.

Polling places will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. At stake in the election will be the seats held by Joseph and Commissioners Barbara Huckaby, Charles Shepherd, Winston Minott and Alfred Williams.

Mrs. Huckaby, Shepherd and Williams were members of Joseph's "Clean Slate" team during the municipal election last year. Minott, the mayor pro-tem, was not involved in the election, but has supported the "Clean Slate" bloc in commission voting.

All voters will cast ballots on the recall of Joseph and Mrs. Huckaby, a commissioner-at-large. In addition, separate recall propositions will be on the ballot for Shepherd in the Second Ward, for Minott in the Third Ward and for Williams in the Fourth Ward.

The recall election was forced by a petition campaign spearheaded by Maurice Bishop, former Commissioner Carl Brown and Morgan Hager Jr.

The recall leaders obtained 967 signatures on petitions calling for the recall of Joseph and 869 on petitions for Mrs. Huckaby. Only 693 signatures were needed for the two-city wide posts.

More than the minimum number of signatures also were obtained on petitions calling for recall of the three ward commissioners.

Election machines in Tuesday's election will contain statements by petitioners of reasons for demanding the recall of the mayor and commissioners and responses by each justifying their conduct in office.

Identical statements charge Joseph and the four commissioners with encroaching upon the powers and responsibility of the city manager, interfering with the administration of city government and city personnel, encouraging situations which create conflict of interest, nepotism and political patronage, and waging a campaign of libel and "insinuation" against Morrison that resulted in his termination.

Each of the five recall targets denies the charges in statements of justification and all but Williams contend that Morrison submitted his resignation last June and never requested that it not be accepted.

Joseph, 40, of 1151 Broadway, is serving his fifth year as mayor after winning a second four-year term last November. He is on leave from Whirlpool corporation, where he was manager of urban affairs.

Mrs. Huckaby, 37, of 151 Searles, is in her first year on the commission. She is a manager for H & H Construction company.

Shepherd, 42, of 800 Bishop, also is in his first year as a commissioner. He is an insurance salesman for Prudential Insurance of America.

Minott, 52, of 960 Bishop, is serving his third year on the commission. He is employed at National Motors in South Haven.

Williams, 68, of 700 Wauconda, is in his second year on the commission. He is retired.

Although no rival candidates will appear on the recall ballot, three individuals have announced their intention of seeking office if the recall is successful.

Carnellus Bass, a Whirlpool executive, has announced that he intends to seek the mayor's office if Joseph is recalled.

CITY OF BENTON HARBOR

BERRIEN COUNTY, MICHIGAN

STATEMENT OF PETITIONERS OF REASONS FOR DEMANDING THE RECALL OF CHARLES F. JOSEPH FROM THE OFFICE OF MAYOR, OF THE CITY OF BENTON HARBOR

Charles F. Joseph is guilty of misfeasance in public office by virtue of his individual and collective attempts to encroach upon the powers and responsibilities delegated/assigned to the office of the City Manager by the charter for the City of Benton Harbor.

He has persistently, willfully, and intentionally sought to interfere with the administrative functioning of the city's government and city personnel in the performance of their duties by seeking to both directly and indirectly influence the operating forces of city government.

He has sought to harass and intimidate employees who have been previously contacted to bear the administrative responsibility within city government.

He is guilty of consciously and willfully encouraging the existence of situations in this community which threaten to create improper and illegal conflicts of interest, nepotism, political patronage and other invidious practices within local government.

He has waged a campaign of libel and insinuation against former City Manager Charles A. Morrison during which Morrison was labeled incompetent and inept and subsequently forced to endure the hardships caused when his contract was, without prior notice, cancelled or rather said contract was not renewed as would have been normal procedure.

STATEMENT OF MAYOR CHARLES F. JOSEPH JUSTIFICATION OF HIS CONDUCT IN OFFICE

As Chief Executive Officer of Benton Harbor, it is my responsibility to serve in the best interest of the people of Benton Harbor as provided in the City Charter. It is the responsibility of the City Commission to ensure that employees who are appointed perform their jobs in a professional, and ethical manner. The charter states that the City Manager shall be hired and fired by the Commission at its pleasure. Charles Morrison submitted his written resignation to the Commission on June 10, 1975 and never requested that it not be accepted or any desire to continue his employment as City Manager.

All charges regarding nepotism, political patronage, conflict of interest, libel and misfeasance are false. If anyone truly felt that these charges were true, they should prepare documentation of fact and file charges.

I have viewed this entire recall process as an attempt to destroy my character or force me to use my official position as Mayor to engage in illegal activities, uprisings and under-cover activities for the benefit of those sponsoring the recall.

My oath of office is to provide safety, health, and welfare for all citizens, not just a select few.

She has persistently, willfully, and intentionally sought to interfere with the administrative functioning of the city's government and city personnel in the performance of their duties by seeking to both directly and indirectly influence the operating forces of city government.

STATEMENT OF COMMISSIONER BARBARA HUCKABY JUSTIFICATION OF HER CONDUCT IN OFFICE

I deny all blanket charges on the Recall Petition as they are unwarranted, unreasonable and without foundation. All votes cast were in keeping with campaign promises, with the best interest of the majority of the residents of the City of Benton Harbor in mind and certainly with a great deal of thought.

I voted not to renew Charles Morrison's contract because he had never requested the resignation he tendered some months prior nor did he even receive a vote of confidence from the prior Commission.

STATEMENT OF PETITIONERS OF REASONS FOR DEMANDING THE RECALL OF ALFRED WILLIAMS FROM THE OFFICE OF 4TH WARD COMMISSIONER OF THE CITY OF BENTON HARBOR

Alfred Williams is guilty of misfeasance in public office by virtue of his individual and collective attempts to encroach upon the powers and responsibilities delegated/assigned to the office of the City Manager by the charter for the City of Benton Harbor.

He has persistently, willfully, and intentionally sought to interfere with the administrative functioning of the city's government and city personnel in the performance of their duties by seeking to both directly and indirectly influence the operating forces of city government.

STATEMENT OF COMMISSIONER ALFRED WILLIAMS JUSTIFICATION OF HIS CONDUCT IN OFFICE

Being an elected official, the charges against me for misfeasance in public office are false and misleading statements. Before that I have persistently and willfully sought to interfere with the administrative functioning of the City government in a false manner.

The statement about me harassing and intimidating the employees of the city is a lie.

Being guilty of nepotism is a willful and malicious lie because I have no relation by blood or marriage working for the city.

I did not wage a campaign against the former City Manager, Mr. Morrison through his actions that he had very little support or any at all for the City of Benton Harbor, it is evident that the City Commission when he, Mr. Morrison, walked out of a Commission meeting. This is what caused my decision and he did not come back to the Commission and give any indication that he wanted to stay with the City of Benton Harbor.

Therefore, all of the charges contained in the recall petition filed against me are false and are an apparent conspiracy to discredit me by releasing false information to the public.

Recall Vacancies Filled This Way

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Five members of the Benton Harbor city commission are on recall ballots in next Tuesday's election. Here is the procedure for filling vacant seats if any or all of the five commissioners are recalled. Berrien County Clerk Forrest Kesterke listed these steps:

1) If less than five of the commission members are recalled, the Benton Harbor charter provides that the remaining commission members may make temporary appointments to fill the vacancy or vacancies. (Five is a quorum on the nine-member commission.)

2) If all five officials on the recall ballots are recalled, state law provides that Gov. William Milliken may make temporary appointments to at least give the commission a quorum, so regular business may be transacted.

3) The temporary appointees

would serve until a special election can be called on the seats vacated by recall. Within five days of receiving certification of the recall, the city clerk shall call an election to fill any vacancy created by recall. The election would be on the state primary election date, Aug. 3.

4) Candidates elected to fill the seats of recalled officials would serve the balance of the terms of the recalled officials.

The Benton Harbor city commission has nine members. Five constitute a quorum capable of exercising all powers, except vacating streets, buying or selling land. These powers include appointments to fill vacancies on the commission.

Special Day

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — May 23 will be Foster Grandparents Day in Michigan, Gov. William Milliken has announced.

Milliken said the day will honor 400 Michigan senior citizens who participate in the Federal Foster Grandparent Program, working with children and young adults who are in institutions throughout the state.

Recall Leader Hits BH Police Layoffs

Benton Harbor recall leader Maurice Bishop today blamed slow police response in answering a burglar alarm at his business on the city's recent layoff of 14 policemen.

Bishop said he accidentally triggered the alarm at his All Time Post Control, 757 East Main street, and it took "six or seven minutes" for police to arrive "rather than the usual two minutes."

"A man could have been in and out of there in that time," Bishop said. "They (the police) used to be right on the money."

WHFB Studies Crime Problem

A series of interviews with top law enforcement officials on the crime problem in Berrien county will be aired next week, beginning Monday, over Station WHFB.

Conducted in documentary style to draw out the personal reflections and suggestions of the interviewees, the program will feature one official each day as a part of the 12 Noon news broadcast and again during the 5:30 p.m. news.

The officials appearing on the series, and the day each will be presented, are as follows:

Carl Hulander, commander of Benton Harbor state police; Sunday, Tom Shin and William Gebhart of Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission which conducts a regional criminal justice planning program.

Each interview will run from three to five minutes.

State Primary Funding

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Senate on Thursday approved a bill which would provide state funding of Tuesday's presidential primary. The bill, which passed 33-1, would require the state to reimburse local units of government for the cost of holding the primary. The bill returns to the House for agreement on some minor amendments. The primary is expected to cost the state about $2.5 million. Local governments would have to submit bills to the state within 90 days of the election to be reimbursed for the cost. The state would not pick up the tab for any additional local issues placed on the primary election ballot by local governments.

Annual Luncheon

By ARLYS DERRICK
Women's Editor

Mercy hospital auxiliary observed National Hospital week with its annual luncheon May 12 at Point O'Woods country club.

Highlights included presentation of three checks to C.T. Loftus, executive vice president for the Benton Harbor hospital; installation of officers for 1976-77; presentation of a candle light cake to Robert B. Willenlin, president of the board of trustees of Mercy hospital, and presentation of service awards to auxiliaries.

Luncheon speaker was David H. Jenkins, Ph.D., of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Checks presented to Loftus included $18,000 to complete payment for the neo-natal intensive care unit purchased by the auxiliary, $1,150 from the baby photo auxiliary service, and $2,000 from the remembrance fund for audio-visual equipment.

In accepting the checks, Loftus emphasized the quality hospital and medical care given to people of the area. He said, "The importance of the Mercy hospital auxiliary contribution to this team effort is well recognized by patients and their relatives. Mercy hospital employees, and the Mercy hospital medical staff and board of trustees."

Each of the 29 emblems presented to Willenlin by Mrs. W.L. Banyon, membership chairman, represented more than 1,000 hours of service given to the hospital by auxiliaries during the past year. The cake represented the National Hospital week theme, "Healthy Birthday, America."

Willenlin noted that over $100,000 would have to be added to the hospital budget to replace the 29,472 hours the 298 auxiliaries gave to the hospital during the past year.

The auxiliary executive board for 1976-77 will include Mrs. Royce Clements, president; Mrs. Robert Vandenberg, first vice president; Mrs. Joanne Phillips, second vice president; Mrs. Vere Bowman, recording secretary; Mrs. James Merrifield, treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Wade, corresponding secretary.

Also on the board are Mrs. Chet Taube and Mrs. Sheldon Radom, directors, and Mrs. Robert Miskill, counselor.

Ex-officio members of the board include Mrs. Leah McCrone, director of volunteers; Mrs. Vere Bowman, liaison to the board of trustees; A.W. Chipman, assistant administrator at Mercy, and C.T. Loftus.

Mrs. Bowman is also legislative chairman and Mrs. Radom is vice president for programs for the Michigan Association of Hospital auxiliaries.

Top awards for service were given to Mrs. Paul Smith, 3,000 hours; Mrs. Henry Kesterke, Mrs. James Merrifield, and Mrs. Chester Taube, 2,000, and Mrs. Jack Bender, Mrs. A.W. Chipman, Mrs. Seymour Flamm, Mrs. Richard Heinrich, Mrs. F. Alan Kennedy, Mrs. John Kwader, and Mrs. Oliver Seibel, 1,000 hours. Mrs. Robert Miskill, retiring president, reported that a new in-service activity of the auxiliary added this year is in the oncology department which is staffed by five auxiliaries. The service is provided in the outpatient clinic held Tuesday mornings and Wednesday afternoons. The volunteer checks

Jenkins, said pollution of the environment and lack of conservation also pollutes the human soul, bringing ugliness to the human spirit.

He quoted a Chinese proverb, "Long before the stomach dies, the man dies," emphasizing that the quality and dignity of life will slip away if waste and pollution continue at the present rate.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Various Cures For Smoking

Dear Ann Landers: Like millions of others, I am hooked on cigarettes. I feel as if I have some loathsome disease.

Everywhere I turn groups are starting up to protect non-smokers against me and others who are similarly affected. Laws are being passed to prohibit smoking in public places. I'm not complaining. It has been proven that non-smokers can be seriously affected by the smoke of others if they are exposed to it in closed quarters for an extended period of time.

I suffer from high blood pressure and emphysema. I know I'm killing myself. But I am unable to stop this filthy, expensive, dangerous habit. Many people have stopped smoking. Why can't I? Please ask your readers who have accomplished this gargantuan feat how they did it. I'd be eternally grateful.

— Nicotine Freak

Dear Nic: I don't need to ask my readers. I know how they did it.

Some went to smoking clinics. (The Seventh Day Adventists have such a program in many cities. It's a five-day plan.) St. Helena's Hospital in California has cured thousands — those who need a complete change of environment and can afford it. (St. Helena's is beautiful. I spent an evening there last year.)

Hypnosis worked for some, but I am not recommending it because messing around with the mind can be hazardous for certain individuals.

Counseling has been effective in some instances, but it's costly and time-consuming.

Many smokers used a variety of gimmicks such as no more buying by the carton and limiting themselves to smoking only after meals, then cutting out the post-breakfast cigaret, next the after-lunch, etc.

The best way to quit smoking is cold turkey. This means face up to the withdrawal symptoms, expect to suffer a lot, and simply gut it out. Painful? You bet. But it's nothing compared with having surgery to remove a lung and then taking cobalt treatments for several months, or the agony of paralysis after a blood vessel bursts. (They call it a stroke.)

I hope you win the battle, friend, because I love my readers and I hate to see 'em go.

ANN LANDERS

A Phone Call Makes It Simple

Of all the marriage manuals that have come out of this decade, the one that has intrigued me the most has been "The Total Woman" by Mabel Morgan.

Some manuals are as complicated as assembling a lawn sweeper in a dark closet on Christmas Eve, but according to Mabel if you can dial a phone you can put excitement in your marriage.

In one of her chapters, she tells of a plan to make your husband want to hurry home. One of her students, Janet, tried it. She called her husband, Jack, at 4 p.m. one day and said, "Honey, I'm eagerly waiting for you to come home. I just craved your body."

There was a lot of heavy breathing in the phone followed by a return call from Jack who couldn't believe it either and said, "Would you please repeat slowly what you said five minutes ago?" (They also do that when you order pizza on the phone so they won't get stuck with it.)

I figured what the heck. I never call my husband at work. The shock alone would be worth the effort. I dialed the number. The phone lifted off the hook. "Don't say anything," I whispered. "Just come home early. I craved your body."

His secretary said tiredly,

"You wouldn't be hurt if I held out for a better offer, would you? Just a minute, I'll connect you with your husband."

After what seemed hours, he lifted the phone. "Come home early," I said huskily. "I craved your body."

He put me on hold for about ten minutes, then came back and said, "What's this about craving a party? It's only ten in the morning."

"I didn't say party, I said body as in Burt Reynolds."

"Burt is coming to our house for a party?" he asked.

"For crying out loud," I snapped. "Pay attention. Come home early and you can have your way with me."

"This piped-in music drives me up the wall. You say you want me home early? How early?"

"Well, I've got the baton twirling car pool at three and your cleaning is done and the lima beans will be done at five. If you get here when the lima beans are done, forget it. I hate overcooked vegetables."

"I hope you're having something else for the party besides lima beans. See you at five."

Mabel. Would you believe that some women in this world were meant to go through life as sub-total women? We can't seem to get it all added up.

Here is a hand from H. W. Kelsey's "Bridge Logic" that may be described as far out. You are in a very optimistic five-club contract.

The game is match-point duplicate and you feel that the field will be in four clubs, not five.

The defense starts with three rounds of diamonds. You ruff the third diamond high and West discards a spade. Both opponents follow when you lead your ace of clubs.

You are about to cash the king of clubs and settle for down one if both opponents follow, but you stop to try to visualize a card combination that will let you make your contract.

There is one unlikely combination. Give West exactly five cards in each major and he will be squeezed. That means East must have started with three clubs.

So you lead a heart to dummy, finesse your 10 of trumps, lead out all your trumps, squeeze poor West out of a spade or heart stopper and wind up with a top score of top scorers.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I came down with a kidney stone out of the blue. I had been in perfect health until this happened to me. I am 42. The pain was excruciating until I passed the stone. Now I live in dread that it will happen again.

Mr. H.N. Wash.

Dear Mr. N.: Anyone who has ever had a kidney stone anywhere in the urinary tract will sympathize with you. The pain is indeed "excruciating."

A kidney stone is composed of one or more chemicals. Calcium, magnesium, phosphates and uric acid may be deposited anywhere in the kidney, the ureter or the bladder.

The ureter is a very fine tube which carries urine from the kidney to the bladder. When this is obstructed by a stone, it becomes distended and painful.

There are a number of possible causes of kidney stones. One of the prime causes is faulty metabolism (breakdown of foods). In people who have gout, the uric acid content of the blood becomes high and uric acid kidney stones may be formed.

A tiny hormone-producing gland lies deep within the thyroid gland. This little parathyroid gland controls the calcium balance in the body.

Infections in the kidneys and the bladder are also common causes of stone formation.

The single experience that you have had underscores the importance of tracking down its cause.

A complete general examination, with a finely detailed blood study and urine analysis, will point to the initial cause.

Once the cause is found, preventive treatment can be directed at preventing recurrences.

How can I track down the cause of a peculiar mouth odor that came on during the past few months?

Miss T.A., La.

Dear Miss A.:

Halitosis, or bad breath, can usually be traced to the gums, the teeth, the sinuses and the nasal passages.

If no gross evidence of infection or disease is present in these areas, then the stomach and upper intestinal tract must be considered.

Some types of drugs can also be responsible for an unpleasant odor in the mouth. Some types of herbs, in addition to onions and garlic, should be suspected.

Some chronic diseases or chronic infections of the lungs, such as emphysema and bronchitis, can also be the cause.

It was once brought to my attention that drinking eight glasses of water daily resulted in the disappearance of bad breath in those people who had no other cause for halitosis. This should be tried unless your doctor feels that, for some reason, this large amount of fluid is not good for you.

Barbara Marsh, RN, will be the seminar leader. She will be assisted by Betty Renbarger, activity director, and Mrs. Carlson.

The hospital's Reality Orientation program is meant to help patients regain a sense of what is real, Mrs. Carlson said. Their dignity and self-respect are restored.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

FTC 'Lemon' Rules Effective Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the new car you just bought is a lemon, federal regulations that take effect today mean you may not have to pay off the bank or loan company that financed it.

The regulations end the 200-year rule of a marketplace philosophy known as "holder-in-due-course," which forced consumers to pay for products bought on credit even if the products were not delivered or broke down.

The new rules, promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission six months ago, make creditors just as liable for customer satisfaction as the original seller.

Under "holder-in-due-course," a consumer who sought to withhold payment for unsatisfactory goods or services was not able to do so if he or she owed the money to a creditor rather than the original seller.

"Many creditors are participants in the ... practice (and) it is unfair and deceptive," the FTC said in issuing the new rules last November. The new FTC regulations seek to remedy that situation.

If the new car you bought today breaks down tomorrow, you can now stop payment to the bank or credit agency which extended the loan for the car.

The rules allow the consumer to stop payment and demand a refund of previous installments in cases where he can reasonably demonstrate that the purchase was never delivered, was damaged or was fraudulently represented in the sale. Courts remain the final arbiter.

FTC spokesmen have said the new rules do not mean that a buyer cannot be sued for the unpaid balance of a bill, but that it gives a consumer a strong defense if the evidence shows the product was defective.

Installment sales purchases, beginning today, must include a conspicuous notice relating the consumer's right to assert legitimate complaints against any credit company which purchases a contract from the original seller.

A last-minute attempt by the National Automobile Dealers Association to delay implementation of the new consumer credit regulations was rejected Wednesday in U.S. District Court in Louisiana.

The FTC has said it does not believe the new rules will cause interest rates to rise or reduce the availability of credit. "What is more likely," said FTC Bureau of Consumer Protection chief Joan Benstein, "is that this rule will make it more difficult for predators who rely on misrepresentation and high-pressure tactics to sell inadequate products."

Holder-in-due-course was long upheld in the courts in the absence of contravening law or regulations. The FTC regulations taking effect today have force of law.

Mining Props Spark Detroit Bomb Scare

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit police had a bit of a scare this morning when they found what they thought were explosives at Cobo Hall, where presidential candidate Ronald Reagan was scheduled to appear today.

But the nine sticks of "explosives" turned out to be props left over from a coal mining exhibition held recently at the hall.

When the bomb squad tried to detonate the sticks, police said, they discovered they were non-explosive material. The sticks wouldn't detonate or burn, the police said.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Various Cures For Smoking

Dear Ann Landers: Like millions of others, I am hooked on cigars. I feel as if I have some inhuman disease.

Everywhere I turn groups are starting up to protect non-smokers against me and others who are similarly affected. Laws are being passed to prohibit smoking in public places. I'm not complaining. It has been proven that non-smokers can be seriously affected by the smoke of others if they are exposed to it in closed quarters for an extended period of time.

I suffer from high blood pressure and emphysema. I know I'm killing myself. But I am unable to stop this filthy, expensive, dangerous habit. Many people have stopped smoking. Why can't I? Please ask your readers who have accomplished this gargantuan feat how they did it. I'd be eternally grateful.

—Nontine Freak

Dear Nic: I don't need to ask my readers. I know how they did it.

Some went to smoking clinics. (The Seventh Day Adventists have such a program in many cities. It's a five-day plan.) St. Helena's Hospital in California has cured thousands — those who need a complete change of environment and can afford it. (St. Helena's is beautiful. I spent an evening there last

Hypnosis worked for some, but I am not recommending it because messing around with the mind can be hazardous for certain individuals.

Counseling has been effective in some instances, but it's costly and time-consuming.

Many smokers used a variety of gimmicks such as no more lying by the carton and limiting themselves to smoking only after meals, then cutting out the post-breakfast cigarette, next the after-lunch, etc.

The best way to quit smoking is cold turkey. This means face up to the withdrawal symptoms, expect to suffer a lot, and simply gut it out. Painful? You bet. But it's nothing compared with having surgery to remove a lung and then taking cobalt treatments for several months, or the agony of paralysis after a blood vessel bursts. (They call it a stroke.)

I hope you win the battle, friend, because I love my readers and I hate to see 'em go.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Mom: Ask a lawyer. It depends on which state you live in. And get going.

What's the story on pot, L.S.D., cocaine, uppers and downers, speed? Can you handle it if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs." ### They're Upset

Dear Ann Landers: My son was 18 when he got a 15-year-old girl pregnant. He wasn't even her steady. She was just a date. He is 17 now and goes to the same school with the girl. She is way out in front and everyone knows my son is the father of her unborn child. Her plan is to keep the baby. Her folks approve. In fact, I understand they want to raise it.

This girl keeps telling my son what she is going to do to him

By Oswald James Jacoby

Here is a hand from H. W. Kelsey's "Bridge Logic" that may be described as far out. You are in a very optimistic five-club contract.

The game is match-point duplicate and you feel that the field will be in four clubs, not five.

The defense starts with three rounds of diamonds. You ruff the third diamond high and West discards a spade. Both opponents follow when you lead your ace of clubs.

You are about to cash the king of clubs and settle for down one if both opponents follow, but you stop to try to visualize a card combination that will let you make your contract.

There is one unlikely combination. Give West exactly five cards in each major and he will be squeezed. That means East must have started with three clubs.

So you lead a heart to dummy, finesse your 10 of trumps, lead out all your trumps, squeeze poor West out of a spade or heart stopper and wind up with a top score of top scorers.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I came down with a kidney stone out of the blue. I had been in perfect health until this happened to me. I am 62. The pain was excruciating until I passed the stone. Now I live in dread that it will happen again.

Mr. H.N., Wash.

Dear Mr. N.: Anyone who has ever had a kidney stone anywhere in the urinary tract will sympathize with you. The pain is indeed "excruciating."

A kidney stone is composed of one or more chemicals. Calcium, magnesium, phosphates and uric acid may be deposited anywhere in the kidney, the ureter or the bladder.

The ureter is a very fine tube which carries urine from the kidney to the bladder. When this is obstructed by a stone, it becomes distended and painful.

There are a number of possible causes of kidney stones. One of the prime causes is faulty metabolism (breakdown of foods). In people who have gout, the uric acid content of the blood becomes high and uric acid kidney stones may be formed.

A tiny hormone-producing gland lies deep within the thyroid gland. This little parathyroid gland controls the calcium balance in the body.

Infections in the kidneys and the bladder are also common causes of stone formation.

The single experience that you have had underscores the importance of tracking down its cause.

A complete general examination, with a finely detailed blood study and urine analysis, will point to the initial cause.

Once the cause is found, preventive treatment can be directed at preventing recurrences.

How can I track down the cause of a peculiar month order that came on during the past few months?

Miss T.A., La.

Dear Miss A.: Halitosis, or bad breath, can usually be traced to the gums, the teeth, the sinuses and the nasal passages.

If no gross evidence of infection or disease is present in these areas, then the stomach and upper intestinal tract must be considered.

Some types of drugs can also be responsible for an unpleasant odor in the mouth. Some types of herbs, in addition to onions and garlic, should be suspected.

Some chronic diseases or chronic infections of the lungs, such as emphysema and bronchitis, can also be the cause.

It was once brought to my attention that drinking eight glasses of water daily resulted in the disappearance of bad breath in those people who had no other cause for halitosis. This should be tried unless your doctor feels that, for some reason, this large amount of fluid is not good for you.

A Phone Call Makes It Simple

Of all the marriage manuals that have come out of this decade, the one that has intrigued me the most has been "The Total Woman" by Marabel Morgan.

Some manuals are as complicated as assembling a lawn sweeper in a dark closet on Christmas Eve, but according to Marabel if you can dial a phone you can put excitement in your marriage.

In one of her chapters, she tells of a plan to make your husband want to hurry home. One of her students, Janet, tried it. She called her husband, Jack, at 4 p.m. one day and said, "Honey, I'm eagerly waiting for you to come home. I just crave your body."

There was a lot of heavy breathing in the phone followed by a return call from Jack who couldn't believe it either and said, "Would you please repeat slowly what you said five minutes ago?" (They also do that when you order pizza on the phone so they won't get stuck with it.)

I figured what the heck. I never call my husband at work. The shock alone would be worth the effort. I dialed the number. The phone lifted off the hook. "Don't say anything," I whispered. "Just come home early. I crave your body."

His secretary said tiredly,

Charlie K. Field, Lake Michigan college dean of continuing education and community services, has been awarded a doctor of philosophy degree from Walden University, Naples, Fla.

Dr. Field based his dissertation on the best methods of establishing and maintaining communications linkages, or channels, between community services divisions in Michigan community colleges and the communities surrounding them in order to determine community educational needs and suitable educational programs.

Doctoral graduate studies were completed by Field at Michigan State, Wayne State, and Western Michigan universities as well as at Walden.

Dr. Field has taught and served as an administrator at LMC for five years. Prior to that, he spent more than 25 years in industry in personnel, labor relations, and consulting positions.

Four-Year-Old Girl Hit By Car; Injured

A four-year-old Benton Harbor girl was injured Thursday when she was struck by a car shortly after 4 p.m. on Pipestone street near Foster avenue, city police said.

Reported in "fair" condition today at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, was Angela C. Crayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Crayton, 443 Foster avenue. Driver of the car was identified as Sonja Kay Dossett, 22, of 791 Lavette street. Police said witnesses reported the girl darted into the street and the driver was unable to avoid striking her. No tickets were issued, police said.

Benton township police said a Chicago man was injured Thursday when his car ran off US-33 north of Rocky Gap road and struck a utility pole about 3:35 p.m.

The driver, Jeremiah J. Flynn, 33, was treated for apparently minor injuries and released from Mercy hospital. Police said he was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law.

Red Cross Gets New Coordinator

Mrs. Carol Green, 43, has been named blood coordinator for the Berrien county chapter of the American Red Cross to replace Mrs. Barbara Danner, 24, who is leaving to take another Red Cross position in Lansing.

David Mack, Berrien chapter chairman, in announcing the change, said Mrs. Green will start her new position Monday.

Mrs. Green, of 2137 South M-139, Benton township, was administrative secretary at the Berrien Red Cross for the past six years.

Mrs. Danner is leaving to accept a position as blood program consultant with the Red Cross regional blood center at Lansing. She was Berrien blood coordinator for little over a year.

BH Health Center Talks On

Representatives of the Family Health Center of Kalamazoo have announced they are negotiating with Berrien County Action, Inc., for lease of a temporary medical facility that would be located in Benton Harbor.

The 20 by 60 foot facility would be operated as a neighborhood health center for low income patients if federal funds are obtained for staff and operations, according to Berrien County Action officials.

Edward Parham, chairman of the Kalamazoo organization, said the proposed lease must be approved by his executive board. He said the medical unit that would be moved to Benton Harbor has been replaced by a permanent facility in Kalamazoo.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five days after he ordered physicians to remove all life-sustaining devices, Rep. Robert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., was in serious but stable condition at Bethesda Naval Hospital today.

An aide said the "life-sustaining devices" included a stomach pump, intravenous tubes and medications.

Police In Berrien Probe 7 Thefts

Seven thefts were reported Thursday to Twin Cities area police in which valuables totaling more than $1,000 were stolen including building materials and a motorcycle.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said four rolls of insulation material, valued at $228, were reported stolen from a construction site at 2355 Marquette Woods road, Stevensville. The insulation was owned by Great Lakes Building service, 4035 M-139, Royalton township.

Other thefts investigated by Berrien deputies were:

—A 1973 Indian motorcycle from Angle Auto Sales, 1101 Red Arrow highway, Bridgman.

—A citizens' band radio, valued at $180, from the car of Dan Hillegas, 4150 Ridge road, Stevensville.

Frank Dewey, 1020 Market street, told St. Joseph police a tape player and two speakers, valued at $160, were stolen from his residence.

Thefts reported to Benton township police were:

—A tape player and citizens' band radio, all valued at $200, from the car of Timothy Dinius, 3059 Wissing lane, St. Joseph township, parked at Lake Michigan college.

—A CB radio, valued at $80, from the car of Mark Hanley, 1924 Sunset drive, St. Joseph, parked at LMC.

—A television, valued at $150, from the residence of Alberta Williams, 1288 Blossom lane.

A Dowagiac man was arrested by Berrien sheriff's deputies on charges of driving under the influence of liquor and assault and battery against a police officer early today.

Deputy Ross Brumbaugh said he stopped a car on M-140 near Napier avenue, Bainbridge township, about 1:30 a.m. after he said his patrol car was nearly run off the road. Brumbaugh reported that the driver became unruly and in the ensuing scuffle Brumbaugh was struck in the mouth and kicked. He did not require medical treatment.

Coloma and Watervliet police assisted in subduing the man, Brumbaugh said.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was David Tyson Vincent, 28, route 6, box 507, Park avenue, Dowagiac.

A tractor and corn planter were reported vandalized at a Berrien township farm Thursday, Berrien sheriff's deputies said.

Greg Tidey, route 4, Dowagiac, told deputies the damage occurred at his farm off Pucker street south of Dean's Hill road. He said the frames of the machines were bent and hoses cut. Damage was estimated at about $500. He also said it appeared the machines had been driven and corn seed and fertilizer scattered about.

FTC 'Lemon' Rules Effective Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the new car you just bought is a lemon, federal regulations that take effect today mean you may not have to pay off the bank or loan company that financed it.

The regulations end the 200-year rule of a marketplace philosophy known as "holder-in-due-course," which forced consumers to pay for products bought on credit even if the products were not delivered or broke down.

The new rules, promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission six months ago, make creditors just as liable for customer satisfaction as the original seller.

Under "holder-in-due-course," a consumer who sought to withhold payment for unsatisfactory goods or services was not able to do so if he or she owed the money to a creditor rather than the original seller.

"Many creditors are participants in the ... practice (and) it is unfair and deceptive," the FTC said in issuing the new rules last November. The new FTC regulations seek to remedy that situation.

If the new car you bought today breaks down tomorrow, you can now stop payment to the bank or credit agency which extended the loan for the car.

The rules allow the consumer to stop payment and demand a refund of previous installments in cases where he can reasonably demonstrate that the purchase was never delivered, was damaged or was fraudulently represented in the sale. Courts remain the final arbiter.

FTC spokesmen have said the new rules do not mean that a buyer cannot be sued for the unpaid balance of a bill, but that it gives a consumer a strong defense if the evidence shows the product was defective.

Interest rates to rise or reduce the availability of credit. "What is more likely," said FTC Bureau of Consumer Protection chief Joan Benstein, "is that this rule will make it more difficult for predators who rely on misrepresentation and high-pressure tactics to sell inadequate products."

Holder-in-due-course was long upheld in the courts in the absence of contravening law or regulations. The FTC regulations taking effect today have force of law.

Mining Props Spark Detroit Bomb Scare

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit police had a bit of a scare this morning when they found what they thought were explosives at Cobo Hall, where presidential candidate Ronald Reagan was scheduled to appear today.

But the nine sticks of "explosives" turned out to be props left over from a coal mining exhibition held recently at the hall.

When the bomb squad tried to detonate the sticks, police said, they discovered they were non-explosive material. The sticks wouldn't detonate or burn, the police said.

Allegan Sheriff Will Run Again

ALLEGAN — Allegan Sheriff Robert J. Whitcomb has announced he is a candidate for re-election for a final four-year term. Whitcomb, who will be 58 in August, has been sheriff for 14 years, and prior to that served for 11 years as a deputy and then undersheriff.

The sheriff said if he is elected it will be his last term as head of the department which has 40 employees.

The lone Democrat is Thomas F. Fleming of Trowbridge township.

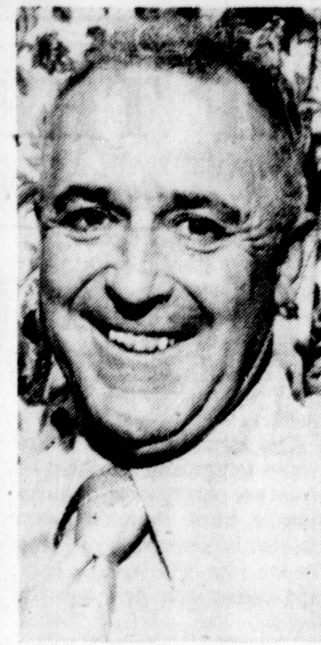

In his re-election announcement, Whitcomb's list of accomplishments included bringing a crime information computer, breathalyzer and detective bureau to the department.

He added that all of his road deputies are graduates of Law enforcement academies. The department's Traffic and Safety division has more road miles to police than any other sheriff's department in the state, he added.

The driver's license bureau is also located in the sheriff's department and in 1975 10,684 licenses were issued and 1,040 re-examinations held, producing $24,000 in profit for the county, he said in his announcement.

The sheriff and his wife Janet have two children, Dawn, 21, and Robin, 16.

He said he has recovered from open heart surgery he underwent in October, 1974.

Test Order Irks Wagon Train Riders

By PATRICK CONNOLLY

Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A last-minute state order that horses be tested for infectious disease has angered many people in southwest Michigan who were suddenly barred from Michigan's historic Bicentennial Wagon Train.

About 150 youngsters were prevented from riding with the covered wagon in Mendon on Wednesday because their horses were not tested for equine infectious anemia, said an angry St. Joseph County Sheriff Neibert Balk.

Probably hundreds more hopeful riders are suddenly ineligible because Gov. William Milliken signed an emergency rule Monday requiring horses in the train to have the tests, Balk said.

Most of the disappointed riders will be from St. Joseph and Cass counties, where local officials informed citizens that an earlier, informal test requirement was not legally binding, state sources said.

Milliken's emergency rule is in effect only for 30 days and applies only to Bicentennial Wagon Train livestock and not other Michigan horses or oxen.

"We've got a lot of mad 4-H kids and parents. If the governor would have gotten on the stick and had them pass a law requiring the test a year ago, it probably would have been all right, but he didn't," Balk said Thursday.

"I thought it was going to be a fun thing where everybody could go out and ride around and have a good time. The governor interfered with a lot of fun. He was completely out of line."

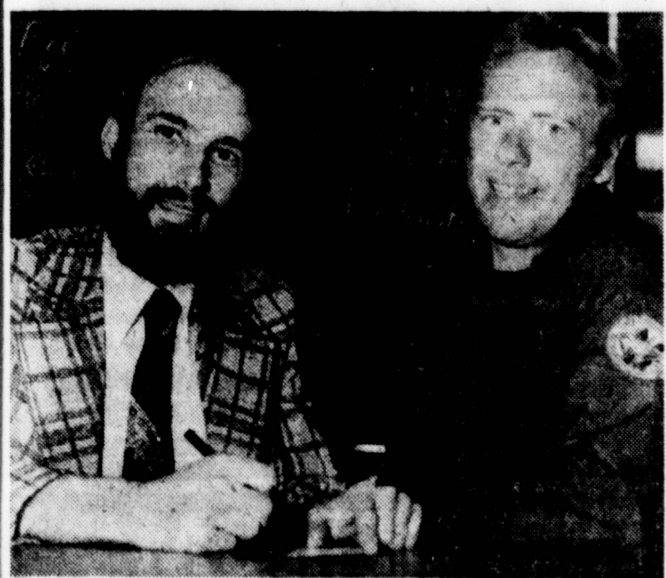

Milliken's rule requires all wagon train horses to have certificates proving they had negative results from the Coggins Blood Test for equine infectious anemia.

The disease is fatal to 30 to 70 per cent of the animals infected and can be transmitted from animal-to-animal, through infected equipment or by flies and mosquitoes, say agriculture officials, who requested the emergency action.

Balk's own posse of about 15 riders had to drop out because their horses had not been tested within the last 180 days as Milliken's rule required.

Prior to Monday, it was legal for the wagon train horses to move about the state without the test. Michigan law required the test only for horses entering the state from another state.

LMC Dean Wins Ph.D. In Florida

Charlie K. Field, Lake Michigan college dean of continuing education and community services, has been awarded a doctor of philosophy degree from Walden University, Naples, Fla.

Dr. Field based his dissertation on the best methods of establishing and maintaining communications linkages, or channels, between community services divisions in Michigan community colleges and the communities surrounding them in order to determine community educational needs and suitable educational programs.

Doctoral graduate studies were completed by Field at Michigan State, Wayne State, and Western Michigan universities as well as at Walden.

Dr. Field has taught and served as an administrator at LMC for five years. Prior to that, he spent more than 25 years in industry in personnel, labor relations, and consulting positions.

Dean Field holds a bachelor of science degree from Tri-State university, Angola, Ind., and has completed additional graduate studies at Indiana, Purdue, and Western Michigan universities.

Four-Year-Old Girl Hit By Car; Injured

A four-year-old Benton Harbor girl was injured Thursday when she was struck by a car shortly after 4 p.m. on Pipestone street near Foster avenue, city police said.

Reported in "fair" condition today at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor, was Angela C. Crayton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Crayton, 443 Foster avenue.

Driver of the car was identified as Sonja Kay-Dossett, 22, of 781 Lavette street. Police said witnesses reported the girl darted into the street and the driver was unable to avoid striking her. No tickets were issued, police said.

Benton township police said a Chicago man was injured Thursday when his car ran off US-33 north of Rocky Gap road and struck a utility pole about 3:35 p.m.

The driver, Jeremiah J. Flynn, 33, was treated for apparently minor injuries and released from Mercy hospital. Police said he was ticketed for violation of the basic speed law.

Mrs. Carol Green, 43, has been named blood coordinator for the Berrien county chapter of the American Red Cross to replace Mrs. Barbara Danner, 24, who is leaving to take another Red Cross position in Lansing.

Mrs. Green, of 2137 South M-139, Benton township, was administrative secretary at the Berrien Red Cross for the past six years.

Mrs. Danner is leaving to accept a position as blood program consultant with the Red Cross regional blood center at Lansing. She was Berrien blood coordinator for little over a year.

BH Health Center Talks On

Representatives of the Family Health Center of Kalamazoo have announced they are negotiating with Berrien County Action, Inc., for lease of a temporary medical facility that would be located in Benton Harbor.

The 20 by 80 foot facility would be operated as a neighborhood health center for low income patients if federal funds are obtained for staff and operations, according to Berrien County Action officials.

Edward Parham, chairman of the Kalamazoo organization, said the proposed lease must be approved by his executive board. He said the medical unit that would be moved to Benton Harbor has been replaced by a permanent facility in Kalamazoo.

Seven thefts were reported Thursday to Twin Cities area police in which valuables totaling more than $1,000 were stolen including building materials and a motorcycle.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said four rolls of insulation material, valued at $228, were reported stolen from a construction site at 2355 Marquette Woods road, Stevensville. The insulation was owned by Great Lakes Building Service, 4035 M-139, Royallon township.

Other thefts investigated by Berrien deputies were:

—A 1973 Indian motorcycle from Angle Auto Sales, 1101 Red Arrow highway, Bridgman.

—A citizens' band radio, valued at $180, from the car of Dan Hillegas, 4150 Ridge road, Stevensville.

—A television, valued at $150, from the residence of Albert Williams, 1288 Blossom lane.

—A tape player and citizens' band radio, all valued at $200, from the car of Timothy Dinius, 2050 Wissing lane, St. Joseph township, parked at Lake Michigan college.

—A CB radio, valued at $80, from the car of Mark Hanley, 1924 Sunset drive, St. Joseph, parked at LMC.

—A television, valued at $150, from the residence of Albert Williams, 1288 Blossom lane.

A Dowagiac man was arrested by Berrien sheriff's deputies on charges of driving under the influence of liquor and assault and battery against a police officer early today.

Deputy Boss Brumbaugh said he stopped a car on M-140 near Napier avenue, Bainbridge township, about 1:30 a.m. after he said his patrol car was nearly run off the road. Brumbaugh reported that the driver became unruly and in the ensuing scuffle Brumbaugh was struck in the mouth and kicked. He did not require medical treatment.

Colonia and Watervliet police assisted in subduing the man, Brumbaugh said.

Booked at the Berrien county jail was David Tyson Vincent, 28, route 6, box 507, Park avenue, Dowagiac.

A tractor and corn planter were reported vandalized at a Berrien township farm Thursday, Berrien sheriff's deputies said.

Greg Tidey, route 6, Dowagiac, told deputies the damage occurred at his farm on Pucker street south of Dean's Hill road. He said the frames of the machines were bent and hoses cut. Damage was estimated at about $500. He also said it appeared the machines had been driven and corn seed and fertilizer scattered about.

Bud Cooling Here Did Delay Blossoms

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Two blocks of fruit trees in Van Buren county were watered on warm days this spring in a partially successful attempt to slow bud development.

A two-day delay in blossom-time for apples and tart cherries was achieved, although researchers got a late start because of technical problems and the premature warm weather this spring, said Michigan State University's Dr. Frank Dennis.

Any effects from the two-day delay, however, were obscured because irrigation was turned on over the research plots on several nights of freezing temperatures.

The principle tested at Hilltop Orchards and Dowd Orchards was "evaporative cooling." If a fruit bud is watered when the temperature is above 45 degrees, evaporation of the water will tend to cool off the bud and delay its development, Dennis said.

Although sprinkling should have begun by the second week of March, Dennis didn't begin work with the block of four-year-old Red Delicious apples at Hilltop until April 7.

On April 7, buds were at the "1/2-inch green" stage. During the next four weeks, whenever it was above 45 degrees the sprinklers were turned on. They ran on a cycle of three minutes on and three minutes off, Dennis said.

Each of the 12 nozzles sprayed five gallons of water a minute from orifices of five thirty-secondths of an inch, he said. The sprinklers were 15 feet above the ground on risers fed from one pipe that ran down one row of trees. Sprinklers were located between each five trees in the row, and were to cover the center row and one row right and left, Dennis explained.

The sprinklers were installed by orchard owner Wally Heuser last year for frost prevention, and he allowed Dennis to use the system for the evaporative cooling tests. By the way, said Dennis, Heuser also used the system for frost protection during April and saved the crop of apples.

A rain gauge near the test sprinklers indicated that during the four weeks six and one-half inches of water were sprinkled on the area. Natural rainfall added another three and one-half inches, said Dennis.

Dennis said the three rows blossomed on May 4, two days later than the other trees in the block.

Dennis observed that the 15-foot riser pipes were too high for the dwarf trees. Wind blew the water far from its mark and, he thinks, lessened the effectiveness of the test.

Sour cherries sprinkled for delay beginning March 25 at Dowd Orchards also showed a two-day delay, Dennis said. Wind caused coverage problems there too, but the trees nearest the sprinklers showed a four-day delay in blossom.

In four weeks, 9.8 inches of water were sprinkled. In that time, the temperature was above 45 degrees for 164 hours, said Dennis. Sprinklers at Dowd's ran on a cycle of on for four and one-half minutes and off for three minutes.

The experiments, a first for Michigan although the procedure is used in less humid areas such as Western Texas and Utah, indicate to Dennis that Michigan growers might be able to gain a week by sprinkling.

Similar tests in Ohio gained a nine-day delay for apples (and in one case a permanent delay when researchers applied 50 inches of water on dwarf Golden Delicious and drowned the young trees).

Dennis offered some suggestions to growers who might want to try sprinkling for bud delay in their orchards.

— Only try it with light, well-drained soils. Otherwise, the grower will create a swamp in the orchard.

— Using larger blocks and more sprinklers will overcome the coverage problem caused by winds.

— Use a small nozzle, no larger than seven sixty-fourths of an inch, to avoid putting on too much water.

— Use a lighter-than-normal sprinkler head, so that less water pressure is needed to "kick it around."

— Have the system ready in the fall.

Dennis, a horticulturist, plans to continue his work next spring on apples and sweet cherries. He's been trying to delay bloom with chemicals for several years, but changed to water because "there are too many side effects with chemicals."

Processed Apple Prices Strong, More Fresh Market Activity

As the storage season comes to a close, Michigan processing apple prices are strong, the manager of the Michigan Processing Apple Growers said this week.

Apple slice processors are paying about $7 a hundred-weight for Jonathans and more for Northern Spys, said Thomas Butler.

Although few sauce apples are being packed, those that are sell for about $4 a hundred-weight, and juice apples are getting the same price, Butler said.

Last fall individual processors made different agreements with the Growers, but settled at $3.25 for Spys, $3 for Jonathans and $2.75 for sauce. Juice apples were sold for $1.75.

Responsible for bidding up the prices are recent freezes in Michigan and other production areas, Butler said. And it's possible that the United States Department of Agriculture's estimate that pegged Michigan's crop at 17 million pounds last fall was too high. Butler said that guess was one to one and one-half million bushels too high.

According to the Michigan Apple Committee, fresh market sales of Michigan apples are running about 15 percent ahead of last year at this time.

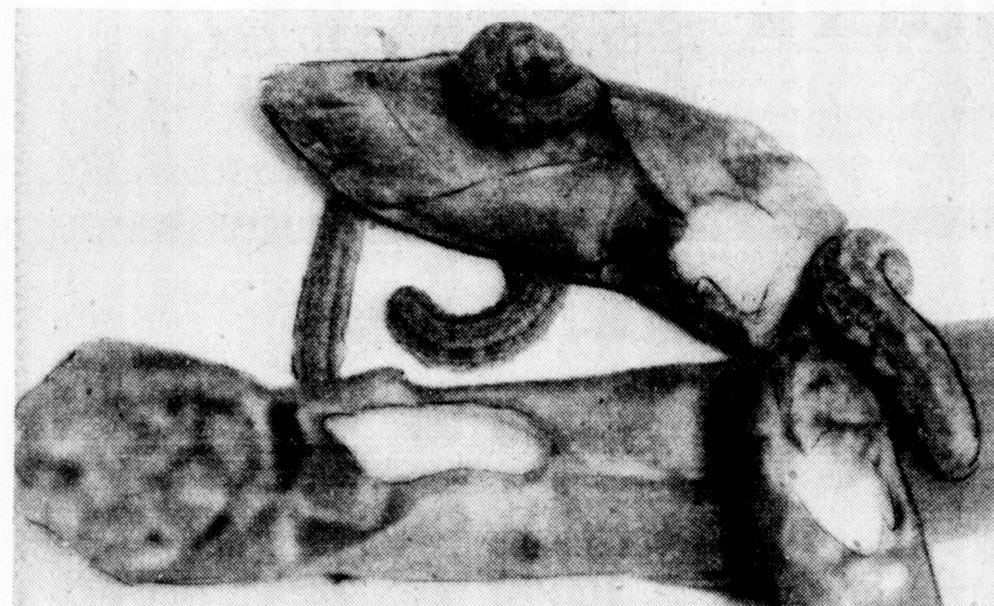

Butler said that more McIntosh apples had to be sold fresh because processors "short-packed" apple sauce last year because they were still carrying high-priced 1974 inventories.

On the other hand, processors packed a greater percentage of frozen slices than ordinary, he said. Half of the Michigan processed crop goes for slicers, he added.

There are between 700,000 and 800,000 bushels of Michigan apples currently in storage, Butler said. Over 8 million bushels were stored as of Nov. 1, the apple committee reported.

FARMERS NEED LAND, LOTS OF LAND

The task of feeding and clothing the U.S. population requires at least 30 times more land than the amount needed for all the housing in cities, towns and suburbs throughout the nation.

NEW CUTWORM: Cutworms and damaged asparagus spears were found in the field this week by Jim Neibauer, Berrien Extension agent. Feeding scars (light spots) on and near the spear tip is a sign of the presence of the worms, which feed at night, he said. (Staff photo)

'Gras Growers Turn Down Promotion Plan

An asparagus promotion program was narrowly defeated this week in a referendum that saw only 200 votes cast of possible 906, the Michigan Department of Agriculture announced Wednesday.

There were 129 "Yes" votes cast by growers who sold 64 per cent of the tonnage of product represented in the voting, the state agriculture department said. There were 71 "No" votes received, and those growers accounted for 36 per cent of the tonnage.

Although a majority of the growers voted "Yes," the 129-vote total was four short of the two-thirds majority needed for passage, the department stated. To pass, "Yes" votes would have to have been cast by either two-thirds of the growers representing 51 per cent of the tonnage, or 51 per cent of the growers representing two-thirds of the tonnage, stated the department.

According to Larrestine Trimm, of the department's information and education division, ballots were mailed to 906 Michigan growers of fresh-market and processed asparagus. Ballots had to be returned by May 3.

Voters accounted for about 8.5 million pounds of the state's 19.8 million pound 1975 crop, the department reported. Ballots were mailed to all growers who earned over $800 from asparagus sales last year.

The decision to conduct the referendum followed a public hearing called on March 26 by the agriculture department in response to petitions signed by more than 300 asparagus growers.

Harry Foster, manager of the Michigan Asparagus Growers — a group favoring the promotion program — said that money raised by an assessment would be used for research projects, promotion of Michigan asparagus and expanded marketing.

Under the proposal, the assessment could be no higher than one-half cent a pound, he said. On a 20 million pound crop, the maximum assessment would raise $100,000, he said.

Canners' Group Sets Annual Meet For June 20-22

The Michigan Canners and Freezers association will hold its annual meeting June 20 through 22 at Boyne Highlands, a ski and summer resort near Petoskey. Association members and suppliers of raw materials for processors will hold meetings, golf and tennis tournaments.

the first time, Berrien Vegetable Agent Jim Neibauer said.

The worms are similar to those which cause trouble in Oceana county, he said.

The cutworms prefer sandy soils, Neibauer said. During the day they stay just under the ground, and at night they crawl up the spears, feeding. Most of the damage done to the spear is on and near the tip. The scars make the spears unacceptable for processing, Neibauer said.

Because of the worms' cycle, spraying should be done at night, when they are out feeding, he said. Sevin, applied at a rate of one pound of active chemical per acre, has been a successful control in Oceana county, he added.

It's fortunate that the worms waited until this time to move into Southwestern Michigan. Neibauer said that Seven was only recently registered for control. Before that Oceana growers had no effective control means.

Neibauer would like growers who have the cutworm in their asparagus to contact him so he can keep track of the infestation. Both white and gray cutworms were present in Oceana county, he said. So far, the exact type of cutworm present in Southwestern Michigan hasn't been identified, he added.

TEAM EFFORT: Members of the National Farmers' Organization at Zanesville, Ohio, helped out a neighbor by plowing his fields recently. The neighbor, Jerry Frazier, was meanwhile busy working on what remains of his house after a recent fire. The volunteer workers used 20 tractors to plow nearly 100 acres on the Frazier farm. ## American Dairy Industry Had Start In 1624

By the time of the Revolution, the dairy industry was a viable part of the agricultural economy in America.

On the day the new nation was born, July 4, 1776, a Dauphin county, Pa., farmer, Christian Noecker, completed the long overland trek from near Harrisburg to Philadelphia. His Conestoga wagon was loaded with farm produce, including large quantities of butter.

After delivering his produce to markets, Noecker joined the throngs in the streets and heard the ringing of the Liberty Bell. Loud cheering and firing of guns continued long after nightfall as bonfires were lit and torchlight processions proclaimed the official step toward independence.

As independence was being declared, dairy farming was already more than a century and a half old. It started with the arrival of the ship "Charity" at the Plymouth Colony on a cold, blustery day in March of 1624. Part of the cargo was a bull and three heifers — the first such animals to arrive in the Colonies some four years after the first Pilgrims landed.

The cattle numbers grew steadily as each arriving ship had some aboard. These first animals were valued chiefly for their hides and the breeding of oxen to help till the soil. Inside of a few years, the Massachusetts Colony had its first oversupply of cattle.

An early history states: "By 1632, there was in New England not only a domestic, but an export demand from the West Indies, which led to breeding for sale. But the market was soon overstocked. The price of cattle went down from 20 to 5 pounds (in that day's currency) and milk was a penny a quart."

Soon, an entire town would gather all of the animals and young men were hired as "cowkeepers" to watch them in pasture on common grazing lands. Then, cropland was fenced in to keep the cattle out. The cows were trained to obey the sound of a horn, following the young men to the grazing land in the morning and returning at night for milking. A young man would receive pounds for tending 100 cattle an entire summer, but had to forfeit threepence each time he failed to bring in all of the cows and milk a year from each of his 41 cows. This was about three times the earnings of the average dairy farmer in Colonial times.

From these early beginnings grew today's modern dairy industry.

Allegan Sheriff Will Run Again

ALLEGAN — Allegan Sheriff Robert J. Whitcomb has announced he is a candidate for re-election for a final four-year term. Whitcomb, who will be 58 in August, has been sheriff for 14 years, and prior to that served for 11 years as a deputy and then undersheriff. The sheriff said if he is elected it will be his last term as head of the department which has 40 employees.

Five Republicans and one Democrat have already announced their candidacy for the office.

The lone Democrat is Thomas F. Fleming of Trowbridge township.

In his re-election announcement, Whitcomb's list of accomplishments included bringing a crime information computer, breathalyzer and detective bureau to the department.

He added that all of his road deputies are graduates of Law enforcement academies. The department's Traffic and Safety division has more road miles to police than any other sheriff's department in the state, he added.

The driver's license bureau is also located in the sheriff's department and in 1975 10,684 licenses were issued and 1,040 re-examinations held, producing $24,000 in profit for the county, he said in his announcement.

The sheriff and his wife Janet have two children, Dawn, 21, and Robin, 16.

He said he has recovered from open heart surgery he underwent in October, 1974.

Test Order Irks Wagon Train Riders

By PATRICK CONNOLLY Associated Press Writer LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A last-minute state order that horses be tested for infectious disease has angered many people in southwest Michigan who were suddenly barred from Michigan's historic Bicentennial Wagon Train. About 150 youngsters were prevented from riding with the covered wagon in Mendon on Wednesday because their horses were not tested for equine infectious anemia, said an angry St. Joseph County Sheriff Neibert Balk.

Seminar Slated For Patient Kin

Berrien General Hospital is offering a free seminar for relatives and friends of long-term care patients in hospitals and nursing homes or invalids being cared for at home.

Entitled, "Maintaining Dignity," the seminar is part of the hospital's reality orientation program which is concerned with helping confused patients maintain an awareness of their surroundings.

The seminar, sponsored by the Patient Care committee, will be held on May 20 from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. in the employees' dining room at the hospital.

"All persons who have friends or relatives who, due to illness or emotional problems, are experiencing confusion or disorientation are especially invited to attend the seminar," explained Mrs. Dianne Carlson, patient representative.

Mrs. Barbara Marsh, R.N., will be the seminar leader. She will be assisted by Mrs. Betty Benhager, activity director, and Mrs. Carlson. Reservations for the seminar are not necessary.

covered wagon in Mendon on Wednesday because their horses were not tested for equine infectious anemia, said an angry St. Joseph County Sheriff Neibert Balk.

Probably hundreds more hopeful riders are suddenly ineligible because Gov. William Milliken signed an emergency rule Monday requiring horses in the train to have the tests, Balk said.

Most of the disappointed riders will be from St. Joseph and Cass counties, where local officials informed citizens that an earlier, informal test requirement was not legally binding, state sources said.

Milliken's emergency rule is in effect only for 30 days and applies only to Bicentennial Wagon Train livestock and not other Michigan horses or oxen.

"We've got a lot of mad 4-H kids and parents. If the governor would have gotten on the stick and had them pass a law requiring the test a year ago, it probably would have been all right, but he didn't," Balk said Thursday.

"I thought it was going to be a fun thing where everybody could go out and ride around and have a good time. The governor interfered with a lot of fun. He was completely out of line."

Milliken's rule requires all wagon train horses to have certificates proving they had negative results from the Coggins Blood Test for equine infectious anemia.

The disease is fatal to 30 to 70 per cent of the animals infected and can be transmitted from animal-to-animal, through infected equipment or by flies and mosquitoes, say agriculture officials, who requested the emergency action.

Balk's own posse of about 15 riders had to drop out because their horses had not been tested within the last 180 days as Milliken's rule required.

Prior to Monday, it was legal for the wagon train horses to move about the state without the test. Michigan law required the test only for horses entering the state from another state.

K Of C Donates $200 For Meals

Grand Knight Arden Pridgeon announced that the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph council of the Knights of Columbus has donated a $200 check to the Meals on Wheels program.

According to Richard Seymour, deputy grand knight and charity chairman, the Knights of Columbus recognize that the Meals on Wheels program is a non-profit group attempting to fill a need in this area. This program to feed elderly and shut-ins who are unable to get a warm, balanced meal, is in a radical growth period, he added. The total meals served in 1975 were 1,772. As of May 1 of this year, 1,611 meals have been served, with projection of 5,000 for the year.

Rev. William Pearson, board treasurer for the Meals on Wheels program, stated he was grateful to the K of C council for the support and hoped that other groups and individuals will also come forward and help support the growing demand for this service.

Lucy Mayer, R.N., chairman for volunteers to deliver noon meals, advised that 25 people are needed now who can deliver meals twice a month. Another 25 will be needed before the end of the year.

The meals are not free. Clients are asked to donate the actual cost of the meals which are prepared at Mercy and Memorial hospitals. Some clients who need the service are unable to afford this and outside contributions allow meals to be delivered to these people.

Information about the program is available from Mrs. R.J. Gersonde, project coordinator, at 429-8073 after 4 p.m. or by writing to Meals on Wheels, 717 East Napier, Benton Harbor.

BH School Vote Registry Cutoff Looms

Residents of the Benton Harbor area school district who are not already registered but want to vote in the June school election must register to vote by Monday, May 17, school officials reminded today. People interested in running for election to the board of education must also turn in nominating petitions by that date.

Registration must be completed with the person's respective city or township clerk.

Voters will select two members of the seven-member board of education to serve four-year terms. Expiring seats are now held by Board Vice-President Frank Culby, and Board Secretary Philip McDonald. Both have indicated they intend to seek re-election.

Also on the ballot will be a request for approval of a "pay-as-you-go" maintenance millage to supply funds to renovate and repair school buildings. The proposal calls for a one-mill increase in property taxes for each of the next five years. This one-mill proposal was narrowly defeated in a special March school election. Supt. Richard Helsler said the

"pay-as-you-go" feature can save taxpayers money and headaches in the future.

"By avoiding issuing expensive bonds, taxpayers save high interest charges that otherwise would go into banks and not schools," he explained.

For most people, he added, the new maintenance millage would cost only $5 to $10 yearly. Schools throughout the district are in need of repair, according to an extensive survey prepared by a special committee of school officials, engineering and architectural consultants last year. Number one problem appears to be leaking roofs, which have caused extensive damage and disruption at Fairplain junior high, Hull and Bard schools, and others.

The roof leakage also damages electrical wiring, plaster walls, furniture and flooring, creating a complicated problem.

5 years.

That's the exact time it takes for a U. S. Savings Bond to mature. Unfortunately, most people still think it takes 10 years. Or 7. Wrong. It's exactly 5 years.

Of course, if you want to keep your money earning, there's a 10-year extension privilege beyond maturity.

We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

BHHS Gets 'Generally Good' Report On Safety Conditions

An inspection of Benton Harbor high school and two vocational centers by inspectors for the state Department of Labor indicated that safety conditions at the three campus sites are generally good, according to school officials.

However, 18 minor violations were listed in the final report, with total fines set at $88.

The inspection was carried out under the new Michigan Occupational Safety Health Act (MIOSHA), a recent law that sets strict standards on machinery operated by students or employees, working conditions in general, and safety conditions.

Most common violations listed consisted of belts and pulleys with unapproved protective devices on motors in various vocational education shops and school boiler rooms. Other corrections needed include guards for the band and radial saws at the Vocational - Technical center on Valley drive, and an automatic sprinkling system for the paint spray booth up and down side filters in the Skill Center on Fair avenue.

All of the minor violations are being corrected, according to Deputy Superintendent for Administrative Services Robert Payne. He said the district is also taking extra steps to make sure shop classes and other high-risk areas are as safe as possible.

"We regularly ask our insurance carriers to supply us with safety information and informal reviews of our classes," he noted, "and our vocational teachers and administrators are constantly learning more about safety from in-service workshops and publications." These additional steps help keep the school's safety record in good shape, said Payne.

Congress Eyes Mine Disaster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress want to know why federal safety officials did not take strong action against a Kentucky coal mine with a record of repeated safety violations where 26 men later died in explosions.

Stiff penalties against the Scotia Coal Co. mine were under consideration six months before the explosions, a congressional panel was told Thursday.

VOTE OKAYED

Bud Cooling Here Did Delay Blossoms

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Two blocks of fruit trees in Van Buren county were watered on warm days this spring in a partially successful attempt to slow bud development.

A two-day delay in blossom-time for apples and tart cherries was achieved, although researchers got a late start because of technical problems and the premature warm weather this spring, said Michigan State University's Dr. Frank Dennis.

Any effects from the two-day delay, however, were obscured because irrigation was turned on over the research plots on several nights of freezing temperatures.

The principle tested at Hilltop Orchards and Dowd Orchards was "evaporative cooling." If a fruit bud is watered when the temperature is above 45 degrees, evaporation of the water will tend to cool off the bud and delay its development, Dennis said.

Although sprinkling should have begun by the second week of March, Dennis didn't begin work with the block of four-year-old Red Delicious apples at Hilltop until April 7.

On April 7, buds were at the "1/2-inch green" stage. During the next four weeks, whenever it was above 45 degrees, the sprinklers were turned on. They ran on a cycle of three minutes on and three minutes off, Dennis said.

Each of the 12 nozzles sprayed five gallons of water a minute from orifices of five thirty-secondths of an inch, he said. The sprinklers were 15 feet above the ground on risers fed from one pipe that ran down one row of trees. Sprinklers were located between each five trees in the row, and were to cover the center row and one row right and left, Dennis explained.

The sprinklers were installed by orchard owner Wally Heuser last year for frost prevention, and he allowed Dennis to use the system for the evaporative cooling tests. By the way, said Dennis, Heuser also used the system for frost protection during April and saved the crop of apples.

A rain gauge near the test sprinklers indicated that during the four weeks six and one-half inches of water were sprinkled on the area. Natural rainfall added another three and one-half inches, said Dennis.

Dennis said the three rows blossomed on May 4, two days later than the other trees in the block.

Dennis observed that the 15-foot riser pipes were too high for the dwarf trees. Wind blew the water far from its mark and, he thinks, lessened the effectiveness of the test.

Sour cherries sprinkled for delay beginning March 25 at Dowd Orchards also showed a two-day delay, Dennis said. Wind caused coverage problems there too, but the trees nearest the sprinklers showed a four-day delay in blossom.

In four weeks, 9.8 inches of water were sprinkled. In that time, the temperature was above 45 degrees for 184 hours, said Dennis. Sprinklers at Dowd's ran on a cycle of on for four and one-half minutes and off for three minutes.

The experiments, a first for Michigan although the procedure is used in less humid areas such as Western Texas and Utah, indicate to Dennis that Michigan growers might be able to gain a week by sprinkling.

Similar tests in Ohio gained a nine-day delay for apples (and in one case a permanent delay when researchers applied 50 inches of water on dwarf Golden Delicious and drowned the young trees).

Dennis offered some suggestions to growers who might want to try sprinkling for bud delay in their orchards.

— Only try it with light, well-drained soils. Otherwise, the grower will create a swamp in the orchard.

— Using larger blocks and more sprinklers will overcome the coverage problem caused by winds.

— Use a small nozzle, no larger than seven-sixty-fourths of an inch, to avoid putting on too much water.

— Use a lighter-than-normal sprinkler head, so that less water pressure is needed to "kick it around."

— Have the system ready in the fall.

Dennis, a horticulturist, plans to continue his work next spring on apples and sweet cherries. He's been trying to delay bloom with chemicals for several years, but changed to water because "there are too many side effects with chemicals."

Processed Apple Prices Strong, More Fresh Market Activity

As the storage season comes to a close, Michigan processing apple prices are strong, the manager of the Michigan Processing Apple Growers said this week.

Apple slice processors are paying about $7 a hundred-weight for Jonathans and more for Northern Spys, said Thomas Butler.

Although few sauce apples are being packed, those that are sell for about $4 a hundred-weight, and juice apples are getting the same price, Butler said.

Last fall individual processors made different agreements with the Growers, but settled at $3.25 for Spys, $3 for Jonathans and $2.75 for sauce. Juice apples were sold for $1.75.

Responsible for bidding up the prices are recent freezes in Michigan and other production areas, Butler said. And it's possible that the United States Department of Agriculture's estimate that pegged Michigan's crop at 17 million pounds last fall was too high. Butler said that guess was one to one and one-half million bushels too high.

According to the Michigan Apple Committee, fresh market sales of Michigan apples are running about 15 percent ahead of last year at this time.

Butler said that more McIntosh apples had to be sold fresh because processors "short-packed" apple sauce last year because they were still carrying high-priced 1974 inventories.

On the other hand, processors packed a greater percentage of frozen slices than ordinary, he said. Half of the Michigan processed crop goes for slices, he added.

There are between 700,000 and 800,000 bushels of Michigan apples currently in storage, Butler said. Over 8 million bushels were stored as of Nov. 1, the apple committee reported.

'Gras Growers Turn Down Promotion Plan

An asparagus promotion program was narrowly defeated this week in a referendum that saw only 200 votes cast of possible 900, the Michigan Department of Agriculture announced Wednesday.

There were 128 "Yes" votes cast by growers who sold 61 per cent of the tonnage of product represented in the voting, the state agriculture department said. There were 71 "No" votes received, and those growers accounted for 36 per cent of the tonnage.

Although a majority of the growers voted "Yes," the 128-vote total was four short of the two-thirds majority needed for passage, the department stated.

To pass, "Yes" votes would have to have been cast by either two-thirds of the growers representing 51 per cent of the tonnage, or 51 per cent of the growers representing two-thirds of the tonnage, stated the department.

According to Larrestine Trimm, of the department's information and education division, ballots were mailed to 906 Michigan growers of fresh-market and processed asparagus. Ballots had to be returned by May 3.

Voters accounted for about 8.5 million pounds of the state's 19.8 million pound 1978 crop, the department reported. Ballots were mailed to all growers who earned over $800 from asparagus sales last year.

The decision to conduct the referendum followed a public hearing called on March 26 by the agriculture department in response to petitions signed by more than 300 asparagus growers.

Harry Foster, manager of the Michigan Asparagus Growers — a group favoring the promotion program — said that money raised by an assessment would be used for research projects, promotion of Michigan asparagus and expanded marketing.

Under the proposal, the assessment could be no higher than one-half cent a pound, he said. On a 20 million pound crop, the maximum assessment would raise $100,000, he said.

NEW CUTWORM: Cutworms and damaged asparagus spears were found in the field this week by Jim Neibauer, Berrien Extension agent. Feeding scars (light spots) on and near the spear tip is a sign of the presence of the worms, which feed at night, he said. (Staff photo)

Destructive 'Gras Cutworm Is Here

A destructive asparagus cutworm is active in the Calumet and Keeler growing areas for the first time, Berrien Vegetable Agent Jim Neibauer said.

The worms are similar to those which cause trouble in Oceana county, he said. The cutworms prefer sandy soils, Neibauer said. During the day they stay just under the ground, and at night they crawl up the spears, feeding. Most of the damage done to the spear is on and near the tip. The scars make the spears unacceptable for processing, Neibauer said.

Because of the worms' cycle, spraying should be done at night, when they are out feeding, he said. Seven, applied at a rate of one pound of active chemical per acre, has been a successful control in Oceana county, he added.

It's fortunate that the worms waited until this time to move into Southwestern Michigan, Neibauer said that Seven was only recently registered for control. Before that Oceana growers had no effective control means.

Neibauer would like growers who have the cutworm in their asparagus to contact him so he can keep track of the infestation. Both white and gray cutworms were present in Oceana county, he said. So far, the exact type of cutworm present in Southwestern Michigan hasn't been identified, he added.

TEAM EFFORT: Members of the National Farmers' Organization at Zanesville, Ohio, helped out a neighbor by plowing his fields recently. The neighbor, Jerry Frazier, was meanwhile busy working on what remains of his house after a recent fire. The volunteer workers used 20 tractors to plow nearly 100 acres on the Frazier farm. ## American Dairy Industry Had Start In 1624

By the time of the Revolution, the dairy industry was a viable part of the agricultural economy in America.

On the day the new nation was born, July 4, 1776, a Dauphin county, Pa., farmer, Christian Necker, completed the long overland trek from near Harrisburg to Philadelphia. His Conestoga wagon was loaded with farm produce, including large quantities of butter.

After delivering his produce to markets, Necker joined the throngs in the streets and heard the ringing of the Liberty Bell. Loud cheering and firing of guns continued long after midnight as bonfires were lit and torchlight processions proclaimed the official step toward independence.

As independence was being declared, dairy farming was already more than a century and a half old. It started with the arrival of the ship "Charity" at the Plymouth Colony on a cold, blustery day in March of 1624. Part of the cargo was a bull and three heifers — the first such animals to arrive in the Colonies some four years after the first Pilgrims landed.

The cattle numbers grew steadily as each arriving ship had some aboard. These first animals were valued chiefly for their hides and the breeding of oxen to help till the soil. Inside of a few years, the Massachusetts Colony had its first oversupply of cattle.

An early history states: "By 1632, there was in New England not only a domestic, but an export demand from the West Indies, which led to breeding for sale. But the market was soon overstocked. The price of cattle went down from 20 to 5 pounds (in that day's currency) and milk was a penny a quart."

Soon, an entire town would gather all of the animals and young men were hired as "cowkeepers" to watch them in pasture on common grazing lands. Then, cropland was fenced in to keep the cattle out. The cows were trained to obey the sound of a horn, following the young men to the grazing land in the morning and returning at night for milking. A young man would receive pounds for tending 100 cattle an entire summer, but had to forfeit threepence each time he failed to bring in all of the cows at night.

As time went on, dairymen became more concerned about the economies of their operations. By the mid-1800's, a top dairy farmer in New York grossed $62 in butter, cheese and milk a year from each of his 41 cows. This was about three times the earnings of the average dairy farmer in Colonial times.

Farmers Intend To Up Corn Acreage And Cut Soybean Plantings

Michigan farmers are planning substantial increases in corn acreage and sharp reductions in soybean acreage, the state Crop Reporting Service stated. According to its report:

— Corn acreage will increase seven percent to 2,450,000 acres, 150,000 more acres than were planted in Michigan in 1975.

530,000, 65,000 fewer acres than planted last year.

— Planting intentions for oats indicate a three per cent reduction from 1975 to 300,000 acres.

— Total potato acreage is expected to increase eight per cent; three per cent for the summer crop and 10 per cent for the fall crop.

Furnace Sets Fire To Dog's Paper Bed

A dog that pushed newspaper into the front of a furnace was blamed for a fire Thursday in the basement at the Dorothy Brewster residence, 811 Superior street, Benton Harbor firemen reported.

Firemen said Mrs. Brewster had the fire out when they arrived shortly after they were called at about 11 a.m. Damaged were three wall studs and some electrical wiring. Mrs. Brewster told firemen she had placed newspapers on the floor for the dog and it pushed the papers into the front of the furnace from which the door panel had been removed. She said the furnace had been converted from oil to gas.

Another fire Thursday caused an estimated $5,000 damage at Superior Steel Castings company, 309 Graham avenue, city firemen said.

A 20-foot section of a wall in the carpenter shop area was burned, firemen said. Workers using cutting torches that ignited sawdust from saws was listed as cause of the blaze reported shortly before 4 p.m.

It was the second fire this week at Superior Steel.

Lawmaker Named In Complaint

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Scoffing at an assault complaint filed against her, state Rep. Daisy Elliott said Thursday she's never kept anyone out of her committee meetings but won't let people harass her. The Detroit Democrat commented Thursday on an assault complaint filed against her by Pat Barbour, Michigan chairperson of the Happiness of Womanhood (HOW). The complaint, filed with the State Police, alleged that Mrs. Elliott verbally assaulted Kay Pratt, also a HOW member, on Tuesday. The complaint says Mrs. Elliott told her "If you come up here again with your group, I'm going to knock you flat." Mrs. Elliott denied threatening anyone, but said the two women followed her out of a Tuesday committee meeting on a measure that would allow school textbooks to be screened for racial and sexual stereotypes. An aide said Mrs. Pratt testified against the bill, claiming it would prevent her from reading "Little Black Sambo" to her children.

No Pot Shots

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House refused Thursday to take a pot shot at the state's new auto repair licensing law during consideration of a $122.9 million general government spending bill. The bill is $1.2 million less than the governor asked for. The House approved the measure 68-23 and provided that it become law as soon as the governor signs it. The bill was amended on the floor of the House to cut out $35,000 worth of raises for five top department officials. Raises for district court and probate court judges were also halved on the House floor to $540. The measure also includes a $1,500 raise for state appeals court judges; and $1,200 raises for circuit court, probate court, and Detroit Recorder's Court judges.

In a 1975 interview, Mrs. Bailey said her mother held an Indian ceremony to will her the years the mother should have lived. Mrs. Bailey's mother died at a young age when her daughter was a child. Mrs. Bailey was born June 20, 1869, in Oceana County's Elbridge Township.

Wayland Man Charged

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 32-year-old Wayland man was charged Thursday in the abduction of a Barry County girl while police in Detroit hunted a man who abducted a 12-year-old girl and released her a few hours later. In the Barry County abduction, Wilbur E. Reser was arrested when Grand Haven police found him and the 13-year-old girl wrapped in blankets in Reser's car early Thursday morning, officers said. Barry County deputies said the girl was abducted near her home in Middleville Wednesday night. Grand Haven police said she had been stabbed 16 times with a screwdriver. She was in stable condition at North Ottawa Community Hospital. Grand Haven police were at the local airport checking another matter when they spotted the tailights of Reser's car on a nearby dirt road. Grand Haven Police Chief Richard Klempel said he did not know until after she was taken to the hospital that the girl was the object of a police search. In Detroit, police were looking for a man about 20 years old who abducted a 12-year-old girl on her way to school Thursday and released her later.

Indictment Says Self-Styled 'Bishop' Also A 'Bluebeard'

NEW YORK (AP) — Deveron LeGrand, who called himself a bishop and reportedly earned about $250,000 a year by having his "nuns" beg on the streets, has been indicted for murdering and dismembering four women. Two of the victims were his former wives.

LeGrand, who reportedly went through marriage ceremonies with more than a dozen of his cult members, has boasted of siring 50 sons by various "wives" and "nuns" who lived in the Brooklyn brownstone he called "St. John's Pentacostal Church of our Lord."

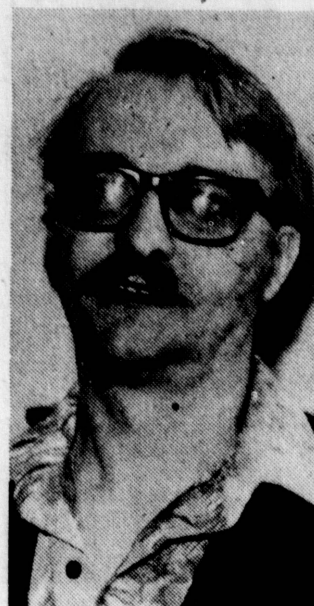

The bodies of two of the women, LeGrand's daughter-in-law Gladys Rivera Stewart, 18, and her sister, Yvonne Rivera, 16, were found last October in a Catskill Mountain lake, partly burned and dismembered.

LeGrand's stepson, Steven Strong, also known as Steven LeGrand, was indicted with him in the deaths, which allegedly were carried out to keep the girls from testifying against LeGrand in a rape case.

LeGrand was convicted of rape without their testimony and is now serving a 5-to-15-year term.

The other two dead women were Ann Sorise and Ernestine Timmons, both about 30. Both had been "wives" of LeGrand, authorities said.

The Sorise woman was shot, beaten and dismembered in 1963, and the Timmons woman

More Morgue Probing?

DETROIT (AP) — The Wayne County Prosecutor's office has been asked to reopen its probe into the county morgue after the medical examiner said Thursday a large number of corpses have been dismembered by one or more morgue employees. Dr. Werner Spitz, the county medical examiner, said he was going to suspend one employee he suspects of dismembering corpses. Spitz said the dismemberments were linked to his recent discovery of body tissue in a room in the basement of the Wayne State Medical School. A student who worked with the morgue employee said a skeletonizing room at the medical school was used by the employee to strip flesh from bodies and bleach the bones. John Barr, chairman of the county board of commissioners, said the uses were not in the realm of medical experimentation. The first probe focused on Spitz taking body parts such as pituitary glands and brains from corpses entrusted to the morgue for medical experiments.

Millions For Welfare

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate approved a $102 million bill to meet additional social services costs after a bitter partisan battle over adding an extra $2 million to the measure. The debate, which lasted into the evening hours Thursday, threatened the future of the bill as Republicans withheld their votes on "immediate effect." Without a two-thirds vote on immediate effect, the measure would not take effect until next April. Meanwhile, state social services officials are holding up about $25 million in payments to hospitals, nursing homes, doctors and home health care providers, among others, according to lawmakers. The bill, passed 21-11 Thursday, returns to the House for consideration of an extra $1.9 million in state money for Medicaid and Medicare programs in hearing, dental and vision services. The addition of the money touched off a fight which led to GOP abandonment of the bill. Originally, the Department of Social Services was slated to get $99.9 million for expenses during the rest of the current fiscal year.

Mayor's Speech Becomes Debate

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

A speech by Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph yesterday at Lake Michigan college turned into a debate between Joseph and former Benton Harbor City Atty. Yvonne Hughes. Joseph spoke at LMC as part of the college's Senate Activities week. Atty. Hughes, who spoke at LMC Wednesday on the Benton Harbor recall effort, appeared in the audience of some 20 people at Joseph's address.

Joseph reaffirmed his support of the "full-time mayor" form of government over the present city manager-commission form. He also said his only concern about the upcoming recall election was "for the citizens of Benton Harbor."

Joseph and four city commissioners are targets of a recall election Tuesday. Atty. Hughes, who was fired as city attorney by Joseph's "Clean Slate" bloc of city commissioners Feb. 12, is a member of the recall drive.

During Joseph's address yesterday, Atty. Hughes challenged Joseph on the Clean Slate's reasons for firing her and asked him to justify the Clean Slate's campaign promise of reduced cost of government.

Joseph shrugged off the firing issue saying "I do not want to get into specifics ... and do damage to a reputation."

Atty. Hughes said the city's expenses for attorney services, in the three months since she was fired Feb. 12, have amounted to at least $12,000 when "you (Joseph) promised a lesser cost." (Atty. Hughes' pay as city attorney was based on an annual salary of $19,000.)

Joseph responded that the city also hired other attorneys on a contractual basis while Atty. Hughes was city attorney and said "during the last few months, demand for legal opinions and other kinds of legal work has increased."

Joseph said that there currently is a need for a "massive campaign to educate the people" on the different forms of government "and let them decide."

"The present type of government (city manager-commission) was designed for people with wealth who wanted to maintain the status quo,"

Tougher Bail Rules

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some ex-convicts and people charged with some crimes carrying maximum life sentences would be denied bail under a proposed constitutional amendment in the House. The House Judiciary Committee Thursday voted 9-0 to report out the measure sponsored by Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, committee chairman. Rosenbaum said the measure, which needs two-thirds legislative approval plus voter approval in November, will not violate the U.S. Constitution and will help keep potentially dangerous people off the streets. The measure, a substitute for any earlier proposal, would not take effect until next April 1. Rosenbaum said the proposal as sent to the full House was rewritten in conjunction with the State Bar of Michigan, which has not formally endorsed the measure.

the business after being discharged.

Smietanka complimented Benton Harbor police and the grand jury investigating staff for their work on the case, and paid special tribute to Marrs and Investigator Thomas

Harken, assigned to the grand jury from the Benton Harbor state police post.

Thus far, the grand jury has indicted 12 men, including two St. Joseph attorneys, six Niles police officers, and one former Niles patrolman. The murder indictments were the most serious so far and were the first to deal with violence.

The other charges ranged from embezzlement to breaking and entering to perjury.

Marrs would not predict when more indictments may be returned, but said: "The investigation is continuing and we anticipate more results from the grand jury."

K Of C Donates $200 For Meals

Grand Knight Arden Pridgeon announced that the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph council of the Knights of Columbus has donated a $200 check to the Meals on Wheels program.

According to Richard Seymour, deputy grand knight and charity chairman, the Knights of Columbus recognize that the Meals on Wheels program is a non-profit group attempting to fill a need in this area. This program to feed elderly and shut-ins who are unable to get a warm, balanced meal, is in a radical growth period, he added. The total meals served in 1975 were 1,772. As of May 1 of this year, 1,611 meals have been served, with projection of 5,000 for the year.

Rev. William Pearson, board treasurer for the Meals on Wheels program, stated he was grateful to the K of C council for the support and hoped that other groups and individuals will also come forward and help support the growing demand for this service.

Lucy Mayer, R.N., chairman for volunteers to deliver noon meals, advised that 25 people are needed now who can deliver meals twice a month. Another 25 will be needed before the end of the year.

The meals are not free. Clients are asked to donate the actual cost of the meals which are prepared at Mercy and Memorial hospitals. Some clients who need the service are unable to afford this and outside contributions allow meals to be delivered to these people.

Information about the program is available from Mrs. R.J. Gersonde, project coordinator, at 428-8073 after 4 p.m. or by writing to Meals on Wheels, 717 East Napier, Benton Harbor.

BHHS Gets 'Generally Good' Report On Safety Conditions

An inspection of Benton Harbor high school and two vocational centers by inspectors for the state Department of Labor indicated that safety conditions at the three campus sites are generally good, according to school officials.

However, 18 minor violations were listed in the final report, with total fines set at $88.

The inspection was carried out under the new Michigan Occupational Safety Health Act (MIOSHA), a recent law that sets strict standards on machinery operated by students or employees, working conditions in general, and safety conditions.

Most common violations listed consisted of belts and pulleys with unapproved protective devices on motors in various vocational education shops and school boiler rooms. Other corrections needed include guards for the band and radial saws at the Vocational - Technical center on Valley drive, and an automatic sprinkling system for the paint spray booth up and

BH School Vote Registry Cutoff Looms

Residents of the Benton Harbor area school district who are not already registered but want to vote in the June school election must register to vote by Monday, May 17, school officials reminded today.

People interested in running for election to the board of education must also turn in nominating petitions by that date.

Registration must be completed with the person's respective city or township clerk.

Voters will select two members of the seven-member board of education to serve four-year terms. Expiring seats are now held by Board Vice-President Frank Cuijby, and Board Secretary Philip McDonald. Both have indicated they intend to seek re-election.

Also on the ballot will be a request for approval of a "pay-as-you-go" maintenance millage to supply funds to renovate and repair school buildings. The proposal calls for a one-mill increase in property levies for each of the next five years. This one-mill proposal was narrowly defeated in a special March school election.

Supl. Richard Heiser said the

"pay-as-you-go" feature can save taxpayers money and headaches in the future.

"By avoiding issuing expensive bonds, taxpayers save high interest charges that otherwise would go into banks and not schools," he explained.

For most people, he added, the new maintenance millage would cost only $5 to $10 yearly.

Schools throughout the district are in need of repair, according to an extensive survey prepared by a special committee of school officials, engineering and architectural consultants last year. Number one problem appears to be leaking roofs, which have caused extensive damage and disruption at Fairplain junior high, Hall and Bard schools, and others.

Congress Eyes Mine Disaster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of Congress want to know why federal safety officials did not take strong action against a Kentucky coal mine with a record of repeated safety violations where 26 men later died in explosions.

Stiff penalties against the Scotia Coal Co. mine were under consideration six months before the explosions, a congressional panel was told Thursday.

VOTE OKAYED
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate has voted to permit counties in the Upper Peninsula to hold public referenda next August on controversial Project Seafarer.

Ford Bandwagon Bulging With Lawmakers From Michigan

Michigan's entire Republican delegation in Congress and all but two GOP members of the Michigan Legislature have thrown their support behind President Ford. Sen. Robert Griffin and all seven of Michigan's GOP U.S. representatives in Washington announced their support of Ford, in advance of the upcoming presidential primary in Ford's home state. In Lansing, 12 of the 13 Republicans in the State Senate and all but one of the 44 GOP House members rendered joint endorsements of the president. Sen. Jack Welborn of Kalamazoo, chairman of Ronald Reagan's Michigan campaign, was the sole exception in the State Senate. The only state representative not on the Ford bandwagon was Rep. Kirby Holmes of Utica, who said he is working for Alabama Governor George Wallace. All southwestern Michigan state legislators indicated they are Ford backers. They include Sens. Charles Zollar, Benton Harbor, and Gary Byker, Hudsonville and State Reps. Harry Gast of St. Joseph, Ray Mittan of Niles, Bela Kennedy of Bangor, and DeForrest Strang of Sturgis.

State Seeks Permit For Bridge Fill

Proposed M-139, US-31 Span Is Unique

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm-Features Editor

The State Department of Highways and Transportation has filed applications for permits to place fill in the St. Joseph river in conjunction with its plan to build a new bridge on M-139 (US-31).

The present schedule for replacing the Somerlayton bridge with a four-lane river crossing calls for bids to be opened in November of 1977, and construction to start early in 1978.

The bridge, to be constructed approximately 21 meters (70 feet) east of the existing bridge, will be unique in two respects. The highway department said it will be the first in Michigan designed in metric measurements, and also will be the first using a new "segmental" type of construction.

In response to the applications for fill permits, the Detroit district Army Corps of Engineers and the State Water Resources commission have issued a joint public notice. The notice invites persons with objections or views on the fill work or state water quality certification to file statements with the appropriate agency. Statements must be filed within 30 days from May 5, the date of the notice.

The highway department plans call for approximately 3,380 cubic meters of a granular material to be applied as backfill around the north and south abutments for the new bridge. Also, riprap protective fill, consisting of some 350 cubic meters of a granular material faced by 350 cubic meters of stone, will be placed in front of the abutments.

According to the notice, any person who has an interest which may be adversely affected by the issuance of a permit may request a public hearing.

Statements or requests for a public hearing should be addressed to the District Engineer, Detroit District, Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 1027, Detroit, 48231. Statements that deal with water quality certification are to be addressed to Water Resources Commission, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, 48926.

Lake Twp. Water System Bid Well Below Estimate

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The apparent low bid to expand the Lake township water system is some $600,000 less than anticipated, the Berrien county board of public works (BPW) found yesterday.

The board in a special session opened bids for the project, which will provide water to about 90 per cent of the township, and the apparent low bid was $3.4 million. Consulting engineers had originally estimated the project could cost some $4 million.

Nine firms bid on different phases of the project, with the apparent low bid being that of Woodruff & Sons Construction Co. of Michigan City. The high bid came from M & B Equipment, of Sterling Heights, Mich., at $4.78 million.

said he was "pleased the low bid was within the engineering estimate," and added all the bids will be turned over to the board's consulting engineers for recommendations as to the lowest and best bid.

Barnes anticipated bonds for the project should be sold in about three months. He also said bonding for the Lake township project will avoid two hurdles, one of which has caused a snag for some other projects requiring bonds.

Some bonding issues are being held in abeyance while the courts decide an issue of where the bond sale must be advertised, but Barnes noted the Lake township project falls under a different act and is not affected by court action.

Another possible problem was the City of Bridgman's attempt to annex that part of Lake township where the Cook nuclear plant is located. The state boundary commission recently denied the annexation, but the city has not signed a "no appeal" agreement.

Barnes noted the city has 60 days from May 6 in which to appeal the commission's decision to court, and said the BPW would wait until the appeal period has expired before starting the bonding procedure. The bids, he said, are good for 120 days from yesterday.

Barnes added the proposed bonding for the project has already received preliminary approval from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission.

The project will entail installation of some 45 miles of water mains throughout the township in order to bring potable water and fire protection to about 90 per cent of Lake township, Barnes stated. The township's present $4 million water system serves only a small portion of the township.

The township system will not serve the Cook nuclear plant, located in the township, because the nuclear plant is required to have an independent water system.

Lake township's water system now serves less than 50 customers, Barnes noted, with the water plant pumping about 5,000 gallons a day, compared with a potential of 2 million gallons per day.

He said the additional water mains will enable the plant to come close to its potential capacity.

Barnes also said no starting construction date has yet been set, but predicted the project should take about a year to complete.

FOSTER PARENTS PRAISED

Welfare Errors Down—Dempsey

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

The Michigan Department of Social Services is making progress in reducing welfare payment errors, Dr. John T. Dempsey, department director, said in an interview here Thursday.

Dempsey was in Berrien county to speak at the third annual Foster Parent dinner sponsored by the Berrien County Social Services board last night at Ramada Inn, Benton township. He praised the work done by a group of husband and wife teams under the Foster Parent program in the county.

Although errors in welfare payments are being reduced, the state welfare chief said the rate of improvement must still be stepped up in order to avoid federal penalties.

Saying the system is much too complicated, Dr. Dempsey claimed that in three areas, inequalities overpayments and underpayments, his department has reduced its error factor from 44 per cent to 33 per cent in less than a year.

In December, 1974, he said, a check showed the department had an 8.2 per cent inequality rate in making payments to like recipients, a 28 per cent record for overpayments and an 8 per cent record for underpayments.

By mid-1975 inequality error was cut to 6.3 per cent, overpayments dropped to 20 per cent and underpayments were running 3.3 per cent.

Congress is considering new food stamp legislation, taking the distribution away from the Agriculture department, Dr. Dempsey said.

Changes in food stamp distribution may cause problems in one area, he predicted. Congress is proposing eliminating families making $5,000 to $8,000 regularly.

"We call them the 'working poor,'" he said. Some seven million families might be effected. The temptation then will be for them to quit working and go on welfare because they will be getting more, Dempsey stated.

Final regulations on food stamps for strikers will be ironed out shortly. A striker is eligible for assistance 90 days after receiving his or her last paycheck.

Approximately 125 Foster Parents heard Dempsey praise their work on behalf of youngsters who would otherwise be put in some institution. There are some 200 husband and wife teams who serve as Foster Parents in Berrien county.

Dr. Dempsey said the foster parent who takes in youngsters is performing the greatest service the state can offer.

Probate Judge Zoe Burkholz presented certificates to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller of Benton Harbor who have served as Foster Parents for 20 years, and to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woodring, also of Benton Harbor, for 15 years of service in the program.

Other receiving awards were: Mr. and Mrs. Everett Carver, Bessie Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lange, Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Gussie Newcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Newby and Mr. and Mrs. Earle Poole, all of Benton Harbor; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jackson and Lizzie Washington, Niles; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Juday, New Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward, Bridgman; Samuel Whitley and Elijah Wright, Eau Claire.

Furnace Sets Fire To Dog's Paper Bed

A dog that pushed newspaper into the front of a furnace was blamed for a fire Thursday in the basement at the Dorothy Brewster residence, 811 Superior street, Benton Harbor firemen reported.

Firemen said Mrs. Brewster had the fire out when they arrived shortly after they were called at about 11 a.m. Damaged were three wall studs and some electrical wiring. Mrs. Brewster told firemen she had placed newspapers on the floor for the dog and it pushed the papers into the front of the furnace from which the door panel had been removed. She said the furnace had been converted from oil to gas.

Another fire Thursday caused an estimated $5,000 damage at Superior Steel Castings company, 309 Graham avenue, city firemen said.

A 20-foot section of a wall in the carpenter shop area was burned, firemen said. Workers using cutting torches that ignited sawdust from saws was listed as cause of the blaze reported shortly before 4 p.m.

It was the second fire this week at Superior Steel.

Lawmaker Named In Complaint

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Scoffing at an assault complaint filed against her, state Rep. Daisy Elliott said Thursday she's never kept anyone out of her committee meetings but won't let people harass her. The Detroit Democrat commented Thursday on an assault complaint filed against her by Pat Barbour, Michigan chairperson of the Happiness of Womanhood (HOW). The complaint, filed with the State Police, alleged that Mrs. Elliott verbally assaulted Kay Pratt, also a HOW member, on Tuesday. The complaint says Mrs. Elliott told her "if you come up here again with your group, I'm going to knock you flat." Mrs. Elliott denied threatening anyone, but said the two women followed her out of a Tuesday committee meeting on a measure that would allow school textbooks to be screened for racial and sexual stereotypes. An aide said Mrs. Pratt testified against the bill, claiming it would prevent her from reading "Little Black Sambo" to her children.

No Pot Shots

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House refused Thursday to take a pot shot at the state's new auto repair licensing law during consideration of a $123.9 million general government spending bill. The bill is $1.2 million less than the governor asked for. The House approved the measure 68-23 and provided that it become law as soon as the governor signs it. The bill was amended on the floor of the House to cut out $35,000 worth of raises for five top department officials. Raises for district court and probate court judges were also halved on the House floor to $340. The measure also includes a $1,900 raise for state appeals court judges; and $1,200 raises for circuit court, probate court, and Detroit Recorder's Court judges.

In a 1975 interview, Mrs. Bailey said her mother held an Indian ceremony to will her the years the mother should have lived. Mrs. Bailey's mother died at a young age when her daughter was a child. Mrs. Bailey was born June 20, 1869, in Oceana County's Elbridge Township.

Wayland Man Charged

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 32-year-old Wayland man was charged Thursday in the abduction of a Barry County girl while police in Detroit hunted a man who abducted a 12-year-old girl and released her a few hours later. In the Barry County abduction, Wilbur E. Reser was arrested when Grand Haven police found him and the 14-year-old girl wrapped in blankets in Reser's car early Thursday morning, officers said. Barry County deputies said the girl was abducted near her home in Middleville Wednesday night. Grand Haven police said she had been stabbed 16 times with a screwdriver. She was in stable condition at North Ottawa Community Hospital. Grand Haven police were at the local airport checking another matter when they spotted the taillights of Reser's car on a nearby dirt road. Grand Haven Police Chief Richard Kienpelt said he did not know until after she was taken to the hospital that the girl was the object of a police search. In Detroit, police were looking for a man about 20 years old who abducted a 12-year-old girl on her way to school Thursday and released her later.

Indictment Says Self-Styled 'Bishop' Also A 'Bluebeard'

NEW YORK (AP) — Deveron LeGrand, who called himself a bishop and reportedly earned about $200,000 a year by having his "nuns" beg on the streets, has been indicted for murdering and dismembering four women. Two of the victims were his former wives.

LeGrand, who reportedly went through marriage ceremonies with more than a dozen of his cult members, has boasted of slitting 50 sons by various "wives" and "nuns" who lived in the Brooklyn brownstone he called "St. John's Pentecostal Church of our Lord."

The bodies of two of the women, LeGrand's daughter-in-law Gladys Rivera Stewart, 18, and her sister, Yvonne Rivera, 16, were found last October in a Catskill Mountain lake, partly burned and dismembered.

LeGrand's stepson, Steven Strong, also known as Steven LeGrand, was indicted with him in the deaths, which allegedly were carried out to keep the girls from testifying against LeGrand in a rape case.

LeGrand was convicted of rape without their testimony and is now serving a 5-to-15-year term.

The other two dead women were Ann Sorise and Ernestine Timmons, both about 30. Both had been "wives" of LeGrand, authorities said.

The Sorise woman was shot, beaten and dismembered in 1963, and the Timmons woman

More Morgue Probing?

DETROIT (AP) — The Wayne County Prosecutor's office has been asked to reopen its probe into the county morgue after the medical examiner said Thursday a large number of corpses have been dismembered by one or more morgue employees. Dr. Werner Spitz, the county medical examiner, said he was going to suspend one employee he suspects of dismembering corpses. Spitz said the dismemberments were linked to his recent discovery of body tissue in a room in the basement of the Wayne State Medical School. A student who worked with the morgue employee said a skeletonizing room at the medical school was used by the employee to strip flesh from bodies and bleach the bones. John Barr, chairman of the county board of commissioners, said the uses were not in the realm of medical experimentation. The first probe focused on Spitz taking body parts such as pituitary glands and brains from corpses entrusted to the morgue for medical experiments.

Millions For Welfare

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Senate approved a $102 million bill to meet additional social services costs after a bitter partisan battle over adding an extra $2 million to the measure. The debate, which lasted into the evening hours Thursday, threatened the future of the bill as Republicans withheld their votes on "immediate effect." Without a two-thirds vote on immediate effect, the measure would not take effect until next April. Meanwhile, state social services officials are holding up about $25 million in payments to hospitals, nursing homes, doctors and home health care providers, among others, according to lawmakers. The bill, passed 21-11 Thursday, returns to the House for consideration of an extra $1.9 million in state money for Medicaid and Medicare programs in hearing, dental and vision services. The addition of the money touched off a fight which led to GOP abandonment of the bill. Originally, the Department of Social Services was slated to get $89.9 million for expenses during the rest of the current fiscal year.

Mayor's Speech Becomes Debate

Staff Writer

A speech by Benton Harbor Mayor Charles Joseph yesterday at Lake Michigan college turned into a debate between Joseph and former Benton Harbor City Atty. Yvonne Hughes. Joseph spoke at LMC as part of the college's Senate Activities week. Atty. Hughes, who spoke at LMC Wednesday on the Benton Harbor recall effort, appeared in the audience of some 20 people at Joseph's address.

Joseph reaffirmed his support of the "full-time mayor" form of government over the present city manager-commission form. He also said his only concern about the upcoming recall election was "for the citizens of Benton Harbor."

Joseph and four city commissioners are targets of a recall election Tuesday. Atty. Hughes, who was fired as city attorney by Joseph's "Clean State" bloc of city commissioners Feb. 12, is a member of the recall drive.

During Joseph's address yesterday, Atty. Hughes challenged Joseph on the Clean State's reasons for firing her and asked him to justify the Clean State's campaign promise of reduced cost of government.

Joseph shrugged off the firing issue saying "I do not want to get into specifics ... and do damage to a reputation."

Atty. Hughes said the city's expenses for attorney services, in the three months since she was fired Feb. 12 have amounted to at least $12,000 when "you (Joseph) promised a lesser cost." (Atty. Hughes' pay as city attorney was based on an annual salary of $19,000.)

Joseph responded that the city also hired other attorneys on a contractual basis while Atty. Hughes was city attorney and said "during the last few months, demand for legal opinions and other kinds of legal work has increased."

Joseph said that there currently is a need for a "massive campaign to educate the people" on the different forms of government "and let them decide."

"The present type of government (city manager-commission) was designed for people with wealth who wanted to maintain the status quo,"

MAYOR CHARLES JOSEPH
Speaks at LMC

Joseph said. "Poor people do not have the patience to go through the politics involved in the system."

Joseph said that if Benton Harbor's government was changed to a "full-time mayor" form through a charter revision election, he would refuse to be considered for the mayoral job.

Joseph said if he was recalled he would have no "personal hard feelings." He said, however, that if officials are recalled, "there would be a vacuum of activities" while new seats are filled. He also said if the recall fails, "it will leave the city even more divided because we permitted ourselves to be involved with outside influences."

Tougher Bail Rules

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Some ex-convicts and people charged with some crimes carrying maximum life sentences would be denied bail under a proposed constitutional amendment in the House. The House Judiciary Committee Thursday voted 8-0 to report out the measure sponsored by Rep. Paul Rosenbaum, D-Battle Creek, committee chairman. Rosenbaum said the measure, which needs two-thirds legislative approval plus voter approval in November, will not violate the U.S. Constitution and will help keep potentially dangerous people off the streets. The measure, a substitute for an earlier proposal, would not take effect until next April 1. Rosenbaum said the proposal as sent to the full House was rewritten in conjunction with the State Bar of Michigan, which has not formally endorsed the measure.

Smilekanka complimented Benton Harbor police and the grand jury investigating staff for their work on the case, and paid special tribute to Marrs and Investigator Thomas

Harken, assigned to the grand jury from the Benton Harbor state police post.

Thus far, the grand jury has indicted 12 men, including two St. Joseph attorneys, six Niles police officers, and one former Niles patrolman. The murder indictments were the most serious so far and were the first to deal with violence.

The other charges ranged from embezzlement to breaking and entering to perjury.

Marrs would not predict when more indictments may be returned, but said: "The investigation is continuing and we anticipate more results from the grand jury."

Amazing Comeback Beats Denver

New York ABA Champs!

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Nets were struggling.

They had fallen 22 points behind the Denver Nuggets with 5:07 remaining in the third quarter of the sixth game of their American Basketball Association championship series.

Their shooting was off-target. Their offense was disorganized.

The Nuggets, particularly David Thompson and Dan Issel, were destroying their defense.

The situation appeared hopeless ... and it seemed a seventh and deciding game would have to be played in Denver Sunday.

Then, suddenly, the game turned.

The Nets, the best defensive team in the league throughout the regular season, began playing the defense that had distinguished them during that time. And because of it, their offense prospered.

They forced the Nuggets into costly mistakes, turnovers that resulted in Nets points or missed shots.

They began to close the gap.

And they were gathering momentum.

The Nuggets, in the championship series for the first time, were coming apart at the seams.

By the end of the third quarter, Denver's lead was down to 92-78. And one period later, the Nets had completed their incredible surge from behind, beating the shocked and frustrated Nuggets 112-106 Thursday night.

The victory gave the Nets the series 4-2 and was their second championship in three years.

"You can only make a comeback like that when you have the guys who can play pressure defense," said New York Coach Kevin Loughery, his clothes dripping with champagne. "And we had them."

Loughery, who also led the Nets to their first league championship in 1974 in his rookie season as coach, ordered the Nets into a full-court press in the opening minute of the fourth quarter with Denver ahead 92-79. It was the turning point of the game.

For the entire last quarter, the Nuggets made only four field goals, two of them layups, after having connected for a total of 38 in the first three periods. Thompson, who had bombed the Nets for 38 points during the opening three quarters, was held to four foul shots in the final period.

Meanwhile, John Williamson got the Nets offense in high gear. He fired in 11 straight New York points, cutting the Nuggets' lead to 96-92 with just over eight minutes remaining.

Then, with about four minutes left, and the Nuggets still ahead 104-97, New York finally charged ahead for the first time since the opening period. Eleven straight points put the Nets in front 108-104 with 1:46 to go, and Denver couldn't recover.

Williamson, with 16 points in the fourth quarter, finished with 28. Julius Erving, the series' Most Valuable Player, scored 31, including 18 in the third period, and wound up with two championship records — 226 total points for a 37.7 average. He also had a game-high 19 rebounds.

Brian Taylor contributed 24 points and Jim Eakins, playing in place of starting center Kim Hughes, who was on crutches after suffering a severe sprain and a muscle tear in his left ankle during Game Five, had 15 points and 13 rebounds.

Thompson finished with 42 for Denver and Issel scored 30. But they didn't get enough help.

"You can't tell me there's a more courageous club than the Nets," said Larry Brown, Denver's disappointed coach. "You can't tell me there's a greater player than Julius Erving."

"I still think I have a great club," he continued. "We just let things get away from us in this series. It's hard for me to realize that we blew a 22-point lead and the chance to go back home and win it all. We just lost our poise."

While Brown found it difficult to believe, the sellout crowd of 15,934 at the Nassau Coliseum didn't. The fans went wild even before the game was over — and caused the last three seconds not to be played.

It really didn't matter, the Nets were champs.

They had done it with a team that was given little chance at the start of the season. They had undergone a big personnel shake-up since last season, when they were upset by the Spirits of St. Louis in the opening round of the playoffs and had become ex-champions after winning the title in 1974.

And it did not appear the changes were that beneficial.

"Coming out on top was much tougher this year because no one outside our organization expected it," said Loughery. "Before the season, Denver, San Antonio, Kentucky and even St. Louis were picked to finish ahead of us."

Brett Remains Hot, Royals Pound Sox

Mound And Palmer 'Flat'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — George Brett smashed three hits for the sixth straight game and John Mayberry belted three hits and knocked in two runs to lead the rampaging Kansas City Royals to a 13-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Thursday night.

The left-handed Mayberry took a .182 batting average into the game, but pounded two singles and a triple. Also contributing to the 16-hit Kansas City attack was Cookie Rojas, who drove in three runs with an eighth-inning double.

The Royals picked up three of their runs in the first off Bart Johnson, 1-4, when Hal McRae brought Brett and Mayberry home with a triple and Al Cowens followed with another three-base hit.

Brett's first home run of the year made it 4-0 in the third, then Kansas City added three more in the fifth and another three in the sixth.

Dennis Leonard scattered seven hits in improving his record to 2-1.

Meanwhile, the mound was "flat" at Milwaukee's County Stadium — and so was Jim Palmer.

"It wasn't really one of my better games," said the Baltimore right-hander. "I kind of got a little tired in the end."

As Palmer lost his vitality, his fastballs lost their velocity and the Cy Young winner had to be content to struggle through an eight-hit, 5-3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Thursday.

Palmer's condition was not enhanced, either, by the condition of the Milwaukee mound — a situation that has bothered Palmer and other pitchers around the American League. Palmer has been the most vociferous critic of what he calls its "flat" surface.

"I got hit pretty hard in Kansas City last Sunday, so it was pretty hard to look forward to pitching in Milwaukee. But you can't do much about it. It's like throwing straight up in the air. You've got to make sure you release the ball from on top, or you'll throw a lot of high fastballs and they'll hit it out of the park on you all day."

In the other American League games, the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 7-5; the Detroit Tigers nipped the New York Yankees 3-2; the California Angels turned back the Texas Rangers 7-5. In the only National League game, the San Francisco Giants outscored the Chicago Cubs 9-5.

Despite fighting the Milwaukee mound along with the Milwaukee batters, Palmer had little trouble with the Brewers through 4.9. But then he was touched for a run in the eighth on George Scott's RBI single and two more in the ninth on a walk and two-out homer by Gorman Thomas.

Rick Miller drilled three hits and drove in three runs, sparking Boston over Cleveland. It was the second straight victory for the Red Sox after 10 straight losses.

Luis Tiant, 4-2, gave up nine hits and three of Cleveland's runs in 6-3 innings. Jim Willoughby, the second relief pitcher, pitched the last two innings for the Red Sox and gave up two runs in the ninth on sacrifice flies by Doug Howard and Ron Pruitt.

Orlando Alvarez, recalled

earlier in the day from the minors, blasted his first major league homer, a three-run shot in the fifth inning, to power California over Texas. Alvarez, a 23-year-old outfielder acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers this spring, played as the designated hitter and delivered his homer off Stan Perzanowski as the Angels built a 7-3 lead.

Montreal Earns 3-0 Edge

Canadiens In Triumph Of Inconsistencies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It was a triumph of inconsistencies. Using at right wing a Venezuelan-born defenseman who hadn't played forward since he was 16 years old; getting two goals from a power play that had been useless in the last two games, and entering the contest with a 2½-year string of winless games here, the Montreal Canadiens still managed to defeat the Philadelphia Flyers in Game Three of the National Hockey League's final playoffs.

The game-winning goal by Montreal defenseman Pierre Bouchard, a low 50-foot slap shot, was screened from the view of Flyers goalie Wayne Stephenson by Rick Chartraw — a 21-year-old Caracas native who was making his first playoff appearance.

Chartraw, who played only 16 regular season games for the Canadiens and last played forward during a junior tournament in 1971, was forced into action when Yvon Lambert suffered a leg injury. He said "I just planted myself in front and tried to make myself as big as possible so I could screen the goalie's view."

That he did. The puck skimmed through Chartraw's legs and beat Stephenson at 9:15 of the third period to break a tie, give the Canadiens a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia and lift Montreal into an overwhelming 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven final. A victory in Game Four Sunday would give Montreal the 18th league title of its 59-year history.

"At the end of the second period, there was that something extra when we came into the dressing room," observed Canadiens goalie Ken Dryden. "We were tied 2-2, we were ahead 2-0 in the series, and we said, 'If we can win the third period, it's really going to give us a good position.'"

The power play came around after just 3:17 of play when a tired Steve Shutt lofted a 75-foot shot toward Stephenson so he could get off the ice. "I just wanted to get it on net and go to the bench," explained Shutt, who was surprised as everyone else when the shot dropped two feet, bounced off the little Flyers netminder and into the net.

Just over 5½ minutes later Reggie Leach scored the first of his two goals, also on the power play, to tie the game. Before the encounter, Philadelphia had scored 10 goals in 49 advantages and Montreal just six in 44.

Leach, harried by Montreal's checking line in the first two games on the Canadiens' ice, broke loose for six shots and raised his playoff-leading scoring mark to 23 points on the 18 goals and five assists. But that didn't seem to bother Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman, who was more pleased to end the 2½-year hex here and pull within a triumph of the Stanley Cup.

Kaline Refutes Manager Rumor

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Tiger outfielder Al Kaline says reports he might be under consideration for the manager's job next year in Toronto's expansion club are nothing more than rumors.

Kaline said Thursday no one from the Toronto club has even called him to discuss the matter. "I don't know how that rumor got started, but there's absolutely nothing to it," said Kaline. "It's the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard."

"Nobody from the club has talked to me about it," he added.

The Toronto franchise would first have to obtain permission from the Detroit Tigers to talk to Kaline, since the former Tigers' slugger is under contract as a special consultant and is still on the club's voluntarily retired list.

If Toronto officials do call Kaline, the former Tigers star says he might be interested.

"I think I certainly would have to consider it," said Kaline. "I don't know if I would take it or not. It would have to be a helluva offer."

Ford Bandwagon Bulging With Lawmakers From Michigan

Michigan's entire Republican delegation in Congress and all but two GOP members of the Michigan Legislature have thrown their support behind President Ford. Sen. Robert Griffin and all seven of Michigan's GOP U.S. representatives in Washington announced their support of Ford. In advance of the upcoming presidential primary in Ford's home state. In Lansing, 12 of the 13 Republicans in the State Senate and all but one of the 44 GOP House members rendered joint endorsements of the president. Sen. Jack Wellborn of Kalamazoo, chairman of Ronald Reagan's Michigan campaign, was the sole exception in the State Senate. The only state representative not on the Ford bandwagon was Rep. Kirby Holmes of Utica, who said he is working for Alabama Governor George Wallace. All southwestern Michigan state legislators indicated they are Ford backers. They include Sens. Charles Zollar, Benton Harbor, and Gary Byker, Hudsonville and State Reps. Harry Gast of St. Joseph, Ray Milton of Niles, Bela Kennedy of Bangor, and DeForrest Strang of Sturgis.

State Seeks Permit For Bridge Fill

*Proposed M-139, US-31
Span Is Unique*

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm-Features Editor

The State Department of Highways and Transportation has filed applications for permits to place fill in the St. Joseph river in conjunction with its plan to build a new bridge on M-139 (US-31).

The present schedule for replacing the Sommerlayton bridge with a four-lane river crossing calls for bids to be opened in November of 1977, and construction to start early in 1978.

The bridge, to be constructed approximately 21 meters (70 feet) east of the existing bridge, will be unique in two respects. The highway department said it will be the first in Michigan designed in metric measurements, and also will be the first using a new "segmental" type of construction.

In response to the applications for fill permits, the Detroit district Army Corps of Engineers and the State Water Resources commission have issued a joint public notice. The notice invites persons with objections or views on the fill work or state water quality certification to file statements with the appropriate agency. Statements must be filed within 30 days from May 3, the date of the notice.

The highway department plans call for approximately 3,380 cubic meters of a granular material to be applied as backfill around the north and south abutments for the new bridge. Also, riprap protective fill, consisting of some 350 cubic meters of a granular material faced by 350 cubic meters of stone, will be placed in front of the abutments.

According to the notice, any person who has an interest which may be adversely affected by the issuance of a permit may request a public hearing.

Statements or requests for a public hearing should be addressed to the District Engineer, Detroit District, Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 1027, Detroit, 48231. Statements that deal with water quality certification are to be addressed to Water Resources Commission, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, 48926.

RUDELL HONORED: Peter Rudell, Berrien Springs school board president, was honored for his efforts for Berrien county's program for hearing impaired children last night. Recognition came at a special ceremony where Rudell's granddaughter, a student in program, gave a speech entitled "I'm Glad I'm an American." Rudell was presented certificate of appreciation by county program and copy of granddaughter's speech. He was on Berrien Springs school board in 1963 when program was begun. It now serves 135 students. From left are Mrs. Peter (Martha) Rudell, granddaughter Sherri Wuszke, Rudell and Carl Bennett of program. Ceremony was held in Berrien Springs middle school. ## Lake Twp. Water System Bid Well Below Estimate

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The apparent low bid to expand the Lake township water system is some $600,000 less than anticipated, the Berrien county board of public works (BPW) found yesterday.

The board in a special session opened bids for the project, which will provide water to about 90 per cent of the township, and the apparent low bid was $3.4 million. Consulting engineers had originally estimated the project could cost some $4 million.

Nine firms bid on different phases of the project, with the apparent low bid being that of Woodruff & Sons Construction Co. of Michigan City. The high bid came from M & B Equipment, of Sterling Heights, Mich., at $4.78 million.

said he was "pleased the low bid was within the engineering estimate," and added all the bids will be turned over to the board's consulting engineers for recommendations as to the lowest and best bid.

Barnes anticipated bonds for the project should be sold in about three months. He also said bonding for the Lake township project will avoid two hurdles, one of which has caused a snag for some other projects requiring bonds.

Some bonding issues are being held in abeyance while the courts decide on issue of where the bond sale must be advertised, but Barnes noted the Lake township project falls under a different act and is not affected by court action.

Another possible problem was the City of Bridgman's attempt to annex that part of Lake township where the Cook nuclear plant is located. The state boundary commission recently denied the annexation, but the city has not signed a "no appeal" agreement.

Barnes noted the city has 60 days from May 6 in which to appeal the commission's decision to court, and said the BPW would wait until the appeal period has expired before starting the bonding procedure. The bids, he said, are good for 120 days from yesterday.

Barnes added the proposed bonding for the project has already received preliminary approval from the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission.

The project will entail installation of some 45 miles of water mains throughout the township in order to bring potable water and fire protection to about 90 per cent of Lake township. Barnes stated. The township's present $4 million water system serves only a small portion of the township.

The township system will not serve the Cook nuclear plant, located in the township, because the nuclear plant is required to have an independent water system.

Lake township's water system now serves less than 50 customers. Barnes noted, with the water plant pumping about 5,000 gallons a day, compared with a potential of 2 million gallons per day.

He said the additional water mains will enable the plant to come close to its potential capacity.

Barnes also said no startling construction date has yet been set, but predicted the project should take about a year to complete.

FOSTER PARENTS PRAISED

Welfare Errors Down—Dempsey

By DICK DERRICK
Staff Writer

The Michigan Department of Social Services is making progress in reducing welfare payment errors, Dr. John T. Dempsey, department director, said in an interview here Thursday.

Dempsey was in Berrien county to speak at the third annual Foster Parent dinner sponsored by the Berrien County Social Services board last night at Ramada Inn, Benton township. He praised the work done by a group of husband and wife teams under the Foster Parent program in the county.

Saying the system is much too complicated, Dr. Dempsey claimed that in three areas, inequalities overpayments and underpayments, his department has reduced its error factor from 41 per cent to 33 per cent in less than a year.

In December, 1974, he said, a check showed the department had an 8.2 per cent inequality rate in making payments to like recipients, a 28 per cent record for overpayments and an 8 per cent record for underpayments.

By mid-1975 inequality error was cut to 6.3 per cent, overpayments dropped to 20 per cent and underpayments were running 3.3 per cent.

Congress is considering new food stamp legislation, taking the distribution away from the Agriculture department, Dr. Dempsey said.

Changes in food stamp distribution may cause problems in one area, he predicted. Congress is proposing eliminating families making $5,000 to $8,000 annually.

"We call them the 'working poor,'" he said. Some seven million families might be affected. The temptation then will be for them to quit working and go on welfare because they will be getting more, Dempsey stated.

Final regulations on food stamps for strikers will be ironed out shortly. A striker is eligible for assistance 90 days after receiving his or her last paycheck.

Approximately 125 Foster Parents heard Dempsey praise their work on behalf of youngsters who would otherwise be put in some institution. There are some 200 husband and wife teams who serve as Foster Parents in Berrien county.

Dr. Dempsey said the foster parent who takes in youngsters is performing the greatest service the state can offer.

Probate Judge Zoe Burkholz presented certificates to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Miller of Benton Harbor who have served as Foster Parents for 20 years, and to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woodring, also of Benton Harbor, for 15 years of service in the program.

Other receiving awards were: Mr. and Mrs. Everett Carver, Bessie Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lange, Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Gussie Newcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Woodson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Newby and Mr. and Mrs. Earle Poole, all of Benton Harbor; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jackson and Lizzie Washington, Niles; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Juday, New Buffalo; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ward, Bridgman; Samuel Whitely and Elijah Wright, Eau Claire.

Tigers Beat Percentages

Staub's Home Run Nips Hot Yankees, 3-2

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Martin played the percentages Thursday night ... and learned the percentages don't always play fair.

It wasn't exactly a clear-cut choice confronting Martin as the New York Yankees tried to protect a 1-0 lead—Chris Chambliss homered off Vern Riffe in the seventh inning—against the Detroit Tigers with two out in the eighth and a runner on second base.

Should lefty Rudy May pitch to right-handed Willie Horton, batting .338 with a league-leading six home runs plus 21 runs batted in, or to clean-up batter Rusty Staub, a .329 hitter with two homers and 15 RBIs but a left-handed swinger? "We both didn't want to pitch to Horton," the Yankee manager said. "If you try to pitch around him you might make a mistake, and he's been hot with men on base. The percentages were a helluva lot better the other way. They had two left-handed hitters coming up and I was figuring it would take two hits to beat us. I didn't think they'd get two hits by left-handed hitters. I wasn't thinking about a home run."

So Martin ordered an intentional walk to Horton. May worked the count on Staub to 22 and then...

"It was a hanging curve ball," Martin said, with a sigh after Staub deposited the next pitch far beyond the 353-foot sign in right field for his 200th career homer, giving the Tigers a 3-2 triumph. "It was probably the only curve ball he hung all game. He wasn't tired. He was throwing the ball good and he'd just made Staub look bad on two pitches."

"Staub was taking the worst swings at May I've seen all year. He was backing away from some dandy curves. If he gets the ball down, Staub doesn't touch it. But a hanging curve is part of the game; I can't fault him for that. He just hung it right up in his eyes."

Michigan's Green

On Hardship List

Irish's Dantley, UCLA Stars Also Included

NEW YORK (AP) — University of Michigan guard Ricky Green is among 26 undergraduates who have renounced their college eligibility and applied for the National Basketball Association's college draft.

Green, who would be a senior next fall, still can maintain his college eligibility by withdrawing his name before the June 8 draft.

The list of applicants for the draft was released Thursday by the office of NBA Commissioner Lawrence O'Brien.

A spokesman for the NCAA in Kansas City said if a player fails to withdraw his name before the draft, he will not be permitted to play in college, whether or not he is drafted, the spokesman said.

Green is considered an excellent pro prospect because of his speed and passing ability.

Besides Green, the top prospects include Adrian Dantley of Notre Dame, and Richard Washington and Marques Johnson of UCLA.

Dantley, Washington and Johnson are all junior forwards and highly regarded prospects.

Others on the list are: Alonzo Bradley, Texas Southern; Norman Cook, Kansas; Charles Daniels, Rice; Johnny Davis, Dayton; Jack Dorsey, Georgia; Edward Douglas, Rutgers;

Newark; Arnold Dugger, Oral Roberts; Maurice Ellis, Marquette; Daryl Gainey, Fairmont State; Reginald Glasgow, California - Riverside;

Lou Hudson, Albany State; Johnnie Jones, Furr High School, Houston; Bernard King, Tennessee; Robert Kelley, Nevada-Las Vegas; Wamel Lamb, Lehigh Community College; Anthony Roberts, Oral Roberts; Wayne Rollins, Clemson; Lonnie Shelton, Oregon State; Hollis Vickery, Illinois Valley Community College; Wilson Washington, Old Dominion; Ray Williams, Minnesota, and Larry Wright, Grambling.

Amazing Comeback Beats Denver

New York ABA Champs!

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Nets were struggling.

They had fallen 22 points behind the Denver Nuggets with 5:07 remaining in the third quarter of the sixth game of their American Basketball Association championship series.

Their shooting was off-target. Their offense was disorganized.

The Nuggets, particularly David Thompson and Dan Issel, were destroying their defense.

The situation appeared hopeless ... and it seemed a seventh and deciding game would have to be played in Denver Sunday.

Then, suddenly, the game turned.

The Nets, the best defensive team in the league throughout the regular season, began playing the defense that had distinguished them during that time. And because of it, their offense prospered.

They forced the Nuggets into costly mistakes, turnovers that resulted in Nets points or missed shots.

They began to close the gap.

And they were gathering momentum.

The Nuggets, in the championship series for the first time, were coming apart at the seams.

By the end of the third quarter, Denver's lead was down to 92-78. And one period later, the Nets had completed their incredible surge from behind, beating the shocked and frustrated Nuggets 113-106 Thursday night.

The victory gave the Nets the series 4-2 and was their second championship in three years. "You can only make a comeback like that when you have the guys who can play pressure defense," said New York Coach Kevin Loughery, his clothes dripping with champagne. "And we had them."

Loughery, who also led the Nets to their first league championship in 1974 in his rookie season as coach, ordered the Nets into a full-court press in the opening minute of the fourth quarter with Denver ahead 92-78. It was the turning point of the game.

For the entire last quarter, the Nuggets made only four field goals, two of them layups, after having connected for a total of 38 in the first three periods. Thompson, who had bombed the Nets for 38 points during the opening three quarters, was held to four foul shots in the final period.

Meanwhile, John Williamson got the Nets offense in high gear. He fired in 11 straight New York points, cutting the Nuggets' lead to 96-92 with just over eight minutes remaining.

Then, with about four minutes left, and the Nuggets still ahead 104-97, New York finally charged ahead for the first time since the opening period. Eleven straight points put the Nets in front 106-104 with 1:48 to go, and Denver couldn't recover.

Williamson, with 18 points in the fourth quarter, finished with 28. Julius Erving, the series' Most Valuable Player, scored 31, including 18 in the third period, and wound up with two championship records — 228 total points for a 37.7 average. He also had a game-high 10 rebounds.

Brian Taylor contributed 24 points and Jim Eakins, playing in place of starting center Kim Hughes, who was on crutches after suffering a severe sprain and a muscle tear in his left ankle during Game Five, had 15 points and 13 rebounds.

Thompson finished with 42 for Denver and Issel scored 30. But they didn't get enough help.

"You can't tell me there's a more courageous club than the Nets," said Larry Brown, Denver's disappointed coach. "You can't tell me there's a greater player than Julius Erving."

"I still think I have a great club," he continued. "We just let things get away from us in this series. It's hard for me to realize that we blew a 22-point lead and the chance to go back home and win it all. We just lost our pulse."

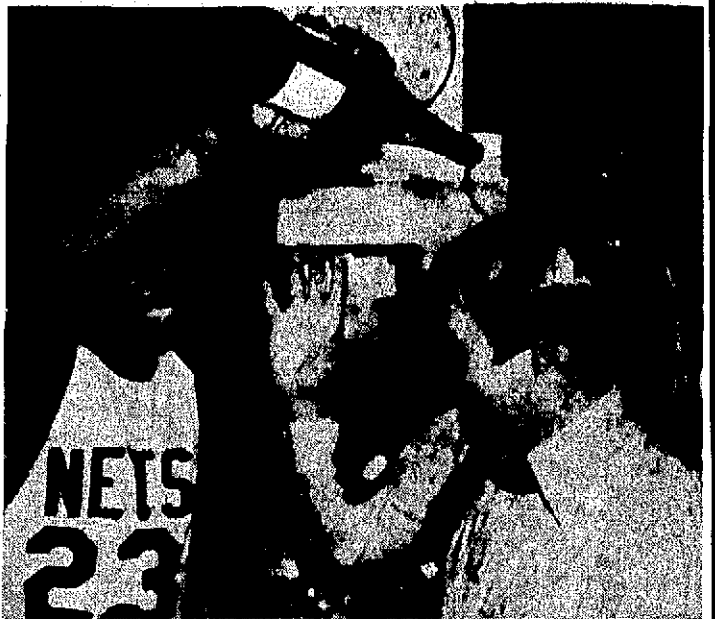

While Brown found it difficult to believe, the sellout crowd of 15,934 at the Nassau Coliseum didn't. The fans went wild even before the game was over — and caused the last three seconds not to be played.

It really didn't matter, the Nets were champs.

They had done it with a team that was given little chance at the start of the season. They had undergone a big personnel shake-up since last season, when they were upset by the Spirits of St. Louis in the opening round of the playoffs and had become ex-champions after winning the title in 1974.

And it did not appear the changes were that beneficial. "Coming out on top was much tougher this year because no one outside our organization expected it," said Loughery.

"Before the season, Denver, San Antonio, Kentucky and even St. Louis were picked to finish ahead of us."

Mound And Palmer 'Flat'

KANSAS CITY (AP) — George Brett smashed three hits for the sixth straight game and John Mayberry belted three hits and knocked in two runs to lead the rampaging Kansas City Royals to a 13-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox Thursday night.

The left-handed Mayberry took a .382 batting average into the game, but pounded two singles and a triple. Also contributing to the 16-hit Kansas City attack was Cookie Rojas, who drove in three runs with an eighth-inning double.

The Royals picked up three of their runs in the first off. Bart Johnson, 1-4, when Hal McRae brought Brett and Mayberry home with a triple and Al Cowens followed with another three-base hit.

Brett's first home run of the year made it 4-0 in the third, then Kansas City added three more in the fifth and another three in the sixth.

Dennis Leonard scattered seven hits in improving his record to 2-1.

Meanwhile, the mound was "flat" at Milwaukee's County Stadium — and so was Jim Palmer.

"It wasn't really one of my better games," said the Baltimore right-hander. "I kind of got a little tired in the end."

As Palmer lost his vitality, his fastballs lost their velocity, and the Cy Young winner had to be content to struggle through an eight-hit, 5-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Thursday.

Palmer's condition was not enhanced, either, by the condition of the Milwaukee mound — a situation that has bothered Palmer and other pitchers around the American League. Palmer has been the most vociferous critic of what he calls its "flat" surface.

"I got hit pretty hard in Kansas City last Sunday, so it was pretty hard to look forward to pitching in Milwaukee. But you can't do much about it. It's like throwing straight up in the air. You've got to make sure you release the ball from on top, or you'll throw a lot of high fastballs and they'll hit it out of the park on you all day."

In the other American League games, the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 7-5; the Detroit Tigers nipped the New York Yankees 3-2; the California Angels turned back the Texas Rangers 7-3. In the only National League game, the San Francisco Giants outscored the Chicago Cubs 9-5.

Despite fighting the Milwaukee mound along with the Milwaukee batters, Palmer had little trouble with the Brewers through 7 1/2 innings. But then he was touched for a run in the eighth on George Scott's RBI single and two more in the ninth on a walk and two-out homer by Gorman Thomas.

Rick Miller drilled three hits and drove in three runs, sparking Boston over Cleveland. It was the second straight victory for the Red Sox after 10 straight losses.

Luis Tiant, 4-2, gave up nine hits and three of Cleveland's runs in 8 1/2 innings. Jim Willoughby, the second relief pitcher, pitched the last two innings for the Red Sox and gave up two runs in the ninth on sacrifice flies by Doug Howard and Ron Pruitt.

Orlando Alvarez, recalled

earlier in the day from the minors, blasted his first major league homer, a three-run shot in the fifth inning, to power California over Texas. Alvarez, a 23-year-old outfielder acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers this spring, played as the designated hitter and delivered his homer off Stan Perzanowski as the Angels built a 7-3 lead.

Lancers Win

Pete Bartschke won the long jump, 100, 200 and ran a leg on the winning 440-yard relay team to help Lakeshore's freshman track team down Milton 69-54 Thursday afternoon at Lakeshore.

Ron Field was a double winner for the Lancers, taking the shot put and discus.

Canadiens In Triumph Of Inconsistencies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — It was a triumph of inconsistencies. Using at right wing a Venezuelan-born defenseman who hasn't played forward since he was 16 years old; getting two goals from a power play that had been useless in the last two games; and entering the contest with a 2 1/2-year string of winless games here, the Montreal Canadiens still managed to defeat the Philadelphia Flyers in Game Three of the National Hockey League's final playoffs.

The game-winning goal by Montreal defenseman Pierre Bouchard, a low 50-foot slap shot, was screened from the view of Flyers goalie Wayne Stephenson by Rick Chartraw — a 21-year-old Caracas native who was making his first playoff appearance.

Chartraw, who played only 16 regular season games for the Canadiens and last played forward during a junior tournament in 1971, was forced into action when Yvon Lambert suffered a leg injury. He said "I just planted myself in front and tried to make myself as big as possible so I could screen the goalie's view."

That he did. The puck skimmed through Chartraw's legs and beat Stephenson at 9:15 of the third period to break a tie, give the Canadiens a 3-2 triumph over Philadelphia and lift Montreal into an overwhelming 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven final. A victory in Game Four Sunday would give Montreal the 18th league title of its 59-year history.

"At the end of the second period, there was that something extra when we came into the dressing room," observed Canadiens goalie Ken Dryden. "We were tied 2-2, we were ahead 2-0 in the series, and we said, 'If we can win the third period, it's really going to give us a good position.'"

The power play came around after just 3:17 of play when a tired Steve Shutt lofted a 75-foot shot toward Stephenson so he could get off the ice. "I just wanted to get it on net and go to the bench," explained Shutt, who was surprised as everyone else when the shot dropped two feet, bounced off the little Flyers netminder and into the net.

Just over 3 1/2 minutes later Reggie Leach scored the first of his two goals, also on the power play, to tie the game. Before the encounter, Philadelphia had scored 10 goals in 49 advantages and Montreal just six in 44.

Leach, hurried by Montreal's checking line in the first two games on the Canadiens' ice, broke loose for six shots and raised his playoff-leading scoring mark to 23 points on the 18 goals and five assists. But that didn't seem to bother Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman, who was more pleased to end the 2 1/2-year hex here and pull within a triumph of the Stanley Cup.

Kaline Refutes Manager Rumor

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Tiger outfielder Al Kaline says reports he might be under consideration for the manager's job next year in Toronto's expansion club are nothing more than rumors.

Kaline said Thursday no one from the Toronto club has even called him to discuss the matter.

"I don't know how that rumor got started, but there's absolutely nothing to it," said Kaline. "It's the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard."

"Nobody from the club has talked to me about it," he added. The Toronto franchise would first have to obtain permission from the Detroit Tigers to talk to Kaline, since the former Tigers' slugger is under contract as a special consultant and is still on the club's voluntarily retired list.

If Toronto officials do call Kaline, the former Tigers star says he might be interested.

"I think I certainly would have to consider it," said Kaline. "I don't know if I would take it or not. It would have to be a helluva offer."

"Before the season, Denver, San Antonio, Kentucky and even St. Louis were picked to finish ahead of us."

"Coming out on top was much tougher this year because no one outside our organization expected it," said Loughery.

Racers Running For Indy Pole Time Trials On Saturday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "There's no problem getting yourself up for running for the pole position here, the problem is settling yourself down enough to go out and do it," said Tom Sneva.

"You definitely lean on it a little harder than you normally would," added Sneva, who held the Indianapolis 500 pole through almost two hours of qualifying last year. "I'm glad we only have to do this once a year."

"From a competitive standpoint, it's very exciting to run for the pole," said Johnny Rutherford, the 1974 winner. "Or rather, it's exciting to be in a car that is capable of winning the pole."

Rutherford, Sneva, A.J. Foyt and Al Unser are among the favorites, and coincidentally the four fastest in practice so far, as preparations hit high gear today for Saturday's time trials that will determine the prestigious front row starting position for the May 30, $1 million race.

Rutherford said he doesn't put much stock in practice times so far, which peg him as fastest.

"I won't believe anything until I see it Saturday," he said. "You never know what A.J. or a lot of these other guys will do until they do it."

Al Unser is considered by many observers a real threat in qualifying, but he wasn't quite as optimistic.

"If we were satisfied with our speeds, we wouldn't still be running in practice," said the 1970-71 winner. "You never know where you stand."

Though their practice speeds haven't warranted too much notice, Rutherford and Unser both consider the George Bignotti-prepared cars of Gordon Johncock and Wally Dallenbach potential fast qualifiers.

Foyt won a record-equaling fourth Indy 500 pole with an average of 193.976 m.p.h. last year. Speeds so far this season have been reduced by new power restrictions.

A late-afternoon rainstorm halted practice Thursday after 32 drivers had made it out onto the 2½-mile track. Gusts winds all day kept speeds somewhat slower than on Wednesday.

Al Unser had the day's best speed with 186.259 m.p.h., in his backup car. He had his primary racer at 188.743 Wednesday, second only to Rutherford's week-long best of 189.833.

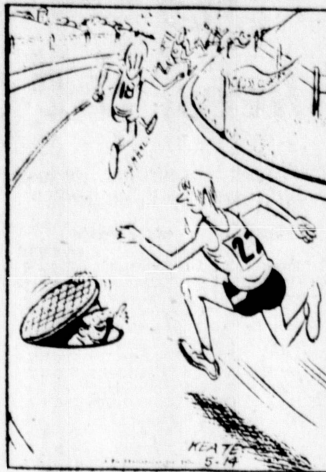

Foyt, who will be trying for the ninth straight year to become the first four-time Indy winner, turned in a 185.414 early Thursday, far below his 189.693 the day before. Foyt also was clocked at 182.471 in his backup Coyote.

Bobby Unser, the 1975 winner here and Al's older brother, had a lap at 184.426 in his Eagle, a little faster than Wednesday, before blowing a radiator hose.

The second-fastest lap of the day was a 186.181 by Sneva in a McLaren.

Bold Forbes Fast For Preakness Run

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It's no secret to anybody that my horse is one of the fastest in America," says trainer Laz Barrera of Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes, who will try to outrun five other 3-year-olds Saturday in the Preakness.

And that speed was much in evidence at Pimlico Thursday.

While Derby runnerup Honest Pleasure walked, Bold Forbes sizzled a half-mile in 45.25.

"He looks better now than he did in the Derby," said Barrera, who added that another horse on the track and the condition of the track were factors in the swift time.

"He saw the other horse in front of him and he just took off," said Barrera. "This track is lightning fast. You can hear a horse's feet on the ground. It's a bit too fast. It's like a concrete road."

But the trainer also saw a plus in the fast racing surface — "On a fast track, the speed will stay there. The come-from-behind horses won't have much of a chance."

One of those come-from-behind horses is Life's Hope, who Barrera trains for Louis Wolfson. Bold Forbes is owned by Esteban Rodriguez Tizol.

Life's Hope, who won the Illinois Derby, also turned in a good work, going a half in 47 flat. "This horse never works fast," said Barrera.

"He usually goes 40 and change." "He's got all the right to run him," the trainer said of Wolfson's decision to send Life's Hope in the 1 3/16-mile, $150,000-added Preakness.

The entry was made the early even-money favorite, with Honest Pleasure next at 6-5. Life's Hope, ridden by Sandy Hawley, and Bold Forbes, ridden by Angel Cordero Jr., will start from the Nos. 3 and 4 posts, respectively, while Bertram Firestone's Honest Pleasure will leave from the outside post under Braulio Baeza.

The longshots in the field are Eugene C. Cashman's Elocutionist, No. 5, John L. Lively; Max Gluck's Play The Red, No. 1, Jean Crugnet, and Entremont's Cojak, No. 2, Anthony Agnello.

With six starters, each carrying 126 pounds, the 101st Preakness will be worth $182,200, with $129,700 to the winner. Post time is 5:40 p.m. EDT and television coverage by CBS is from 5-6 p.m.

It also was announced that Bold Forbes and Honest Pleasure are using Butazolidin, an analgesic which is legal in Maryland, while the other four starts will race without medication.

Bold Forbes has been racing for some time with a cracked right hind heel and used the medication in the Kentucky Derby. No reason was given why Honest Pleasure was being given Butazolidin, and trainer LeRoy Jolley was in New York Thursday.

Mustangs Boost Bud Hope

River Valley just refuses to fold in the Blossomland conference baseball race.

The Mustangs kept their title hopes alive with a 6-3 victory over Edwardsburg at home Thursday afternoon.

There were two other league games on the slate. Lakeshore won its third league game, upsetting Coloma 12-5 at home and Brandywine cruised past Cassopolis 10-5 on the road.

Buchanan stills leads the league with an 8-1 mark but River Valley is now just a game behind at 8-3. Brandywine moves into third place at 7-4.

The Mustangs held a shaky 4-3 lead until Denny Busse came on in the third inning and retired the next 13 batters in a row, striking out nine of them.

Jeff Jackson had a pair of doubles and two RBIs for River Valley, now 16-4 overall. Steve Barella tagged a two-run homer for Edwardsburg, now 3-8 in the conference.

Lakeshore and Coloma were knotted at five runs apiece until the fourth inning, when Scott Smikle and Jeff Caple each drove in a run with a sacrifice fly to put the Lancers ahead to stay. Scott Kimble got the win for Lakeshore, now 3-7 in the league and 6-10 overall.

Tom Frakes, Craig Shafer, Mike Woods, Paul Freer and Dave Goodwin all contributed two hits to the Lancer attack with Frakes driving in three runs.

Don Davis and Dewey Wheeler each had two hits as Gregg Woodward took the loss. The Comets drop to 6-6 in the league and 9-9 overall.

Brandywine unloaded on the Rangers in the third inning as the Bobcats notched nine runs on five hits. Cass didn't help itself much, as it committed four errors and walked four batters.

Mark Bates got the win for Brandywine. Greg Gallas had two hits and three RBIs in the third.

Tony Pompey smacked a single, triple and knocked in two runs for Cass, now 2-10 in the conference and 3-12 overall. Richard Lee took the loss.

Gael Errors Costly, Beavers Win

Galen found out how costly errors can be Thursday afternoon at Eau Claire.

The Beavers took advantage of four errors by the Gaels to post a 3-2 win in a Red Arrow conference baseball game.

In the only other league game,

Hartford pounded Bridgman 10-3 at Hartford. New Buffalo won a non-league battle over Michigan City Marquette 3-2 on the road.

Both Mike Cochran of Eau Claire and the Gaels' Dale Luther were superb on the mound. Both hurlers struck out nine while Cochran gave up just two hits and Luther three.

Galen's downfall came in the first inning when Al Flowers was hit by a pitch and Brian Flowers got on by an error on the shortstop. Cochran then singled in two runs, and later, Dan Briney doubled Cochran home.

The Beavers were just about as generous in the fourth inning. An error on the shortstop put Randy Chase on base and he moved to second on a walk to Denny Williams. Matt Koziel hit into a force at third base, but the third sacker tried to get Koziel at first and threw the ball away, putting men on second and third.

Galen then scored both runs on an error on the shortstop. Eau Claire is now 3-7 in the conference while the Gaels drop to 4-6.

Hartford held a slim 4-3 lead until Denis Huffman iced the win for the Indians with a grand slam home run in the sixth inning. Jim Paskel also drove in a run in the inning with a single and the sixth tally scored on a fielder's choice.

Paskel had three hits, including a home run, and two RBIs for Hartford, 3-6 in the league. Sophomore Greg Winans went the distance for the first time in his varsity career and got the win.

John Jones was tagged with the loss. Kim Herman and Mayo Roth each had two hits for the Bees.

New Buffalo was behind 2-1 until John Tuszyński smacked a two-run single in the sixth inning to give the Bisons their sixth win in 13 starts. Kevin Steinke got the win and Don Balzer contributed a solo home run in the third inning.

Cards' Hoyt Hurls No-Hitter

Tim Hoyt helped Bloomingdale's baseball squad take a better hold on first place in the SAC by hurling a no-hitter in the Cardinals 7-0 victory over Lawrence at home Thursday afternoon.

In other league affairs, Martin moved into third place with a 9-5 home win over Gobles and Marcellus took care of Lawton 13-3 in five innings at the Wildcats' field.

Bloomingdale is now 5-1 in the league while Decatur is in second spot at 6-2. The Raiders had the day off.

"He threw the best game I have seen him throw in three years," grinned Cards' head coach Bill Weese. "Tim had good velocity and kept the balls all over the plate."

Pat Barnes was instrumental in nailing down the no-hitter. He made seven assists at third base and had two hits and two RBIs.

Beside not allowing a hit, Hoyt struck out 10 and walked just three.

Jerry Curry got the win for Martin, now 4-2 in the league.

Robert Vandenberg had a double, triple and drove in three runs for the Clippers. It was his bases loaded triple in the sixth inning that iced the win.

Curry also added three hits, including a solo home run in the third inning.

Kendall Smith had a two-run homer for Gobles, now 3-6 in the league. Doug Adams was tagged with the loss.

Lawton tied up its game with Marcellus at 3-3 in the fourth inning when Randy Mann drove in two runs with a single and John Lepley, the losing pitcher, singled home the other. But the Wildcats, now 4-3 in the conference, put the game away with five runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Richard Collier got the win and drove in three runs with a double and a triple.

The Blue Devils sank to an 0-9 mark in the league and 2-10 in the season.

Lawrence Plans Salute For Retiring Educator

LAWRENCE — The Lawrence village council has proclaimed Sunday, May 16, as Louise

Nicholas day in honor of her 34 years as a teacher and principal at Lawrence elementary school.

She is retiring in June, ending an education career spanning 40 years.

A variety of special activities have been planned to recognize Mrs. Nicholas on Sunday.

A special breakfast will be held for her at the fire station beginning at 8 a.m. The Methodist church, of which she is a member, will have a coffee hour for her at the church immediately following 10 a.m. services.

In the afternoon, the Lawrence teachers and school board have scheduled an open house for Mrs. Nicholas at the elementary library from 3 to 5 p.m.

A graduate of Western Michigan university, Mrs. Nicholas came to Lawrence 34 years ago after teaching two years at Greenville, Mich., and four years at Kalamazoo. For the past 14 years she has been the elementary school principal.

She and her husband, Paul, a retired contractor, live at 314 East St. Joseph street, Lawrence. They have two married children and plan to remain in Lawrence.

On Monday, May 17, elementary school students will hold a special ceremony dedicating the flag pole to Mrs. Nicholas. A special plaque, paid for by students, has been ordered with the inscription, "This flag pole dedicated to Louise Nicholas for her years of service to children."

Steel Company Eyes Monroe For New Plant

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — North Star Steel of St. Paul, Minn., which dropped plans to build a mill in Muskegon because of opposition by environmentalists, apparently has chosen Monroe for the plant.

A company spokesman read a statement Wednesday by J.D. Klemp, the firm's president, that said Monroe "is the most likely location for this project."

The Muskegon Chronicle quoted the company spokesman as saying North Star had completed evaluation of potential sites and Monroe was the leader.

But the spokesman added, "In view of many questions yet to be involved, no official announcement will be made." He did not elaborate.

Ross Field Fuel Is 'Competitive'

Twin City Airport board members yesterday received a copy of the proposed 1976-77 budget and were told by Ronald Momany, airport manager, that according to an informal survey Ross field's fuel prices "are competitive."

The $306,096 budget is scheduled for adoption at the board's June meeting. Much of the discussion of the budget centered around explanation of the state uniform accounting system that the airport is adopting.

Momany said because of the change comparisons with this year's budget would be difficult, but added that the proposed budget represents less than a one per cent increase compared to 1975-76 figures.

Momany said the budget includes pay increases averaging 6.2 per cent for Ross field's 10 employees. He said some employees will get more than 6.2 per cent and some less.

Momany said that the pay raises total $4,582. The budget increase is only about one per cent because of a $4,000 cutback in professional services which include engineering and legal.

In other business, Momany reported to the board that a telephone survey he took in April showed that in comparison with seven other airports in Michigan of comparable size fuel prices at Ross field were competitive.

Momany did not go into extensive details, but said the average of the seven airports was 77.6 cents a gallon for fuel. He said at the time he called fuel at Ross field was 77 cents a gallon. It is presently 78 cents.

Momany made the survey because some airport users recently complained about the price of fuel.

In other business the board:

—Approved funds not exceeding $1,200 to be used by Momany to work up a slide presentation about the airport to be shown to civic groups.

—Directed board members Gerald W. Heppner, James Peeples and Don Ross to supply nominations for the appointment of board officers.

—Was informed that there will be a meeting between board members, airport control tower employees and pilots June 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Alpha Aviation hangar. The purpose is to discuss the future of the airport.

The camping program is aimed at providing a learning experience in which students living with teachers and other students have an opportunity to study the environment firsthand, Schmid said.

Racers Running For Indy Pole Time Trials On Saturday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — "There's no problem getting yourself up for running for the pole position here, the problem is settling yourself down enough to go out and do it," said Tom Sneva.

"You definitely lean on it a little harder than you normally would," added Sneva, who held the Indianapolis 500 pole through almost two hours of qualifying last year. "I'm glad we only have to do this once a year."

"From a competitive standpoint, it's very exciting to run for the pole," said Johnny Rutherford, the 1974 winner. "Or rather, it's exciting to be in a car that is capable of winning the pole."

Rutherford, Sneva, A.J. Foyt and Al Unser are among the favorites, and coincidentally the four fastest in practice so far, as preparations hit high gear today for Saturday's time trials that will determine the prestigious front row starting position for the May 30, $1 million race.

Rutherford said he doesn't put much stock in practice times so far, which peg him as fastest.

"I won't believe anything until I see it Saturday," he said. "You never know what A.J. or a lot of these other guys will do until they do it."

Al Unser is considered by many observers a real threat in qualifying, but he wasn't quite as optimistic.

"If we were satisfied with our speeds, we wouldn't still be running in practice," said the 1970-71 winner. "You never know where you stand."

Though their practice speeds haven't warranted too much notice, Rutherford and Unser both consider the George Bignotti-prepared cars of Gordon Johncock and Wally Dallenbach potential fast qualifiers.

Foyt won a record-equalling fourth Indy 500 pole with an average of 183.978 m.p.h. last year. Speeds so far this season have been reduced by new power restrictions.

A late-afternoon rainstorm halted practice Thursday after 32 drivers had made it out onto the 2½-mile track. Gusts winds all day kept speeds somewhat slower than on Wednesday.

Al Unser had the day's best speed with 186.258 m.p.h., in his backup car. He had his primary racer at 189.743 Wednesday, second only to Rutherford's week-long best of 189.833.

Foyt, who will be trying for the ninth straight year to become the first four-time Indy winner, turned in a 185.414 early Thursday, far below his 189.893 the day before. Foyt also was clocked at 182.471 in his backup Coyote.

Bobby Unser, the 1975 winner here and Al's older brother, had a lap at 184.428 in his Eagle, a little faster than Wednesday, before blowing a radiator hose.

The second-fastest lap of the day was a 186.181 by Sneva in a McLaren.

Mustangs Boost Bud Hope

River Valley just refuses to fold in the Blossomland conference baseball race.

The Mustangs kept their title hopes alive with a 6-3 victory over Edwardsburg at home Thursday afternoon.

There were two other league games on the slate. Lakeshore won its third league game, upsetting Clinton 12-5 at home and Brandywine cruised past Cassopolis 10-5 on the road.

Buchanan stills leads the league with an 8-1 mark but River Valley is now just a game behind at 6-3. Brandywine moves into third place at 7-4.

The Mustangs held a shaky 4-3 lead until Denny Busse came on in the third inning and retired the next 13 Eddie's in a row, striking out nine of them.

Jeff Jackson had a pair of doubles and two RBIs for River Valley, now 16-4 overall. Steve Barilla tagged a two-run homer for Edwardsburg, now 3-8 in the conference.

Lakeshore and Coloma were knifed at five runs apiece until the fourth inning, when Scott Smikle and Jeff Caple each drove in a run with a sacrifice fly to put the Lancers ahead to stay. Scott Kimble got the win for Lakeshore, now 3-7 in the league and 6-10 overall.

Tom Frakes, Craig Shafer, Mike Woods, Paul Freer and Dave Goodwin all contributed two hits to the Lancer attack with Frakes driving in three runs.

Don Davis and Dewey Wheeler each had two hits as Gregg Woodward took the loss. The Comets drop to 6-6 in the league and 9-9 overall.

Brandywine unloaded on the Rangers in the third inning as the Bobcats notched nine runs on five hits. Cass didn't help itself much, as it committed four errors and walked four batters.

Mark Bates got the win for Brandywine. Greg Gallas had two hits and three RBIs in the third.

Tony Pompey smacked a single, triple and knocked in two runs for Cass, now 2-10 in the conference and 6-12 overall. Richard Lee took the loss.

Gael Errors Costly, Beavers Win

The Beavers took advantage of four errors by the Gaels to post a 3-2 win in a Red Arrow conference baseball game.

In the only other league game,

Hartford pounded Bridgman 10-3 at Hartford. New Buffalo won a non-league battle over Michigan City Marquette 3-2 on the road.

Both Mike Cochran of Eau Claire and the Gaels' Dale Luther were superb on the mound. Both hurlers struck out nine while Cochran gave up just two hits and Luther three.

Gallen's downfall came in the first inning when Al Flowers was hit by a pitch and Brian Flowers got on by an error on the shortstop. Cochran then singled in two runs, and later, Dan Briney doubled Cochran home.

The Beavers were just about as generous in the fourth inning. An error on the shortstop put Randy Chase on base and he moved to second on a walk to Denny Williams. Matt Koziel hit into a force at third base, but the third baseman tried to get Koziel at first and threw the ball away, putting men on second and third.

Gallen then scored both runs on an error on the shortstop. Eau Claire is now 3-7 in the conference while the Gaels drop to 4-6.

Bold Forbes Fast For Preakness Run

BALTIMORE (AP) — "It's no secret to anybody that my horse is one of the fastest in America," says trainer Laz Barrera of Kentucky Derby winner Bold Forbes, who will try to outrun five other 3-year-olds Saturday in the Preakness.

And that speed was much in evidence at Pimlico Thursday.

While Derby runnerup Honest Pleasure walked, Bold Forbes sizzled a half-mile in 45.2-3.

"He looks better now than he did in the Derby," said Barrera, who added that another horse on the track and the condition of the track were factors in the swift time.

"He saw the other horse in front of him and he just took off," said Barrera. "This track is lightning fast. You can hear a horse's feet on the ground. It's a bit too fast. It's like a concrete road."

But the trainer also saw a plus in the fast racing surface. "On a fast track, the speed will stay there. The come-from-behind horses won't have much of a chance."

One of those come-from-behind horses is Life's Hope, who Barrera trains for Louis Wolfson. Bold Forbes is owned by Esteban Rodriguez Tibul.

Life's Hope, who won the Illinois Derby, also turned in a good work, going a half in 47 flat. "This horse never works fast," said Barrera.

"He usually goes 40 and change."

"He's got all the right to run him," the trainer said of Wolfson's decision to send Life's Hope in the 1 3-16-mile, $150,000-added Preakness.

The entry was made the early even-money favorite, with Honest Pleasure next at 6-5. Life's Hope, ridden by Sandy Hawley, and Bold Forbes, ridden by Angel Cordoro Jr., will start from the Nos. 3 and 4 posts, respectively, while Bertram Firestone's Honest Pleasure will leave from the outside post under Braulio Baeza.

The longshots in the field are Eugene C. Cashman's Elocutionist, No. 5, John L. Lively; Max Ghuck's Play The Red, No. 1; Jean Cruget, and Entremont's Cojak, No. 2; Anthony Agnello.

With six starters, each carrying 126 pounds, the 101st Preakness will be worth $127,200, with $129,700 to the winner. Post time is 5:40 p.m. EDT and television coverage by CBS is from 5-6 p.m.

It also was announced that Bold Forbes and Honest Pleasure are using Butazolidin, an analgesic which is legal in Maryland, while the other four starts will race without medication.

Bold Forbes has been racing for some time with a cracked right hind heel and used the medication in the Kentucky Derby. No reason was given why Honest Pleasure was being given Butazolidin, and trainer LeRoy Jolley was in New York Thursday.

Rams In Thick Of Race

South Haven got a little help from a friend Thursday afternoon and is now back in the thick of the Wolverine Conference baseball race.

While the Rams were demolishing Three Rivers 9-2 at the losers' field, Osego was ripping apart league-leading Vicksburg 21-1.

Paw Paw had to rely on some late-inning heroics to down Gull Lake 5-3 at the Blue Devils' field.

South Haven is now 10-3 in the Wolverine and trail Vicksburg, who is 9-2, by just percentage points. The Redskins upped their league mark to 4-8.

Three Rivers actually held a 2-1 lead until the Rams scored eight runs in the sixth inning to put the game away. Perry Palanca drove in two runs with a single. Dave Braschler had a RBI single. Steve Gaarde forced a run in with a walk and the rust scored on either wild pitches or errors.

Jody Haumersen got the win, pitching a four-hitter. Braschler, Gaarde, Palanca, Mike Verdonk and Brad Dickerson all had two hits for the winners.

Terry Beutler was tagged with the loss, the Wildcats' third in 11 league starts.

Jerry Ghastin was the hero for Paw Paw. He smacked a bases-loaded triple in the seventh inning that gave the Redskins a lead they never gave up. The other run was scored on a Rick Kendal triple.

Kendal ended the game with two triples and a single. Rod Austin picked up the win.

The Benton township planning commission last night set public hearings on two requests for special permits to change the operations of centers for the mentally retarded.

May 27 was set for a public hearing on a special permit for Maple Grove center at 332 East Napier avenue as a foster home for nine retarded adults. The request was made by Sue Burda, president of the Berrien County Association for Retarded Children, which operates the center. A public hearing was set June 10 on a special permit request by William Lane, who operates a foster home for the mentally retarded at 1629 Colfax avenue, to increase the number of residents at the home from three to 10.

The planning commission also recommended approval of a license for Rosetta Buckner, of 3175 Red Arrow highway, to sell used furniture at 4828 Territorial road.

Saugatuck Pier Permit Sought

SAUGATUCK — Eric Peterson, 844 Riverside drive, has applied for a federal permit to construct a bulkhead pier on the east bank of the Kalamazoo river here 900 feet northwest of the intersection of Riverside drive and Holland street. A 150-foot long timber pier with four mooring piles would run parallel to the bulkhead, extending five feet over the water. The purpose is to prevent erosion and provide dockage for pleasure craft. Any objections to the proposed structure must be filed in writing with the corps' Detroit office no later than June 5, the office said.

Steel Company Eyes Monroe For New Plant

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — North Star Steel of St. Paul, Minn., which dropped plans to build a mill in Muskegon because of opposition by environmentalists, apparently has chosen Monroe for the plant.

A company spokesman read a statement Wednesday by J.D. Klemp, the firm's president, that said Monroe "is the most likely location for this project."

The Muskegon Chronicle quoted the company spokesman as saying North Star had completed evaluation of potential sites and Monroe was the leader.

But the spokesman added, "In view of many questions yet to be involved, no official announcement will be made." He did not elaborate.

Ross Field Fuel Is 'Competitive'

Twin City Airport board members yesterday received a copy of the proposed 1976-77 budget and were told by Ronald Momany, airport manager, that according to an informal survey Ross field's fuel prices "are competitive."

The $308,080 budget is scheduled for adoption at the board's June meeting. Much of the discussion of the budget centered around explanation of the state uniform accounting system that the airport is adopting.

Momany said because of the change comparisons with this year's budget would be difficult, but added that the proposed budget represents less than a one-per-cent increase compared to 1975-76 figures.

Momany said the budget includes pay increases averaging 6.2 per cent for Ross field's 10 employees. He said some employees will get more than 6.2 per cent and some less.

Momany said that the pay raises total $4,582. The budget increase is only about one per cent because of a $1,000 cutback in professional services which include engineering and legal.

In other business, Momany reported to the board that a telephone survey he took in April showed that in comparison with seven other airports in Michigan of comparable size fuel prices at Ross field were competitive.

Momany did not go into extensive details, but said the average of the seven airports was 77.6 cents a gallon for fuel. He said at the time he called fuel at Ross field was 77 cents a gallon. It is presently 78 cents.

Momany made the survey because some airport users recently complained about the price of fuel.

In other business the board:

—Approved funds not exceeding $1,200 to be used by Momany to work up a slide presentation about the airport to be shown to civic groups.

—Directed board members Gerald W. Heppner, James Peoples and Don Ross to supply nominations for the appointment of board officers.

—Was informed that there will be a meeting between board members, airport control tower employees and pilots June 3 at 7:30 p.m. at the Alpha Aviation hangar. The purpose is to discuss the future of the airport.

Benton Hearings Set

The Benton township planning commission last night set public hearings on two requests for special permits to change the operations of centers for the mentally retarded.

May 27 was set for a public hearing on a special permit for Maple Grove center at 332 East Napier avenue as a foster home for nine retarded adults. The request was made by Sue Burda, president of the Berrien County Association for Retarded Children, which operates the center.

Maple Grove center was recently converted from an activity center for mentally retarded. A new permit must be obtained to operate the center as a foster home.

A public hearing was set June 10 on a special permit request by William Lane, who operates a foster home for the mentally retarded at 1629 Colfax avenue, to increase the number of residents at the home from three to 10.

The planning commission also recommended approval of a license for Rosetta Buckner, of 3175 Red Arrow highway, to sell used furniture at 4828 Territorial road.

Saugatuck Pier Permit Sought

SAUGATUCK — Eric Peterson, 844 Riverside drive, has applied for a federal permit to construct a bulkhead pier on the east bank of the Kalamazoo river here 900 feet northwest of the intersection of Riverside drive and Holland street. The application calls for a 200-foot long bulkhead of interlocking steel sheets, according to the Detroit office of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. A 150-foot long timber pier with four mooring piles would run parallel to the bulkhead, extending five feet over the water. The purpose is to prevent erosion and provide dockage for pleasure craft. Any objections to the proposed structure must be filed in writing with the corps' Detroit office no later than June 5, the office said.

SJHS Grad To Get Degree

Cadet First Class Ricky A. Mantei will graduate with a civil engineering degree from the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, on June 2. Mantei is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mantei, formerly of St. Joseph, and graduated from St. Joseph high school. His grandmother, Mrs. Olga Mantei, lives at 2505 Langley avenue, St. Joseph. Upon graduation he will be commissioned a second lieutenant and will be assigned to the Craig Air Force base, Ala., for pilot training.

CROP provides food for hungry people throughout the world, according to Rev. Ronald Eittemann, church pastor. The youths will walk an eight-mile course throughout Buchanan beginning at 1 p.m.

Ford Endorses Ford

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Henry Ford II, who already has endorsed Jimmy Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination, endorsed President Ford on Thursday for the Republican nomination. The wealthy Ford Motor Co. chairman, who traditionally contributes to both political parties, declined to say, however, which of the two men he would support in November. "Overall, I like them both very much," he told reporters following the company's annual shareholder's meeting here. Ford's No. 2 man, President Lee A. Iacocca, also endorsed the President for the GOP nomination as well as in the general election.

"WE SHOULD CHECK ON ROGER'S COLLECTION METHODS!"

Roger is not a typical H-P carrier...

...We know of no case where a H-P carrier used threats of physical harm to collect for the paper.

On the contrary, the customers of a typical H-P carrier have the correct change ready for him when he stops to make his bi-weekly collection. They don't need to be coaxed or threatened. Too many delivered the H-P themselves years ago — or have kids who are or have been carriers.

Anyway, to threaten with the guillotine is gross. As a collection method, a silent tear or a soft sob gets far better results!

Welfare Fraud Prosecution Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecution of welfare fraud cases by the states almost doubled over the last two years but still represented only a small fraction of the 4.4 million families receiving federal-state aid, according to a new government report.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare show that 17,982 cases of suspected fraud in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program were prosecuted in fiscal 1975, compared with 9,172 cases in 1973.

Stock Decline Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices fell again today, continuing their decline on Thursday in concern over higher interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than two points after opening trades and declining issues led those advancing by almost 2-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said a rise in short-term interest rates this week has left the stock market edgy. Yields on bonds moved up late Thursday as the Federal Reserve Board reported another weekly jump in the size of the nation's money supply.

And at the start of trading today, Citibank in New York said it was raising its prime lending rate from 6 1/2 per cent to 6 3/4 per cent.

U.S. Steel was off 1/4 at 63 1/2 in early trading today. General Electric was down 1/2 to 51 1/2, and Mobil Oil was 3/4 lower at 58.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 4.57 to 1,001.10.

New York Stock Exchange issues declining in price led those advancing with a 5-3 margin.

The NYSE composite index of all its listed common stocks lost .31 to 54.43.

And at the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .47 to 105.48.

Pirated Recordings Destroyed

KENTWOOD, Mich. (AP) — On orders of a federal judge, 22,000 pirated eight-track musical tape recordings have been crushed beneath a bulldozer and buried in Kentwood's landfill.

The tapes were seized Feb. 13 during a raid upon the Niles home of Andrew Moore. Moore pleaded guilty to copyright infringements and drew three years probation.

Terry Dillon, an assistant U.S. attorney, and three federal marshals oversaw the tapes' destruction Wednesday.

But Dillon said Moore's arrest and confiscation of the 22,000 tapes is "hardly putting a dent in the business" of pirated recordings. He estimated pirated tapes earn $200 million per year and the problem is growing.

Ford In Holland, Niles Saturday!

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's whistlestop campaigning in Michigan this weekend may prove less expensive than if he hit the same seven cities by jet, campaign aides said Thursday.

In his 165-mile tour from Flint to Niles, there will be no need to rent halls, expensive public address systems, lighting, cleanup fees — all the items that make presidential campaigning costly.

The President also will visit the Holland Tulip Festival Saturday between his afternoon stop at Niles and an overnight stay at his home town of Grand Rapids, aides to Gov. William Milliken confirmed today.

A White House spokesman said the President's stop at South Bend would be eliminated to make time for the Holland trip. Ford is expected to travel from Niles to Holland by helicopter and from Holland to Grand Rapids in a motorcade over Interstate 196, recently renamed the Gerald R. Ford freeway.

No timetable was announced. Ford's itinerary for Saturday begins with a 9:30 a.m. departure from the Flint depot, a 10:10 to 10:30 a.m. stop in Durand; a 11:25 a.m. to 12:55 p.m. stop in Lansing; 2:24 to 2:45 p.m. in Battle Creek; 3:24 to 3:45 p.m. in Kalamazoo; and a 4:50 p.m. arrival in Niles.

He then will visit the Holland

Suit Claims Jailing Was Illegal

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

A man who claims he was illegally held in the Berrien county jail for 28 days filed a civil suit yesterday against Prosecutor John Smietanka and Sheriff Forrest "Nick" Jewel. Eugene Spicer, of 6192 Roosevelt road, Lake Michigan Beach, is seeking $5,400 from the defendants in Berrien Fifth District court's civil division. He alleges that he was held in jail without a warrant from Nov. 7 to Dec. 5, 1975.

According to District court criminal records, Spicer was released from jail on Dec. 5 by District Judge Ronald Taylor. Spicer was released, Taylor wrote, because he had been "illegally detained without warrant from California."

Smietanka said yesterday that he's not aware of the case. Asst. Prosecutor Thomas Gezon, however, said that Spicer was held in the jail because the state of California put a "Hold" on the man when he was arrested.

On Nov. 7, Spicer was sentenced to 14 days in jail, with credit for time served, for impaired driving. District court records show. The man was returned to jail, records indicate, even though he'd spent sufficient jail time to satisfy the "time served" sentence.

Gezon recalled that California had a "Hold" on Spicer for failure to make child support payments. Spicer wrote a letter to Judge Taylor on Nov. 21, asking why he hadn't yet been arraigned on the California warrant.

Taylor freed Spicer on Dec. 5. According to Gezon, arrangements were made in Berrien county for Spicer to make the child support payments here, satisfying California authorities.

According to Spicer's civil suit, Jewel held him in the jail under directions of Smietanka. During the alleged illegal incarceration, Spicer claims, he lost his job as a farm worker, was unable to care for his family, and his family was forced to leave their residence and rely on the charity and good will of friends and neighbors.

Locked-Out Whirlpool Workers Ask Jobless Pay

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Union workers at Whirlpool's St. Joseph division are filing claims for unemployment compensation contending they are eligible because they have been locked out of work.

Mrs. Isabelle Nutt, manager of the Michigan Employment Compensation commission office in St. Joseph, said the MESC's multi-claimant unit in Detroit will determine if the union members are eligible for compensation.

Strikers are not eligible, but Mrs. Nutt said locked out workers are eligible in some cases and in others they are not.

Whirlpool today said the work stoppage at the division is now officially a lockout. Jay Vandenberg, chief spokesman for the division, said last Friday it was considered a strike.

There has been no production at the division since the contract between Local 1918 and International Association of Machinists and the company expired at midnight May 6.

Ed Kepp, business agent for the local, said last Friday: "Our workers are willing to work with or without a contract."

Alfred Romeo, Jr., local president, said today no negotiating sessions have been scheduled after meetings with a mediator Wednesday resulted in no progress toward a new contract.

The company confirmed yesterday it is interviewing college students for possible employment but said none had been hired yet.

Youngster Lectured After Fire

St. Joseph firemen extinguished a fire in a trash can in the alley behind 909 Market street yesterday morning about 8:30.

The fire was deliberately set by a young child, firemen reported. The youth was warned about the dangers of fire and then released.

Firemen administered an inhalator to Donna Blaylock, who was having difficulty breathing, at 915 Pearl at about 5:30 this morning. She was then moved by Action ambulance to Memorial hospital.

At 12:23 a.m. today the fire alarm at Potlatch Corp., Hawthorne road, sounded. The alarm proved to be a malfunction and firefighters canceled the run en route.

Robert Awe, 54, of Minneapolis, Minn., and William H. Bailey, 28, of Manhattan, N.Y., are accused of the violation May 13 in Lincoln township in connection with an alleged stolen car. They were jailed in lieu of $5,000 bonds.

Welfare Fraud
Prosecution Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prosecution of welfare fraud cases by the states almost doubled over the last two years but still represented only a small fraction of the 4.4 million families receiving federal-state aid, according to a new government report.

Figures compiled by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare show that 17,962 cases of suspected fraud in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program were prosecuted in fiscal 1975, compared with 9,172 cases in 1973.

Stock Decline Continues

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices fell again today, continuing their decline on Thursday in concern over higher interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down more than two points after opening trades and declining issues led those advancing by almost 3-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said a rise in short-term interest rates this week has left the stock market edge. Yields on bonds moved up late Thursday as the Federal Reserve Board reported another weekly jump in the size of the nation's money supply.

And at the start of trading today, Citibank in New York said it was raising its prime lending rate from 6 1/2 per cent to 6 3/4 per cent.

U.S. Steel was off 1/4 at 85 1/2 in early trading today. General Electric was down 1/4 to 51 1/4, and Mobil Oil was 1/2 lower at 56.

On Thursday, the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 4.57 to 1,001.10.

New York Stock Exchange issues declining in price led those advancing with a 5-3 margin.

Volume on the Big Board tapered off to 16.72 million shares from 18.51 million on the day before.

The NYSE composite index of all its listed common stocks lost 31 to 34.43.

And at the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .17 to 105.48.

Pirated Recordings Destroyed

KENTWOOD, Mich. (AP) — On orders of a federal judge, 22,000 pirated eight-track musical tape recordings have been crushed beneath a bulldozer and buried in Kentwood's landfill.

The tapes were seized Feb. 13 during a raid upon the Niles home of Andrew Moore. Moore pleaded guilty to copyright infringement and drew three years probation.

Terry Dillon, an assistant U.S. attorney, and three federal marshals oversaw the tapes' destruction Wednesday.

But Dillon said Moore's arrest and confiscation of the 22,000 tapes is "hardly putting a dent in the business" of pirated recordings. He estimated pirated tapes earn $200 million per year and the problem is growing.

Ford In Holland, Niles Saturday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's whistlestop campaigning in Michigan this weekend may prove less expensive than if he hit the same seven cities by jet, campaign aides said Thursday.

In his 168-mile tour from Flint to Niles, there will be no need to rent halls, expensive public address systems, lighting, cleanup fees — all the items that make presidential campaigning costly.

The President also will visit the Holland Tulip Festival Saturday between his afternoon stop at Niles and an overnight stay at his home town of Grand Rapids, aides to Gov. William Milliken confirmed today.

A White House spokesman said the President's stop at South Bend would be eliminated to make time for the Holland trip. Ford is expected to travel from Niles to Holland by helicopter and from Holland to Grand Rapids in a motorcade over Interstate 196, recently renamed the Gerald R. Ford freeway.

No timetable was announced. Ford's itinerary for Saturday begins with a 9:30 a.m. departure from the Flint depot; a 10:10 to 10:30 a.m. stop in Durand; a 11:25 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. stop in Lansing; 2:24 to 3:45 p.m. in Kalamazoo; and a 4:30 p.m. arrival in Niles.

He then will visit the Holland

Suit Claims Jailing Was Illegal

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

A man who claims he was illegally held in the Berrien county jail for 28 days filed a civil suit yesterday against Prosecutor John Smietanka and Sheriff Forrest "Nick" Jewell. Eugene Spicer, of 6102 Roosevelt Road, Lake Michigan Beach, is seeking $5,000 from the defendants in civil division. He alleges that he was held in jail without a warrant from Nov. 7 to Dec. 5, 1975.

According to District court criminal records, Spicer was released from jail on Dec. 5 by District Judge Ronald Taylor. Spicer was released, Taylor wrote, because he had been "illegally detained without warrant from California."

Smietanka said yesterday that he's not aware of the case. Asst. Prosecutor Thomas Gezon, however, said that Spicer was held in the jail because the state of California put a "hold" on the man when he was arrested.

On Nov. 7, Spicer was sentenced to 14 days in jail, with credit for time served, for impaired driving. District court records show. The man was returned to jail, records indicate, even though he'd spent sufficient jail time to satisfy the "time served" sentence.

Gezon recalled that California had a "hold" on Spicer for failure to make child support payments. Spicer wrote a letter to Judge Taylor on Nov. 21, asking why he hadn't yet been arraigned on the California warrant.

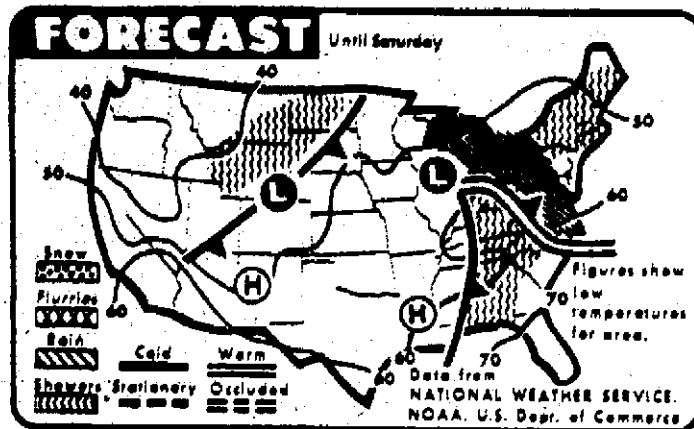

Taylor freed Spicer on Dec. 5. According to Gezon, arrangements were made in Berrien county for Spicer to make the child support payments here, satisfying California authorities.

According to Spicer's civil suit, Jewell held him in the jail under directions of Smietanka. During the alleged illegal incarceration, Spicer claims, he lost his job as a farm worker, was unable to care for his family, and his family was forced to leave their residence and "rely on the charity and good will of friends and neighbors."

Locked-Out Whirlpool Workers Ask Jobless Pay

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Union workers at Whirlpool's St. Joseph division are filing claims for unemployment compensation contending they are eligible because they have been locked out of work.

Mrs. Isabelle Nutt, manager of the Michigan Employment Compensation commission office in St. Joseph, said the MES's multi-claimant unit in Detroit will determine if the union members are eligible for compensation.

Strikers are not eligible, but Mrs. Nutt said locked out workers are eligible in some cases and in others they are not.

Whirlpool today said the work stoppage at the division is now officially a lockout. Jay Vandenberg, chief spokesman for the division, said last Friday it was considered a strike.

There has been no production at the division since the contract between Local 1818 and International Association of Machinists and the company expired at midnight May 6.

Ed Kepp, business agent for the local, said last Friday: "Our workers are willing to work with or without a contract."

Alfred Romeo, Jr., local president, said today no negotiating sessions have been scheduled after meetings with a mediator Wednesday resulted in no progress toward a new contract.

The company confirmed yesterday it is interviewing college students for possible employment but said none had been hired yet.

Youngster Lectured After Fire

St. Joseph firemen extinguished a fire in a trash can in the alley behind 809 Market street yesterday morning about 8:30.

The fire was deliberately set by a young child, firemen reported. The youth was warned about the dangers of fire and then released.

Firemen administered an inhalator to Donna Blaylock, who was having difficulty breathing, at 915 Pearl at about 5:30 this morning. She was then moved by ambulance to Memorial hospital.

At 12:23 a.m. today the fire alarm at Pollack Corp., Hawthorne road, sounded. The alarm proved to be a malfunction and firefighters canceled the run en route.

Berrien Springs Board Members Will Run Again

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

BERRIEN SPINGS — Two incumbent Berrien Springs school board members announced last night they would seek re-election in the annual June school election.

The two were Peter Nudell, school board president, and William Boyd, board secretary. They will be seeking the two, four-year posts at stake in the balloting. Deadline for filing is Monday at 4 p.m.

In a statement read to the board, Nudell said he had considered not running, but decided to continue after numerous appeals from residents.

Supt. Jon Schuster told the board that as of yesterday, eight petitions had been taken out at the school office, but only Rudell and Boyd's had been returned.

In other matters related to the school election, the board approved a recommendation by Stanley Macklin, business affairs director, which will ask those who wish to observe (election observers or poll watchers) the balloting to notify the school business office the day before the election.

Schuster and Macklin said the move was offered as a service to those who wished to observe the voting in the Oronoko township fire station and to insure that adequate space would be provided for them.

Lawrence Scholarship Established

LAWRENCE — A $200 scholarship has been established in the name of Dorothy Jung, a long-time Lawrence English teacher who died last year after retirement.

The annual scholarship, to run for 20 years, has been established by the late teacher's husband, Victor Jung, school officials said last night at the Lawrence school board meeting.

School officials said criteria on which student selection is to be based will include scholarship, leadership maturity and need.

In other action, the board voted to purchase a 14 horsepower lawnmower from H.G. Simmons of Lawrence for $1,815. There were no bids taken.

The board also gave the Brush Creek Neighbors, a Lawrence-area civic group, permission to use school grounds for a July 4 celebration.

DR. HAMMILL HONORED: Dr. Richard Hammill, outgoing president of Andrews university, Berrien Springs, in middle, was presented a certificate of excellence by Peter Rudell, Berrien Springs school board president, at right, last night while Dr. Hammill's wife, Dena, watched. Certificate honored Dr. Hammill for his support of education in greater Berrien Springs area. Dr. Hammill recently announced his resignation as AU president, a Seventh-day Adventist school, to accept post of vice president of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, in Washington, D.C. by Riverwood to students was not worth the costs. He noted that students will still continue to be served by the clinic even though the funding request was turned down.

The board approved hiring Reed, Roberts Associates, Grand Rapids, at a cost of $550 for one year, to process unemployment claims against the district. Macklin said the firm would handle all compensation claims, including appeals.

In a report on energy costs (heating and electricity) for the middle school and the high school, Macklin said that from

Sept. 1 of last year to April 1 of this year, it cost $1,798 less to operate the middle school than the high school, or $22,496 for the high school and $20,697 for the middle school.

Macklin said the report was made after the board was questioned if oil heat for the high school was less expensive than electric heat for the middle school. He said the middle school was 3,000 square feet larger than the high school.

A field trip to Deer Forest, Coloma, by kindergarten students was approved by the board, despite an earlier ban on field trips in order to save money. Schuster said $2 for the trip was collected from each parent at the beginning of the year, before the ban was in effect, and that if the trip was not held the money would have to be refunded.

The board accepted a list of 90

seniors certified to graduate from the high school in commencement exercises next month.

The board voted to notify the state education department that it would participate in a Michigan assessment voluntary kindergarten program next year if selected by the state. The program would evaluate the performance of kindergarten students.

Township Board Delays Action On Resignation

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo township board last night postponed action on the resignation of member, Trustee Frank Cermak.

Supervisor Joseph Svehla scheduled a continuation of last night's meeting for Wednesday, May 19, at which time the resignation will be considered.

Svehla said he did not want to act on Cermak's resignation until Trustee Casimer Krycka returns from an out-of-town trip. In addition to Svehla, Clerk Edward Ohime and Treasurer Joann Fleck were present at last night's recessed meeting.

Cermak, contacted after the meeting, said he had submitted his resignation on May 1. He declined to remaining on his present term.

Cermak, 77, was appointed to the board in March, 1973, and was elected as a Democrat to a four-year term in November, 1974.

In other areas, the board also tabled until next week action on George Behner's application to the state department of natural resources for a marina and dredging permit. Behner is seeking a township recommendation for the proposed project on the Galien river at his property off Red Arrow highway.

The board did approve the transfer of $5,000 in time certificates from the sanitation and sewage fund to the general fund. The money was to be used for payment of May bills totaling $6,672. The action was taken after Mrs. Fleck reported there was only $2,451 in the general fund.

Nameless 'GS-14s' Control Farming, Butz Tells Berrien

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

The most important person in the U.S. Department of Agriculture, according to Secretary Earl Butz, "is some nameless GS-14 government worker buried down in the bowels of the department who can write regulations that are law here in Berrien county."

Stopping at the Youth Memorial building in Berrien Springs last night to support President Gerald Ford's bid in Tuesday's Michigan primary, Butz addressed a mostly-rural audience of about 150 people.

The agriculture secretary talked about "perfectly absurd"

Before the speech he told newsmen that even in his own department "there are just too many inspectors — 20,000 — that can lawfully exercise police powers and put a man out of business." He has cut the number of inspectors some, but admitted that he, too, is "up against the bureaucracy."

In a talk sowed with wit and political barbs, he called former California Gov. Ronald Reagan "another great Republican." But he indicated that Reagan could be "projected" as an ultra-conservative, lessening his chances for election to the presidency.

Ford appeals to the political center and "is more electible in November," said Butz. "I'm just being pragmatic." The agriculture secretary predicted that Democrat Hubert Humphrey, who he called "The big spender," will face Ford in the November election.

The man who said his career has stretched "from the corn field to the Cabinet" drew several cheers from the audience.

New government safety rules that require "good, experienced fruit farmers to go to school to learn how to spray trees (with pesticides) are perfectly absurd," he said.

"We're out to protect the American system — incentive. Can you imagine a Russian farmer getting up at 2 a.m. in February on a zero-degree night to watch the state's sow have the state's pigs?"

The former professor of agriculture economics said "Some legislators think you can appropriate a free living." He said they are wrong: "There's no such thing as a free lunch."

The 1976 Presidential election will be "one of the most crucial ones of my lifetime," the 66-year-old Hoosier said. "We have to blow the whistle on Big Government."

The first $100 billion federal budget was in 1962, he said. By 1971, he said, it was over $200 billion. It topped $300 billion in 1975 and will reach $400 billion by 1977, said Butz.

During the news conference, Butz said President Ford "has invited me to remain on" as agriculture secretary, if he wins in November. And he said he would stay on if "the Democrats try to erase what we've done."

Since 1971, when he took the Cabinet position, Butz has changed USDA policies. He said the most important change was to stop paying farmers for land held out of production.

That practice, Butz said yesterday, cost about $4 billion annually. And the government also paid a share of storing grain, another practice he stopped. In place of grain storage, Butz says, the U.S. should export surpluses.

"Exports permit us to operate our agricultural plant at full production" and maximum efficiency.

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Bernhardt M. Kuschel is retiring from the Benton Harbor school system to end a 37-year career that has made him one of Michigan's most honored music educators.

Kuschel, 60, said his notice for retirement at the end of this school year will be presented to the board of education Monday night.

BERNHARDT M. KUSCHEL

For the past year, he has been director of all music programs in the Benton Harbor district and was coordinator of instrumental music four years. But it was 24 years as director of Benton Harbor high school bands that brought him acclaim throughout the midwest.

Kuschel said he and his wife, Fran, a retired Benton Harbor elementary teacher, plan to do some traveling and "other things for which we've never had time."

"We'll keep our home base here, and I intend to do some private teaching, judging of contests and perhaps some guest conducting."

Kuschel's BHHS symphony bands won Division I ratings 21 consecutive years (1951-71) in district competition and 14 top ratings in state competition.

But it was the Tiger marching bands for which he was best known — precision organizations that many believed were just too good to be a high school band.

What was the key ingredient? "I'd say discipline and hard work," Kuschel replied. "A band must be disciplined and regimented. This improves per-

She Just Gets Up, Goes To School!

By CLIFF STEVENS
Coloma Correspondent

WATERVLIET — A graduating Watervliet high school senior, Diane Sue Divis, has achieved what may be a new record in southwestern Michigan: perfect attendance from grade one through 12, or some 2,160 days of school.

Miss Divis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Divis, 325 Sutherland, Watervliet, has never missed a day of class since she started at Columbus school, Benton Harbor, almost 12 years ago. She has attended Watervliet schools since the sixth grade.

An honor student, Miss Divis, 17, has accumulated a 3.24 grade point average and plans to attend Lake Michigan college, Benton Harbor, this fall. She has to attend only 10 more days of classes this spring before graduating and is being extra careful not to get sick.

She said she began striving for perfect attendance after her first grade teacher at Columbus school, a Mrs. Hurst, gave her a book as an award for perfect attendance. She still has the book which has served as her inspiration throughout the years.

Although her record may sound difficult to some, she said it was easy. "I just get up in the morning and go to school." Her only regret is that she missed some class during kindergarten when she had mumps, measles and chicken pox.

MORRISON CHANNEL SPAN PROGRESSING: Paving operations will continue this week on the Morrison channel span of the new $9 million Twin City bridges. Morrison channel bridge in foreground of photo is about 75 per cent complete, according to Don Taylor, job superintendent for Walter Toebe Co. of Wixom, Mich. Work is nearly finished in stringing 22-ton approach girders to the bascule bridge over the St. Joseph river at the top of the photo, looking into Benton Harbor. Twin 28-foot wide roadways on the new bridges contrast sharply with two-lane bridges Morrison channel bridge has been in use since 1911. Entire project is scheduled for completion in August, 1977. ## ENDORSES TOWNSHIP CLERK

Benton Supervisor Won't Run

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Martin J. Lane announced today he will not be a candidate for re-election as Benton township supervisor — a post he has held 22 years.

The popular vote-getting Democrat said he is endorsing Mrs. Cathryn Sirk, township clerk, as his successor. Mrs.

Sirk, completing her first term as clerk, was reported out of town and not available for comment.

Lane, 67, has 37 years of service in Benton township government, starting as treasurer before becoming supervisor on the death of James J. Jakway, his political mentor.

Now, Lane says, "I think that it's time for me to turn over my supervisory authority. I am grateful for the support I have had through the years from the citizens of Benton township."

Mrs. Sirk has not formally announced her plans for the 1976 elections. In March, Ken Malkin, 26, a Democratic trustee, said he was conducting a poll to determine what support he could get as a candidate for supervisor.

Lane told The Herald-Palladium today he probably will run for some office this year and will make a decision next week.

Lane sold his insurance business several years ago but said he won't be completely retired as he has some real estate to manage.

His tenure as supervisor was not continuous. He was defeated by Charles O. Zollar in 1963 but returned to power in 1970 by winning over incumbent Ray Wilder.

Lane's announcement of retirement told of presiding over the growth of Benton township as a largely rural area to Berrien county's biggest governmental unit in Population.

"After more than 30 years of public service in Benton township, I view the next election with mixed emotions. The township has been a vital part of

In a statement read to the board, Rudell said he had considered not running, but decided to continue after numerous appeals from residents.

Supt. Jon Schuster told the board that as of yesterday, eight petitions had been taken out at the school office, but only Rudell and Boyd's had been returned.

In other matters related to the school election, the board approved a recommendation by Stanley Macklin, business affairs director, which will ask those who wish to observe (election observers or poll watchers) the balloting to notify the school business office the day before the election. Schuster and Macklin said the move was offered as a service to those who wished to observe the voting in the Ormoko township fire station and to insure that adequate space would be provided for them.

The board also adopted a resolution setting down the formal language for the 6.2-mill property tax levy on the ballot.

The property tax levy, if approved, would allow the board to levy all or part of 3.2 renewed mills and 3 additional mills for the next two years.

In other areas, the board, on Schuster's recommendation, turned down a $478 funding request from the Riverwood Mental Health clinic, St. Joseph. Schuster told the board that building principals in the district felt the service provided by Riverwood to students was not worth the costs. He noted that students will still continue to be served by the clinic even though the funding request was turned down.

The board approved hiring Reed, Roberts Associates, Grand Rapids, at a cost of $550 for one year, to process unemployment claims against the district. Macklin said the firm would handle all compensation claims, including appeals.

In a report on energy costs (heating and electricity) for the middle school and the high school, Macklin said that from

Sept. 1 of last year to April 1 of this year, it cost $1,798 less to operate the middle school than the high school, or $22,496 for the high school and $20,897 for the middle school.

Macklin said the report was made after the board was questioned if oil heat for the high school was less expensive than electric heat for the middle school. He said the middle school was 3,000 square feet larger than the high school.

A field trip to Deer Forest, Caloma, by kindergarten students was approved by the board, despite an earlier ban on field trips in order to save money. Schuster said $2 for the trip was collected from each parent at the beginning of the year, before the ban was in effect, and that if the trip was not held the money would have to be refunded.

The board accepted a list of 90

seniors certified to graduate from the high school in commencement exercises next month.

The board voted to notify the state education department that it would participate in a Michigan assessment voluntary kindergarten program next year if selected by the state. The program would evaluate the performance of kindergarten students.

Township Board Delays Action On Resignation

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo township board last night postponed action on the resignation of member, Trustee Frank Cermak.

Supervisor Joseph Svehla scheduled a continuation of last night's meeting for Wednesday, May 19, at which time, the resignation will be considered.

Svehla said he did not want to act on Cermak's resignation until Trustee Casimir Krycka returns from an out-of-town trip. In addition to Svehla, Clerk Edward Olimie and Treasurer Joann Flock were present at last night's recessed meeting.

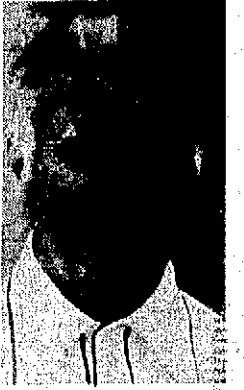

Cermak, contacted after the meeting, said he had submitted his resignation on May 1. He declined to remain on his present term.

Cermak, 77, was appointed to the board in March, 1973, and was elected as a Democrat to a four-year term in November, 1974.

In other areas, the board also tabled until next week action on George Behner's application in the state department of natural resources for a marina and dredging permit. Behner is seeking a township recommendation for the proposed project on the Gallien river at his property off Red Arrow highway.

The board did approve the transfer of $5,000 in time certificates from the sanitation and sewage fund to the general fund. The money was to be used for payment of May bills totaling $6,872. The action was taken after Mrs. Fleck reported there was only $2,451 in the general fund.

Lawrence Scholarship Established

LAWRENCE — A $200 scholarship has been established in the name of Dorothy Jung, a long-time Lawrence English teacher who died last year after retirement. The annual scholarship, to run for 20 years, has been established by the late teacher's husband, Victor Jung, school officials said last night at the Lawrence school board meeting.

School officials said criteria on which student selection is to be based will include scholarship, leadership maturity and need.

In other action, the board voted to purchase a 14 horsepower lawnmower from H.G. Simmons of Lawrence for $1,815. There were no bids taken.

The board also gave the Brush Creek Neighbors, a Lawrence-area civic group, permission to use school grounds for a July 4 celebration.

South Haven's Council Orders Police Tribute

SOUTH HAVEN — Flags at city buildings will be flown at half mast Saturday in commemoration of National Police Day and in memory of City Patrolman Michael McAllister who was slain in the line of duty in January.

The city council ordered the tribute at the request of the local fraternal order of police, according to Mayor Richard Lewis.

McAllister was shot to death when he attempted to question a man walking along a road in January.

Sir Robert Mark Right On The Mark

One of the speakers at the International Press Institute, held in Philadelphia, offered some excellent advice for public officials in a free society. Sir Robert Mark, chief of Scotland Yard, said the best weapon his agency had in the fight against crime was public confidence. What created and maintained that confidence, he said, was providing the press the greatest access possible to the facts.

That is a worthy reminder at a time when some courts and other public agencies in the United States have

Pushers Manage To Evade The Law

As study after study on the subject of drug crimes in the United States show, society, victims the junkies use to finance their habit and the addicts themselves are continuing to lose. The only winners in drug traffic are the pushers who manage to evade the law.

It is they who must remain the prime target of law enforcement, if trafficking in heroin and other hard drugs is not to continue gnawing at society like a cancer. The cost this misery brings to the United States is incalculable, both in lives and property.

Pentagon Opens Doors To Public First Time

Whatever else may be said about the Department of Defense, it has its moments of military efficiency. Take, for example, the Pentagon's bicentennial program. The world's largest of-adopted a contrary attitude: Providing as little information as possible, or at least deciding when the information is to be released, followed in many cases by court orders prohibiting premature disclosure.

These jurists and other public officials are not trying to establish a less democratic forum, but that could be the result if they succeed in dropping a cloak of secrecy on public business. The consequence of that almost assuredly would be a drop in public confidence.

Questionable conduct, behind-the-scenes deals and similar mischief have contributed heavily to the combination skepticism and apathy with which many citizens view their public institutions. The best and only way to remove this unhealthy veil is for public officials to be as totally open and frank as possible.

Sir Robert Mark obviously has the correct attitude, and as a result Scotland Yard — although it undoubtedly makes its share of mistakes — has a most favorable image.

easily identified, but what of the tens of thousands of others who are hooked on a daily diet of mind-wrecking euphoria interlarded with the never-ending need to refinance their expensive dependence through crimes of all kinds? And what of the victims they prey upon, whose monetary losses alone were estimated at $17 billion by the President in his recent drug abuse message to Congress?

Dealing sternly with the pusher will not wipe out the drug traffic, but it certainly will act as a deterrent to some who might be attracted. There is little deterrence in the facts uncovered by a 1974 Justice Department study which found one-fourth the convicted heroin trafficker served no time in prison, and another one-third received sentences of less than three years with parole available after one-third of the sentence was served.

fice building will offer guided tours to the public beginning on Monday, May 17, and continuing through Oct. 1. For those who have waited in interminable lines in the heat, the rain or the cold for a view of the White house, the Pentagon's first experiment in public tourism will come as a welcome relief.

The first tour daily, Monday through Friday, starts at 9 a.m. and the last at 3:15 p.m. from the Concourse, the Pentagon's shopping area. That amounts to 2,470 tours during the four and a half months. And judging by the size of the bicentennial throngs expected in Washington this year — some estimates run up to 17 million — there's an excellent chance there will be visitor demand for all 2,470.

By a word of warning: visitors will be disappointed if they think they can just drop by the Pentagon and join a tour for a look at the Hall of Heroes, the new Bicentennial Corridor, Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine art, the Time-Life exhibit of World War II and the Eisenhower, Marshall, Bradley and Arnold corridors. Appointments must be made in advance by calling (202) 695-1776 or writing Pentagon Tours, Room 3C-1054, The Pentagon, Washington, D. C. 20301. For security reasons, no more than 30 persons will be accommodated at one time, and packages and purses will be checked by the police. The Pentagon tours may lack a certain spontaneity but sight-seers will see what they expected to see when they expected to see it

BH Recall No 'Racial Plot,' Writer Tells Mayor Hatcher

Editor,

I would like to let Mayor Hatcher know that the local recall election has nothing to do with the fact that the mayor of Benton Harbor is a black man. I would like him to know that the workers on the recall committee were predominantly black. I think that he should be informed that a majority of the signatures on the recall petitions were signatures of black people.

I also think that Mayor Hatcher should have taken a closer look at the situation in

would have stayed away from Benton Harbor as the Reverend Jesse Jackson did.

To try to inject racial overtones into the recall effort is so patently ridiculous that even our mayor doesn't believe it. Who are the leaders of the recall movement? Who are the persons who have agreed to run if the recall is successful? It doesn't look like a racial plot, now does it?

I think if Mayor Hatcher was a citizen of Benton Harbor, he would go to the polls on May 18 and vote "yes" the same as I will.

Lincoln Trustee Sees Possible Compromise In Tree Squabble

Editor,

The purpose of this letter is to clarify the position of certain individual members of the Lincoln Township board toward the proposed Cleveland avenue widening and resurfacing project. This project involves seal-coated shoulders for pedestrians and bicycles and drainage ditches. The problem is that many residents in the area oppose the removal of 42 trees which they claim have added character and beauty to the area for many years. I can't help but agree with them.

I support the interests of the people as I was elected to represent the people. I've had many telephone calls from residents wanting to know my position toward the project. It is my opinion that the area does not have a serious drainage problem; therefore, there is not a need for the proposed extensive ditching and the associated removal of 42 trees. Too often roads are straightened, leveled and made smoother, eliminating the character of the streets and the neighborhood and increasing the speed of the traffic. This causes a somewhat greater danger to the residents. There are also some improved safety benefits that must be considered. A re-examination of the aforementioned items at the next township board meeting by interested citizens, after a review of the project by the Berrien County Road Commission, no doubt will result in a better understanding of the project and its final outcome.

There is no question of some of the benefits of the subject project. I have been a staunch supporter of shoulders for school children and bicycles as has been done on portions of Cleveland and now the North side of John Beers Road as it provides increased safety. I believe, however, there is a reasonable compromise that will satisfy the residents of the area as well as the general public.

Lincoln Twp. Trustee

Named as general chairman was Eau Claire Fruit Grower Wesley Prillwitz. Picked as vice chairman was Robert Pagel of Berrien Springs.

Start of construction of a new Berrien county juvenile detention home early this summer, probably on county property near the county hospital and infirmary at Berrien Center, appeared in the making today. The board of supervisors Monday authorized its health and welfare committee to proceed at once to advertise for construction bids for a $100,000 structure.

Decision to move the headquarters of the Michigan Children's Aid society from St. Joseph to Detroit, and the election of Colonel Edwin S. George of Detroit as president to succeed A.H. ## 'Sunset Law' An Opportunity WASHINGTON — If this year's crop of presidential candidates really wanted to take a slap at the chickweed-like growth of Washington agencies, and at bureaucratic inefficiency, they have the opportunity. And a good example to call attention to.

The Colorado state legislature earlier this year passed what Common Cause calls a Sunset Law, automatically ending the life of every — well, almost every — regulatory and licensing agency in the state — 79 of them — normally at the end of six years, on a staggered schedule. The only way an agency can be saved is by a positive vote of the legislature.

But before the legislature can breathe life into an agency whose time has come, it must run a detailed audit of that agency's work. It must hold public hearings, listen to testimony from irate citizens, from the agency and anyone else wishing to speak. The agency has the burden of proving the public need for its continued existence.

It must prove to the legislature that it is fulfilling the objectives set at the time it was created, that it is performing its task in an effective, responsible and positive manner. It must show there is a continuing and future need for the public service provided, that the agency being studied is capable of fulfilling that need. The agency must also be able to prove that it has encouraged public participation in making its rules and decisions as opposed to participation solely by the persons it regulates.

And finally, the agency must prove that its programs do not duplicate those of other agencies.

The Rocky Mountain News, observing that hearings are the guts of the program, suggests the legislature must hear from those unfairly kept from practicing a profession or trade by licensing policies, those who can show that "minimum prices" enforced by regulation are unrealistic and high, those who can demonstrate an agency's anticompetitive or anticonsumer practices, those who can show an agency is irresponsible or ineffective in dealing with wrongdoing in its field, those whose complaints were ignored or shelved without good reason and those who can show an agency is not cost effective.

If the legislature is impressed, the agency or board is allowed to continue whole, or is revamped, emasculated or merged with another body. The complete live-or-die process is repeated at the end of six years.

Significantly, the Colorado law covers such powerful agencies as the public utilities commission, the division of insurance, the real estate commission, the board of medical examiners, the divisions of banking, savings and loan and securities.

Somewhat similar proposals are now before Congress. Hearings are being held as this is written. As now conceived, one measure would require a thoroughgoing review of our most powerful regulatory agencies.

I have not been able to determine that any of the presidential candidates committed in the most urgent terms to the eradication of bureaucratic proliferation have testified at these hearings. Jimmy Carter, in speeches, has talked vaguely of zero budgeting; but one gets no details.

President Ford and his administration men likewise have not been pressing Congress to push with vigor for these measures. But perhaps Mr. Ford is discouraged. It must be said in all fairness that he did send to Congress several lists of programs he recommended be dropped.

The Cardinal's Great Tragedy

Humberto Cardinal Medeiros of Boston, for whom I have the greatest sympathy and personal admiration, finds himself in a tragic predicament. It is also an explicitly religious predicament, though he does not recognize it as such.

Cardinal Medeiros is a startlingly holy man. You sense this immediately in his presence. It is a quality impossible to communicate in a few words here; but eternity is somehow an integral part of his being.

As the cardinal recently said in an immensely moving interview, "I have another Master. He doesn't belong to this world. I have another Rule of Life, and I have to admit it is not easy to live by it in today's world."

Yet, paradoxically and tragically, this holy and Christian man has seen his moral authority among Boston Catholics approach the vanishing point precisely because he has embraced one of the most transparently false gods of our secular world, a god besides whom Moloch or Mammon, or Pan or Eros look positively plausible and endearing.

Boston politicians and media types seeking a fall-guy or a spectacular have been pressuring the cardinal to visit his flock in the city.

He knows better: "Why should I go? To get stoned? Is that what they'd like to see? I am not afraid to get stoned thrown at me. But I am afraid for Boston. It does not need the opprobrium of national headlines saying their archbishop was stoned . . . I've been turned off in South Boston, anyhow. No one there is listening to me. Eighty per cent of the Catholics in South Boston do not attend mass or go to church. And it contributes to their attitude toward forced busing."

And, of course, there you have it From the beginning of the racial busing controversy in Boston the cardinal has been solidly for busing. Mistakenly enough, the cardinal attributes his loss of leadership to the "secularism" of other people.

But the whole case for busing has little enough to do with the message of the church or with divine grace. Busing was not dreamed up by Christian thinkers. It was dreamed up by secular social engineers.

The case for busing rests on the assertion that mixing the races in a classroom will enhance the academic performance of the blacks, a claim that has long since been exploded.

The case for busing improves, secondarily, that it will improve racial understanding and harmony, a claim sufficiently refuted by the current catastrophic condition of Boston, where race has been thrust into the forefront of everyone's consciousness.

It is a painful paradox that Cardinal Medeiros, this most religious of men, has come to grief through his own support of the sleaziest of secular superstitions.

Why? Did the little gods of current fashionable opinion seem too powerful to resist? Where the academic and ideological gods too strong for him? Even now, all he need do is say, "I was wrong. Racial busing is a delusion."

And the false gods would fade away, as they did on the morning of Christ's nativity.

Sec. Kissinger Urges Questions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger should hold talks with Soviet and other Eastern European leaders about their alleged failure to carry out human rights provisions of the Helsinki accords, says Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif.
